- 1er juillet 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - « Does UK-based Interim Analysis of CDC's VAERS Reveals 5% of Deaths Likely Associated with COVID-19 Vaccine? »

  « Recently, a group of researchers working out of both the UK (Queen Mary University, University of Birmingham, Network Rail, Health Informatics and Knowledge Engineering Research Group) and New Zealand (Massey University) conducted a study, in the form of a preliminary analysis, of adverse events associated with the COVID-19 vaccine. Titled "Analysis of COVID-19 vaccine death reports from the Vaccine Adverse Events Reporting Systems (VAERS)," the authors conclude with a sample of the early death data reported in VAERS—this equates to 250 out of the 1,644 deaths recorded up to April 2021. The interim analysis authors asked what many consider a supreme question here given growing concern, at least among some societal cohorts about the COVID-19 vaccine program: are the COVID-19 vaccines, currently under emergency use authorization (EUA) in America a cause or contributor to any deaths? The researchers counter the common disclaimer that contribution to the VAERS database comes solely from the lay public, hence the data is wildly unreliable. Not the case here, suggests the study authors, vowing that "at least 67%" originate from health service employees." The study authors further posit that only 14% of these deaths can be conclusively determined as disassociated with the vaccine. Thus 86% of the 250 deaths (N=215) were scrutinized for some material connection. They concluded that while the overall data set has an inherent bias (e.g. those first vaccinated tended to be elderly or count higher rates of comorbidities) by employing a rigorous, two-part clinical review they are able to drive considerable bias out of their analysis and conclude that 13 of the 250 deaths included in the interim analysis are highly likely to be associated directly with the COVID-19 vaccine. Of course, this interim analysis isn't peer-reviewed and won't be eligible as worthy of evidence at this point among government agencies. But the methodical review is worthy of note, particularly as the group continues to analyze the rest of the 1,644 deaths for ensuing analysis. The study can be reviewed here. »

- 2 juillet 2021 : France - Vaccination Obligatoire - « Vaccination obligatoire Covid : prochainement ? Qui serait concerné ? »

  « La vaccination pourrait devenir obligatoire pour les professionnels de santé. L'idée n'est encore qu'au stade de projet mais le sujet est abordé régulièrement par les membres du gouvernement. Le ministre de la Santé, Olivier Véran, a estimé le 29 juin dans la matinale de France Info que cela été envisageable selon la situation épidémique. Et au soir du 1er juillet, une source gouvernementale a fait savoir au même média qu'un projet de loi pour rendre la vaccination obligatoire aux soignants des hôpitaux et des Ehpad était en cours de discussion. Pour le moment, le vaccin serait obligatoire uniquement si le taux de personnes vaccinées ne dépassait pas les 80% d'ici septembre.

  L'obligation pourrait être étendue à tous les Français. Le débat est ouvert et, selon LCI, plusieurs sénateurs souhaitent que la vaccination obligatoire soit appliquée pour toute la population âgée de 24 à 59 ans, alors qu'aujourd'hui la moitié de cette tranche d'âge n'est pas vaccinée. La Haute autorité de santé s'est aussi exprimée dans un communiqué publié le 1er juillet, et estime que le vaccin ne doit pas devenir obligatoire dans l'immédiat mais qu'en "fonction de l'évolution du contexte épidémique (...) l'obligation vaccinale pourrait s'étendre à l'ensemble de la population". La présidente de l'organisation a même été plus loin en indiquant qu'il "faudra envisager la vaccination obligatoire aux plus de 12 ans en France". »

- 2 juillet 2021 : France - Vaccination Obligatoire - « Vaccination obligatoire pour tous les adultes : un sujet poussé sur le devant de la scène »

  « La Cour européenne des droits de l'Homme, la Haute Autorité de la Santé, le Sénat, le ministère de la Santé… Tous évoquent de plus en plus la possibilité de rendre la vaccination obligatoire pour les adultes en France.

  La vaccination contre le Covid-19 va-t-elle devenir obligatoire ? C'est en tout cas ce que semblent souhaiter de plus en plus d'instances de santé et d'organes décisionnels en France. Le 1er juillet 2021, lors d'une session au Sénat, plusieurs parlementaires ont préconisé de rendre la vaccination obligatoire pour les 24-59 ans. Ce vendredi 2 juillet, la présidente du collège de la Haute autorité de Santé s'est elle déclarée en faveur d'une vaccination obligatoire pour tous les Français de plus de 12 ans.

Plusieurs fois, Emmanuel Macron et ses ministres se sont prononcés contre cette obligation. Depuis plusieurs semaines, Olivier Véran tente cependant d'inciter les soignants à se faire vacciner, laissant entendre qu'ils pourraient y être forcés en septembre.

Pour certains experts, le gouvernement devra se résoudre à rendre la vaccination obligatoire si le nombre de personnes vaccinées n'augmente pas suffisamment. Dominique Le Guludec, présidente du collège de la Haute autorité de Santé, a donc déclaré sur BFMTV-RMC ce vendredi 2 juillet qu'en « fonction de la situation épidémique, en fonction du taux de vaccination qu'on aura atteint, il faudra l'envisager » pour les plus de 12 ans en général. L'experte ne veut pas « stigmatiser les soignants, qui ont quand même beaucoup donné dans cette crise » mais elle insiste sur la nécessité de vacciner le plus de monde possible.

« On a une arme. On a le choix de se retrouver à l'automne dans la situation de l'année dernière avec un pic épidémique et des restrictions sanitaires ou on a le choix d'aller se faire massivement vacciner. Je ne peux qu'exhorter tout le monde à se faire vacciner parce qu'aujourd'hui on a une chance inouïe d'avoir des vaccins qui marchent contre les variants », insiste-t-elle encore.

Même son de cloche au Sénat la veille. « 34 millions de Français ont reçu une dose. C'est insuffisant, il en faut 10 millions de plus », a affirmé Bernard Jomier, médecin généraliste et sénateur de Paris. Le parlementaire et ses collègues veulent promouvoir la stratégie "aller vers" : une campagne de vaccination qui se déplace vers les endroits et les populations les moins protégées.

Public Sénat rapporte également le message relayé par de nombreux sénateurs : « La vaccination des soignants est légitime. Mais son impact n'est pas de nature à changer totalement l'épidémie. Les 18-59 ans sont très contributifs à la circulation du virus. Une décision doit être prise d'ici mi-juillet », a ajouté Bernard

Jomier, qui milite pour la vaccination obligatoire des 24-59 ans. Les sénateurs demandent « la saisine en urgence du Haut Conseil de la santé publique et de la Conférence nationale de santé, afin que l'avis de ces deux organismes […] puisse asseoir la légitimité des décisions à venir. »

- 3 juillet 2021 : Industrie Pharmaceutique - Condamnations - Antécédents Criminels - J&J - Pfizer - « Johnson & Johnson Agrees to Pay $263 Million in New York Opioid Settlement »

« Johnson & Johnson causes all sorts of health problems

The pharmaceutical giant knew for decades that its baby powder was tainted with carcinogenic asbestos and chose to keep that information from regulators and the public. A government-funded study from the mid-1990s found that Johnson's baby powder caused cancer in rats and other studies have found an increased risk of cancer in women who used the company's talc-based products.

In 2018, the company was ordered to pay $4.7 billion to thousands of victims who reportedly developed cancer from using Johnson & Johnson's products. In that case, 22 women alleged the company's talc-based products, including its baby powder, contained the known carcinogen, asbestos, which caused them to develop cancer. According to reports, there are over 9,000 similar talc lawsuits against the company.

These cases may have contributed to the hesitancy of many Americans to take the coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccine manufactured by Johnson & Johnson – one of the three COVID-19 vaccines to receive emergency use authorization (EUA) from the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). The other two were manufactured by Pfizer and Moderna.

Pfizer has long history of misleading public about its drugs Pfizer also had a long history of misleading the public about its drugs.

In 2000, the Washington Post published a major exposé accusing Pfizer of testing a dangerous new antibiotic called Trovan on children in Nigeria without receiving proper consent from their parents. The experiment occurred during a 1996 meningitis epidemic in the West African country.

In 2001, Pfizer was sued in U.S. federal court by thirty Nigerian families, who accused the company of using their children as human guinea pigs. (Related: MAKING A KILLING: Pfizer demands global indemnity against lawsuits before it provides Wuhan coronavirus vaccines.)

Interestingly, the Washington Post is now defending the same company in regards to COVID-19 vaccine.

Pfizer pays $2.3B in largest health care fraud settlement

The pharmaceutical giant also paid out $2.3 billion in 2009 to resolve criminal and civil liability arising from the illegal promotion of certain pharmaceutical products. It was the largest health care fraud settlement in the history of the Department of Justice.

Pharmacia & Upjohn Company Inc., a subsidiary of Pfizer, has agreed to plead guilty to a felony violation of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act for misbranding Bextra with the intent to defraud or mislead. Bextra is an anti-inflammatory drug that Pfizer pulled from the market in 2005.

The company agreed to pay a criminal fine of $1.195 billion, the largest criminal fine ever imposed in the U.S. for any matter. Pharmacia & Upjohn also forfeited $105 million, for a total criminal resolution of $1.3 billion. »

- 3 juillet 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Origine des Variants - « Les vaccins anti-Covid-19 pourraient être à l'origine de variants, selon des experts israéliens et européens »

« En janvier, un rapport du service de renseignement des forces de défense israéliennes (pdf) mettait en garde contre le fait que le programme de vaccination de masse en Israël pourrait créer une mutation résistante aux vaccinsCovid-19. Préparé pour le Centre national d'information et de connaissances sur le coronavirus, le rapport indiquait que « la campagne de vaccination de masse qui se déroule parallèlement à l'épidémie active en Israël peut 'pousser le virus à évoluer' ».

En mai, Luc Montagnier de l'Institut Pasteur, le virologue dont la découverte du VIH lui a valu un prix Nobel en 2008, a averti que les vaccins Covid-19 suscitent des variants plus mortels. « Je fais des expériences à l'Institut avec des patients qui sont tombés malades du coronavirus après avoir été vaccinés. Je vais vous montrer qu'ils sont en train de créer des variants résistants au vaccin », a-t-il déclaré lors d'une interview en France. 'Ce sont les anticorps produits par le virus qui permettent à une infection de se renforcer.[…] Il est clair que les nouveaux variants sont créés […] grâce à la vaccination.' »

- 4 juillet 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Nombre de Morts - « Might COVID Injections Reduce Lifespan? »

« How Many Have Actually Died From the COVID Shots?
As noted by Zelenko, underreporting is part of the problem we're facing. The real number of side effects is impossible to determine, given the fact that the Food and Drug Administration didn't insist on a robust post-vaccination data collection system, but it's most certainly higher than what VAERS is listing.

"If you look at the VAERS [vaccine adverse event reporting system], which in my opinion is a piece of garbage … as of today, let's say says there's 6,000 deaths associated with taking the vaccine. Well, we need to understand what that actually means," Zelenko says.

"If you look at the 2009 Harvard study on the VAERS system, they said only 1% of events are actually reported. So, OK … whatever the number is, it's not 6,000. Maybe only 10% are being reported. I don't know. But definitely it's being underreported.

And then there's two [additional] big problems. There's evidence coming out that VAERS reports that have been filed are being erased off the server, No. 1. No. 2, I personally know of two dozen cases of deaths associated with the vaccine, and the doctor and/or family members that tried to file a VAERS report, their reports were rejected due to some technicality.

The fact that they all couldn't make a report, that raises my eyebrows. What percentage of the information are we actually seeing? The answer is, I estimate, there are already around 200,000 dead Americans, directly related to the vaccinations."

To get to that number, Zelenko assumes only 10%[5] of adverse effects are reported. Studies have indicated it could be as low as 1%.[6,7] That gives us a death toll of about 60,000, to which he adds another 140,000 given the fact that reports are being scrubbed and refused.

"The point is that it should definitely raise eyebrows and have the public start screaming and saying, 'We want to know the truth. We want to know the accurate numbers. Stop suppressing the truth … I want to be able to make an informed choice whether or not I want to take this injection.' And that's not being given to the people.

My problem is not with the vaccine. My problem is with the government, governing bodies and certain people that are obstructing the flow of life saving information and suppressing the truth from people, and then using coercion to force people to take this vaccine. That's the nefarious part.

The suppression is so blatant and so overt that doctors with impeccable credentials are being deplatformed for just voicing an opinion. And then you couple that together with proven prehospital treatment approaches and protocols that have been proven to reduce hospitalization and death by 85%, and that information is being suppressed.

So here you have a dual censorship where the positive, hopeful, life-saving information is being suppressed and the dangerous outcomes of the vaccination approach is being suppressed. It's a perfect setup for genocide." »

  The law is currently at the level of a mere proposal but worrisomely it would elevate matters of public health to the level of 'national security' - as El País spells out based on a translation of its reporting: "Any person of legal age shall be obliged to carry out the 'personal obligations' required by the competent authorities, following the guidelines of the National Security Council, when a state of crisis is declared in Spain. In this case, all citizens without exception must comply with the orders and instructions issued by the authorities." »

  « The UK is one of the most vaccinated countries in the world against Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19). Out of the nation's 68 million people, more than 45 million have received at least a single dose, and over 33 million have been fully vaccinated. However, a new report released by Public Health England (PHE) highlighted the fact that in the past few months, more fully vaccinated people have died from the Delta variant compared to unvaccinated people.

The report, titled "SARS-CoV-2 variants of concern and variants under investigation in England, Technical briefing 16," examined 60,624 Delta infections between February 1 and June 14, of which 35,521 cases were observed in unvaccinated individuals and 4,087 cases were seen in fully vaccinated individuals who got infected at least 14 days after their second dose.

The death rate for fully vaccinated individuals was 0.636 percent, which was 6.6 times higher than the unvaccinated death rate of 0.0957 percent. 26 deaths were reported among the fully vaccinated individuals, compared to 34 deaths in the unvaccinated. The death rates among fully vaccinated and unvaccinated individuals were both below one percent.

Fully vaccinated individuals were also found to be more prone to hospitalization than their unvaccinated counterparts. Out of the 4,087 fully vaccinated people, 2.05 percent (84 people) ended up in a hospital. Among the 35,521 unvaccinated people, only 1.48 percent (527 people) were hospitalized.

In an interview with LifeSiteNews, Stephanie Seneff, a senior researcher at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Computer Science and Artificial Intelligence Laboratory (MIT CSAIL), says that the situation is reminiscent of a phenomenon seen among other vaccines called antibody dependent enhancement (ADE). »

- 5 juillet 2021 : OMS - Immunité de Groupe - Changement de Définition - Vaccination - « New Normal Newspeak #1: "Herd Immunity" »

  « Ever since the beginning of the "pandemic", and its transition into the clear "New Normal" (or "Great Reset) agenda, the English language itself has become a battleground. Words and phrases are being stretched and twisted into new, bizarre or contradictory meanings, or weighted with implications that never existed before.

  "New Normal Newspeak" is our attempt to catalogue these changes, and stop the real meaning of words being memory-holed forever.

  Our first example is a very, very literal one.

The phrase “Herd Immunity” has existed for decades, and most of us had probably come across it at some point prior to March 2020. It had a clear meaning, which was available from (among other places) the World Health Organization website:

Herd immunity is the indirect protection from an infectious disease that happens when a population is immune either through vaccination or immunity developed through previous infection.”

However, after the “pandemic” hit, this erstwhile totally uncontroversial theory became the subject of fierce debate, and proponents of it suddenly found themselves described as “genocidal”.

It was at this point that the WHO changed their website, updating their definition of “herd immunity” to totally remove the concept of “natural immunity”:

‘Herd immunity’, also known as ‘population immunity’, is a concept used for vaccination, in which a population can be protected from a certain virus if a threshold of vaccination is reached. Herd immunity is achieved by protecting people from a virus, not by exposing them to it.

You can check their old site through the wayback machine, or with this screencap (in case the archive gets wiped)

Vaccination has never before been considered the only path to herd immunity and adding that you can’t create immunity through exposure is completely unscientific, flying in the face of centuries of medical knowledge. »

« The FDA fully approved remdesivir October 22, 2020, for use in adults and children in the treatment of COVID-19.[8] This came after the emergency use authorization was issued May 1, 2020, for remdesivir in patients who had "suspected or laboratory-confirmed COVID-19."

Remdesivir is an antiviral drug that is a nucleoside/nucleotide reverse transcriptase inhibitor. It was tested in primates as a treatment for Ebola and found to have some effectiveness against the severe acute respiratory syndrome (SARS) outbreak in 2002 and the Middle East Respiratory Syndrome (MERS) outbreak in 2012.[9]

Before this, Gilead had produced a remarkably similar drug called tenofovir for HIV.[10] Remdesivir is nearly a copy of Gilead's HIV drug and is also a reverse transcriptase inhibitor. According to a paper published in Molecules, "Reverse transcriptase is an enzyme in the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) and many retroviruses that convert the RNA template to DNA." »

- 9 juillet 2021 : Cyberpolygone - Event 2021 - Simulations - Great Reset - « Et si la prochaine grande cyberattaque visait l'Internet ? » - Par Brandon Smith

« Au cours des derniers mois, j'ai rédigé une analyse sur un projet de jeu de guerre de crise organisé par le Forum économique mondial, appelé « Cyberpolygone ». L'événement aura lieu cette semaine, le 9 juillet, et il est prétendument conçu pour simuler une cyberattaque massive qui, d'une manière ou d'une autre, perturberait la chaîne d'approvisionnement mondiale ou, à tout le moins, la chaîne d'approvisionnement de plusieurs grandes économies.

Pourquoi suis-je si intéressé par ce jeu de guerre ? Eh bien, nombre de mes lecteurs se souviendront que la dernière grande simulation organisée par le WEF et la Fondation Bill et Melinda Gates était l'Event 201, un exercice de pandémie mondiale qui mettait en scène une épidémie de coronavirus propagée par des animaux porteurs à l'homme, tuant des millions de personnes tout en forçant la fermeture de plusieurs économies du premier monde. L'Event 201 était prévu pour octobre 2019 – deux mois plus tard, le scénario exact de pandémie qu'ils ont simulé s'est produit dans la vie réelle, à quelques détails près.

Klaus Schwab, le chef du WEF, a très vite exploité l'épidémie de Covid-19 pour justifier l'agenda du « Grand Reset« : Une reconstruction socialiste du système financier et de la structure politique du monde que les globalistes réclament à cor et à cri depuis au moins 2014. En vérité, les plus grands bénéficiaires de la pandémie sont les mêmes personnes qui ont simulé l'épidémie quelques mois auparavant lors de l'Event 201. »

« Summary

Rapid and efficient memory-type immune responses occur reliably in virtually all unvaccinated individuals who are exposed to SARS-CoV-2. The effectiveness of further boosting the immune response through vaccination is therefore highly doubtful. Vaccination may instead aggravate disease through antibody-dependent enhancement (ADE). (…)

Discovery 4: Rapid increase of spike protein antibodies after the second injection of mRNA vaccines

IgG and IgA antibody titres were monitored before vaccination and after the first and the second injection of mRNA vaccines [3]. Antibody titres rose with some delay after the first injection, then plateaued, but rose again very shortly after the second injection.

Significance. Even though the antibody response to the first injection is of the memory type, the small time lag after the injection may mitigate adverse reactions, because the abundance of spike protein on the cells in the blood vessel walls and in other tissues may have already passed its peak when the antibodies arrive.

The situation changes dramatically with the second injection. Then the spikes are produced and protrude into the bloodstream that is already swarming with both reactive lymphocytes and antibodies. The antibodies will cause the complement system [9,10] and also neutrophil granulocytes to attack the spike protein-bearing cells. The possible consequences of all-out self-attack by the immune system are frightening. »

  Dans la panoplie de traitements, la France n'en a choisi qu'un, le vaccin, l'imposant en exclusivité. C'est ce que font aussi la plupart des pays, sous la pression de lobbies puissants. Nous avons l'Agence Européenne du Médicament (EMA), financée à 85% par ceux à qui elle délivre des AMM (!! C'est pour cela que l'ivermectine n'a aucune chance, ne pouvant financer l'EMA car tombée dans le domaine public, aucun laboratoire ne fera la demande d'AMM..), avec en tête les plus gros labos producteurs de vaccins, et l'OMS dont le premier financier est Bill Gates (194 M$ en 2019), sa fondation investissant énormément dans les vaccins. Rien que sur BioNTech, il a multiplié sa mise par 10. (Ne me faites pas dire que tout ce qu'il fait est mal, au contraire, mais ici il se trompe « grave » et il trompe les autres). »

  « The trials had at least two other major flaws. They followed most participants for only about two months after the second dose. And when they calculated vaccine efficacy, they ignored cases that occurred just after the first dose was given.

  This meant that when Pfizer and Moderna said in November 2020 their vaccines were about 95% effective at preventing Covid, what they meant was that the vaccines were 95% effective at peak protection FOR A MATTER OF WEEKS.

Neither the companies nor anyone else had any way of knowing how well the vaccines would work in a year, much less in five years - or 20 years. They simply did not have any long-term data. How could they? The vaccines hadn't even existed until months before, and they used technology that had never been approved for any drug or vaccine. » (…)

« Unfortunately, the good news didn't last. At the beginning of June, Covid cases started to rise in both Israel and Britain. And in the last three weeks, cases have soared, rising 15-fold since mid-May in the United Kingdom. » (…)

« At first, vaccine advocates tried to argue that the rise was mainly happening in unvaccinated people. They now acknowledge that argument is not true. Testing shows that many cases are in vaccinated people (and no country with two-thirds of its adults vaccinated with two doses, like Britain, could have an increase like this unless vaccinated people were also being infected).

In early July, Israel reported that the vaccines appeared to have fallen to 64 percent effectiveness. An independent analyst reported that effectiveness had fallen below 30 percent by the end of the month.

Now advocates are trying to minimize the significance of the fact that vaccinated people are becoming infected by arguing that they are not being hospitalized or dying.

That theory is also falling apart. The number of people hospitalized with severe Covid in Israel has more than doubled since late June. And an Israeli government advisor acknowledged July 5 that more than half of serious Covid cases were occurring in "fully vaccinated" people. (https://tinyurl.com/25skj7u9)

Data from England and Scotland show similar trends. In Scotland, hospitalizations have risen more than fivefold in the last several weeks. And more than half the people who died of Covid in the last week of June were fully vaccinated. »

- 12 juillet 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - USA - Charles Hoffe - « A Brave Doctor and a Small Clinic That Burned to The Ground »

The Doctor's Open Letter April 5, 2021

On 5 April 2021, Dr Charles Hoffe wrote an open letter to Dr. Bonnie Henry (British Columbia Provincial Health Officer, Ministry of Health) regarding Moderna Vaccine Reactions. Dr Hoffe has a small medical clinic in Lytton, BC., Canada. This was the letter:

"Dear Dr. Henry,

The first dose of the Moderna vaccine has now been administered to some of my patients in the community of Lytton, BC. This began with the First Nations members of our community in mid-January, 2021. 900 doses have now been administered.

I have been quite alarmed at the high rate of serious side effects from this novel treatment. From this relatively small number of people vaccinated so far, we have had:

1. Numerous allergic reactions, with two cases of anaphylaxis.
2. One (presumed) vaccine-induced sudden death, (in a 72 year old patient with COPD.

This patient complained of being more short of breath continually after receiving the vaccine, and died very suddenly and unexpectedly on day 24, after the vaccine. He had no history of cardiovascular disease).

3. Three people with ongoing and disabling neurological deficits, with associated chronic pain, persisting for more than 10 weeks after their first vaccine. These neurological deficits include: continual and disabling dizziness, generalised or localized neuromuscular weakness, with or without sensory loss. The chronic pain in these patients is either generalised or regional, with or without headaches.

So in short, in our small community of Lytton, BC, we have one person dead, and three people who look as though they will be permanently disabled, following their first dose of the Moderna vaccine. The age of those affected ranges from 38 to 82 years of age.

So I have a couple of questions and comments [The full letter can be read here, but these points are with noting]:

Point four: In stark contrast to the deleterious effects of this vaccine in our community, we have not had to give any medical care what-so-ever, to anyone with Covid-19. So in our limited experience, this vaccine is quite clearly more dangerous than Covid-19.

Point five: I realize that every medical therapy has a risk-benefit ratio, and that serious disease calls for serious medicine. But we now know that the recovery rate of Covid-19, is similar to the seasonal flu, in every age category. Furthermore, it is well known that the side effects following a second shot, are significantly worse than the first. So the worst is still to come.

Point eight: Is it medically ethical to continue this vaccine rollout, in view of the severity of these life altering side-effects, after just the first shot? In Lytton, BC, we have an incidence of 1 in 225 of severe life altering side-effects, from this experimental gene modification therapy."

« STORY AT-A-GLANCE

- The Council of the District of Columbia disempowered parents by enacting a law that made it illegal for a doctor, insurance company or school administrator to divulge a child's vaccination history in records that can be seen by the child's mother or father

- The law denies basic parental rights to protecting their child from vaccine injuries and to have the tools and knowledge necessary to monitor them for signs of a potentially life-threatening vaccine reaction that requires immediate medical treatment

- It also violates vaccine safety provisions of the National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act of 1986, a federal law that confirmed vaccine injuries and deaths are real and made preventing vaccine reactions a national priority

- Additionally, it violates informed consent rights of both parents and their child while doctors, other vaccinators and anyone else involved in the vaccine decision have no liability if the child is injured

  « Recently, two researchers from Queen Mary, University of London, conducted a peer-reviewed meta-analysis evaluating ivermectin (Bryant et al, 2021) and concluded that this antiparasitic drug is a cheap and effective treatment for reducing COVID-19 deaths. Importantly, these conclusions were in stark contrast to those of a later study (Roman et al, 2021). Although (Roman et al, 2021) applied the same classical statistical approach to meta-analysis, and produced similar results based on a subset of the same trials data used by (Bryant et al), they claimed there was insufficient quality of evidence to support the conclusion Ivermectin was effective. The Queen Mary, University of London investigators apply a Bayesian approach, to a subset of the same trial data, to test several causal hypotheses linking COVID-19 severity and ivermectin to mortality and produce an alternative analysis to the classical approach. Applying diverse alternative analysis methods, which reach the same conclusions, should increase overall confidence in the result. The authors demonstrate that there is overwhelming evidence to support a causal link between ivermectin, COVID-19 severity and mortality, and: i) for severe COVID-19, there is a 90.7% probability the risk ratio favors ivermectin; ii) for mild/moderate COVID-19, there is an 84.1% probability the risk ratio favors ivermectin. Also, from the Bayesian meta-analysis, for patients with severe COVID-19, the mean probability of death without ivermectin treatment is 22.9%, while with the application of ivermectin treatment, it is 11.7%. The paper also highlights the advantages of using Bayesian methods over classical statistical methods for meta-analysis. »

« Le 13 juillet 2021, le Centre pour la recherche sur les entreprises multinationales (SOMO) a publié une étude sur l'évasion fiscale pratiquée par le fabricant de vaccins Moderna. Le contrat passé entre la Commission et Moderna révèle que l'entreprise détourne les paiements reçus au titre de ce contrat, à hauteur de 10 milliards de dollars, vers des paradis fiscaux. Sa filiale établie à Bâle est une société-écran typique, dépourvue de substance économique et probablement créée dans un but purement fiscal. De même, le bureau de Moderna au Delaware, où sont enregistrés ses droits de propriété intellectuelle, n'est pas tenu de payer l'impôt sur les redevances ni de publier un rapport annuel. L'évasion fiscale est dans tous les cas inacceptable, mais elle est d'autant plus déplorable en la circonstance, le vaccin Moderna ayant été conçu puis acheté à l'aide de fonds publics.

1. La Commission a-t-elle connaissance des puissants montages d'évasion fiscale utilisés par Moderna?

2. Si, comme l'an dernier, la Commission recommande de ne pas accorder d'aide financière aux entreprises qui ont des liens avec les paradis fiscaux, ne devrait-il pas en être de même pour les entreprises qui ont un contrat avec la Commission?

3. A-t-elle envisagé de demander aux fabricants de vaccins de payer leur juste part d'impôt et d'améliorer leur transparence lorsqu'ils signent un contrat avec elle? Dans la négative, le fera-t-elle à l'avenir? »

  « In the U.S., 333 million COVID vaccine doses had been administered as of July 9. This includes: 135 million doses of Moderna's vaccine, 184 million doses of Pfizer and 13 million doses of the Johnson & Johnson (J&J) COVID vaccine.

  Of the 10,991 deaths reported as of July 9, 22% occurred within 48 hours of vaccination, 15% occurred within 24 hours and 37% occurred in people who became ill within 48 hours of being vaccinated.

  This week's data for 12- to 17-year-olds show:

  - 14,003 total adverse events, including 866 rated as serious and 14 reported deaths. Two of the nine deaths were suicides.
  - The most recent reported death includes a 13-year-old boy (VAERS I.D. 1431289) with a previous history of COVID who suffered cardiac arrest and died 17 days after vaccination with Pfizer.

  Other reports include two 13-year-old boys (VAERS I.D. 1406840 and 1429457) who died two days after receiving a Pfizer vaccine, three 15-year-olds (VAERS I.D. 1187918, 1382906 and 1242573), three 16-year-olds (VAERS I.D. 1420630, 1225942 and 1386841) and three 17-year-olds (VAERS I.D. 1199455, 1388042 and 1420762).

  - 2,040 reports of anaphylaxis among 12- to 17-year-olds with 99% of cases. attributed to Pfizer's vaccine, 1.1% to Moderna and 0.2% (or four cases) to J&J.
  - 377 reports of myocarditis and pericarditis (heart inflammation) with 373 attributed to Pfizer's vaccine.

- 65 reports of blood clotting disorders, with 64 attributed to Pfizer and 1 attributed to Moderna.

This week's total VAERS data, from Dec. 14, 2020 to July 9, 2021, for all age groups combined show:

- 23% of deaths were related to cardiac disorders.
- 50% of those who died were male, 45% were female and the remaining death reports did not include gender of the deceased.
- The average age of death was 75.
- As of July 9, 2,857 pregnant women reported adverse events related to COVID vaccines, including 1072 reports of miscarriage or premature birth.
- Of the 5,049 cases of Bell's Palsy reported, 63% were attributed to Pfizer vaccinations, 35% to Moderna vaccine and 5% to J&J.
- 445 reports of Guillain-Barré Syndrome, with 51% of cases attributed to Pfizer, 37% to Moderna and 17% to J&J.
- 127,421 reports of anaphylaxis with 48% of cases attributed to Pfizer's vaccine, 45% to Moderna and 7% to J&J.
- 9,471 reports of blood clotting disorders. Of those, 4,998 reports were attributed to Pfizer, 2,845 reports to Moderna and 1,582 reports to J&J.
- 1,991 cases of myocarditis and pericarditis with 1,336 cases attributed to Pfizer, 599 cases to Moderna and 52 cases to J&J's COVID vaccine.

Experts warn of 'huge risk' as Moderna launches COVID vaccine trials for pregnant women

Moderna will study its COVID vaccine in pregnant women, according to a posting on ClinicalTrials.gov. The observational study, expected to begin July 22, will enroll about 1,000 females over age 18 who will be studied over a 21-month period.

Women who received a Moderna vaccine during the 28 days prior to their last menstrual period, or at any time during pregnancy, are eligible.

The brief summary of the trial states the main goal is "to evaluate the outcomes of pregnancy in females exposed to the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine (mRNA-1273) during pregnancy."

Currently, the CDC says pregnant women can get a COVID vaccine. But the agency also acknowledges there is limited data available about the safety of COVID vaccines for people who are pregnant. »

  « The vast majority of Covid-19 anti-vaccine misinformation and conspiracy theories originated from just 12 people, a report by the Center for Countering Digital Hate (CCDH) cited by the White House this week found.

CCDH, a UK/US non-profit and non-governmental organization, found in March that these 12 online personalities they dubbed the "disinformation dozen" have a combined following of 59 million people across multiple social media platforms, with Facebook having the largest impact. CCDH analyzed 812,000 Facebook posts and tweets and found 65% came from the disinformation dozen. Vivek Murthy, US surgeon general, and Joe Biden focused on misinformation around vaccines this week as a driving force of the virus spreading.

On Facebook alone, the dozen are responsible for 73% of all anti-vaccine content, though the vaccines have been deemed safe and effective by the US government and its regulatory agencies. And 95% of the Covid misinformation reported on these platforms were not removed. »

  « ABSTRACT
  Many have argued that SARS-CoV-2 spike protein and its mRNA sequence, found in all COVID-19 vaccines, are priongenic. The UK's Yellow Card database of COVID-19 vaccine adverse event reports was evaluated for signals consistent with a pending epidemic of COVID vaccine induced prion disease. Adverse event reaction rates from AstraZeneca's vaccine were compared to adverse event rates for Pfizer's COVID vaccines. The vaccines employ different technologies allowing for potential differences in adverse event rates but allowing each to serve as a control group for the other. The analysis showed a highly statistically significant and clinically relevant (2.6-fold) increase in Parkinson's disease, a prion disease, in the AstraZeneca adverse reaction reports compared to the Pfizer vaccine adverse reaction reports (p= 0.000024). These results are consistent with monkey toxicity studies showing infection with SARS-CoV-2 results in Lewy Body formation. The findings suggest that regulatory approval, even under an emergency use authorization, for COVID vaccines was premature and that widespread use should be halted until full long term safety studies evaluating prion toxicity has been complete. Alternative vaccines like the Measles Mumps Rubella (MMR) vaccine should be explored for those desiring immunization against COVID-19. »

- 19 juillet 2021 : Russie - Vaccination Obligatoire - Résistance - « 2 millions de plaintes en 3 semaines, et victoire »

« Depuis un an environ, quasiment aucune restriction en Russie. Seul le port du masque est obligatoire dans les transports et magasins… en théorie. En pratique disons que 20% au maximum le portent, et qu'à part des actions ponctuelles ordonnées par la mairie, la police regarde ailleurs et ne verbalise personne.

Il y a un mois, Vladimir Poutine déclare être totalement opposé à la vaccination obligatoire, qui doit être un choix personnel. Le lendemain, il s'envole pour rencontrer Biden à Genève. Alors que l'avion présidentiel est encore en l'air, le maire de Moscou lance une bombe en publiant un décret imposant la vaccination obligatoire « pour certaines catégories de personnes » ! Stupéfaction totale, mais ce n'est pas une blague ! Le décret prévoit également des sanctions contre les récalcitrants, allant jusqu'au licenciement ! Le maire met donc en place une organisation il faut le dire très performante avec des centres de vaccination partout à Moscou : Dans les centres commerciaux, les parcs, etc. La décision du maire est par ailleurs immédiatement copiée par plusieurs gouverneurs, dont celui de la « région de Moscou ».

Les secteurs concernés sont en gros tous ceux où les employés sont au contact des clients ! Quasiment tout le monde en fait, et le maire impose que 60% des gens y soient vaccinés. Transports, commerces, services.

Vladimir Poutine, une fois rentré en Russie, reste silencieux. Seul son porte parole déclare que non, la vaccination n'est pas obligatoire puisque seuls certaines catégories de personnes sont concernées, et qu'elles peuvent changer de travail si ça ne leur convient pas! La fureur gronde sur les groupes Telegram.

Les semaines suivantes, très peu de personnes se présentent pour se faire piquer. Voyant ceci, le maire de Moscou prend alors une mesure qui va faire un second énorme scandale : Il interdit l'accès des non-vaccinés aux restaurants et cafés. Et le contrôle se fera par un QR-code, obtenu une fois vacciné.

Même si en fait cela concerne peu de monde sur les 12 millions de moscovites, ceci déclenche un énorme scandale, toujours sur

Telegram. Dans le même temps, les pirates s'activent et très vite proposent des QR-codes avec enregistrement dans la base de données fédérale des personnes vaccinées moyennant finances.

Mais, surtout en Russie, ce genre de choses ne passe pas, le rappel des « heures sombres » de la guerre. Des étoiles jaunes commencent à fleurir sur les tee-shirts, mais surtout la fronde s'organise. »

  Une fois que vous avez fait le calcul sur la base des données présentées par PHE, vous pouvez voir que votre risque de mourir avec Covid-19 est 990% plus élevé si vous êtes complètement vacciné par rapport à ne pas être vacciné du tout. Les données nous montrent également que vos chances d'être hospitalisé avec Covid-19 augmentent de 81,24% si vous avez reçu deux doses d'un vaccin Covid-19. Ce n'est pas ce qu'ils ont dit qu'ils feraient sur leurs notices des vaccins.

  Bien sûr, le Royaume-Uni pourrait être une anomalie. Peut-être est-ce à cause de tous les "Covidiots" qui vivent leur vie normalement ? Tout comme leur droit fondamental de pouvoir le faire. Pour le savoir, nous devons regarder ce qui se passe dans d'autres pays.

  Eh bien, commençons par Israël [1]. Israël est le leader mondial de l'administration du vaccin COVID-19 par habitant. Israël a commencé son programme de vaccination en décembre, dirigé par le Premier ministre de l'époque, Benjamin Netanyahou. Six semaines plus tard, environ 64 % de la population générale (et environ 90 % des personnes âgées) en Israël avaient reçu au moins une dose du vaccin COVID-19 en deux injections de Pfizer. Un peu plus de la moitié avait reçu deux doses. »

  « Thomas Renz, an attorney based in Ohio has started a lawsuit against the federal government for covering up the true number of deaths from the Covid-19 vaccines.

  According to Renz, a whistle-blower – referred to as Jane Doe – who is an insider and has seen information on the Vaccine Adverse Events Reporting System (VAERS) allegedly passed on the numbers and relevant information to him. At an event hosted by Awaken America, Renz said: "We have someone that has sworn under penalty of purgery that there have been at least 45,000 deaths."

  Renz stated that whilst he cannot currently prove the information, he said that with America's Frontline Doctors – a team of medical professionals fighting for medical freedom for Americans – he has been "empowered" to file the lawsuit in Alabama.

  Allegedly, the whistleblower stated that there are around 11 VAERS systems reporting adverse reactions and deaths across the US, and one system alone has allegedly has reported the shocking 45,000 deaths from the Covid jabs. However, Renz believes that this number is "immensely higher" and is calling for immediate investigations into the VAERS system. »

- 20 juillet 2021 : Vaccination - Efficacité - Étude par Pays - « La vaccination à l'épreuve des faits. 1ère partie : les chiffres de l'épidémie » - Laurent Mucchielli

« Malte compte elle aussi près d'un demi-million d'habitants, vaccinés à 86% à la mi-juillet. Et l'on y fait exactement le même constat qu'à Gibraltar. »

« Les Seychelles comptent près de 100 000 habitants, vaccinés à près de 73% à la mi-juillet. Or, tandis que ces îles n'avaient quasiment pas eu un seul cas jusque-là, elles ont connu une première petite épidémie tardive en mai-juin 2021, qui a provoqué quelques morts. La vaccination ne semble donc pas avoir protégé ce pays. »

« L'Uruguay compte près de 3,5 millions d'habitants, vaccinés à 70%. Or, tandis qu'il n'avait pas connu de phase précédente, l'épidémie y a été forte de mars à juin 2021, provoquant également une forte hausse des décès, puis une chute tout aussi forte. Certains se précipiteront peut-être pour y voir un effet de la vaccination générale. Or il suffit de regarder chez certains de ses voisins pour comprendre la fragilité de cette interprétation. Ainsi le Paraguay (7 millions d'habitants) n'a quasiment pas vacciné (moins de 10% de la population), or il a fait une épidémie comparable au même moment. »

« Les Pays-Bas comptent un peu plus de 17 millions d'habitants, vaccinés à 68%. Ils ont pourtant fait face à plusieurs phases épidémiques en mars-avril 2021 puis en juillet 2021 (sans relation avec la mortalité là non plus). Le même doute sur l'interprétation de la faible mortalité subsiste. Un article paru ce jour rapporte que les hôpitaux néerlandais constatent en ce moment-même une forte augmentation des personnes contaminées au variant Delta parmi les personnels de santé ayant pourtant été vaccinés de façon complète. Une semaine avant, l'on apprenait également que, parmi les 20 000 participants du festival Verknipt, ayant tous justifié d'un passe sanitaire avant de pénétrer dans les lieux, un millier avaient été contaminés. Toujours aux Pays-Bas, quelques jours auparavant, l'on apprenait cette fois que c'était près d'un tiers des quelques 600 participants à une énorme soirée dans une discothèque qui étaient contaminés alors qu'ils étaient théoriquement tous protégés. »

"En fait, la période de janvier-février 2021 est la plus meurtrière de la dernière décennie, avec les taux de mortalité globaux les plus élevés, par rapport aux mois correspondants au cours des 10 dernières années.

  Le rapport souligne que les jeunes âgés de 20 à 29 ans semblent être le groupe démographique qui a connu l'augmentation la plus spectaculaire de la mortalité après le déploiement du vaccin Pfizer.

Dans ce groupe, la vaccination au cours de la même période, janvier-février 2021, il y a eu une augmentation de 32% de la mortalité globale par rapport à la mortalité moyenne bimensuelle en 2020. L'analyse statistique des informations du Bureau central des statistiques, combinées aux informations du ministère de la Santé, conduit à la conclusion que le taux de mortalité parmi les vaccinés est estimé à environ 1 pour 5000 (1 pour 13000 les 20-49 ans, 1pour 6000 pour les 50-69 ans, 1 pour 1600 pour les 70 ans et plus).

Sur la base de ces données, l'IPC estime que le nombre de décès survenus en Israël, juste après la piquouse du vaccin Pfizer, est d'environ 1 000 à 1 100 personnes. Community and Close Contact Exposures Associated with COVID-19 Among Symptomatic Adults ≥18 Years in 11 Outpatient Health Care Facilities — United States, July 2020

The US Centre for Disease Control performed a study which showed that 85 percent of those who contracted Covid-19 during July 2020 were mask wearers. Just 3.9 percent of the study participants never wore a mask.

2. Facial protection for healthcare workers during pandemics: a scoping review

This study used 5462 peer-reviewed articles and 41 grey literature records.

"Conclusion: The COVID-19 pandemic has led to critical shortages of medical-grade PPE. Alternative forms of facial protection offer inferior protection. More robust evidence is required on different types of medical-grade facial protection. As research on COVID-19 advances, investigators should continue to examine the impact on alternatives of medical-grade facial protection"
So how is your cloth and surgical mask working again if EVEN medical grade alternatives are failing ?
Study Article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32371574/

3. Physical interventions to interrupt or reduce the spread of respiratory viruses

"There is moderate certainty evidence that wearing a mask probably makes little or no difference to the outcome of laboratory-confirmed influenza compared to not wearing a mask"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/33215698/

4. Disposable surgical face masks for preventing surgical wound infection in clean surgery

"We included three trials, involving a total of 2106 participants. There was no statistically significant difference in infection rates between the masked and unmasked group in any of the trials"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/27115326/

5. Disposable surgical face masks: a systematic review

Two randomized controlled trials were included involving a total of 1453 patients. In a small trial there was a trend towards masks being associated with fewer infections, whereas in a large trial there was no difference in infection rates between the masked and unmasked group.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/16295987/

6. Evaluating the efficacy of cloth facemasks in reducing particulate matter exposure

"Our results suggest that cloth masks are only marginally beneficial in protecting individuals from particles<2.5 μm"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/27531371/

7. Face seal leakage of half masks and surgical masks

"The filtration efficiency of the filter materials was good, over 95%, for particles above 5 micron in diameter but great variation existed for smaller particles.

Coronavirus is 0.125 microns. therefore these masks wouldn't protect you from the virus"

8. Comparison of the Filter Efficiency of Medical Nonwoven Fabrics against Three Different Microbe Aerosols

"The filter efficiencies against influenza virus particles were the lowest"

"We conclude that the filter efficiency test using the phi-X174 phage aerosol may overestimate the protective performance of nonwoven fabrics with filter structure compared to that against real pathogens such as the influenza virus”

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/29910210/

9. Aerosol penetration through surgical masks

“Although surgical mask media may be adequate to remove bacteria exhaled or expelled by health care workers, they may not be sufficient to remove the submicrometer-size aerosols containing pathogens ”

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/1524265/

10. Particle removal from air by face masks made from Sterilization Wraps: Effectiveness and Reusability

“We found that 60 GSM face mask had particle capture efficiency of 94% for total particles greater than 0.3 microns”

How big is the virus again? 0.125 microns.

11. A New Method for Testing Filtration Efficiency of Mask Materials Under Sneeze-like Pressure

This study states that “alternatives” like silk and gauze etc could possibly be good options in the pandemic. It’s done on starch particles.

Does not state how big they are either, but they can still get through the material and my research points out that starch particles are “big”, much bigger than most viruses.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32503823/

12. Protecting staff against airborne viral particles: in vivo efficiency of laser masks

“The laser mask provided significantly less protection than the FFP2 respirator (P=0.02), and only marginally more protection than the surgical mask. The continued use of laser masks for respiratory protection is questionable. Taping masks to the face only provided a small improvement in protection"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/16920222/

13. Quantitative Method for Comparative Assessment of Particle Removal Efficiency of Fabric Masks as Alternatives to Standard Surgical Masks for PPE

"Worn as designed, both commercial surgical masks and cloth masks had widely varying effectiveness (53 – 75 percent and 28 – 91 percent particle removal efficiency, respectively)". Different brand, different results and only when they applied "nylon layers" did the "efficiency" improve. Synthetic fibres do not breathe, so this will inevitably effect your breathing.

14. The efficacy of standard surgical face masks: an investigation using "tracer particles"

"Since the microspheres were not identified on the exterior of these face masks, they must have escaped around the mask edges and found their way into the wound". Human albumin cells, aka aborted fetal tissue, is much larger than the virus and still escaped the mask.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/7379387/

15. Testing the efficacy of homemade masks: would they protect in an influenza pandemic?

"Our findings suggest that a homemade mask should only be considered as a last resort to prevent droplet transmission from infected individuals" so why has the government suggested you make your own when they are not effective ?

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/24229526/

16. Using half-facepiece respirators for H1N1

19. Face masks to prevent transmission of influenza virus: a systematic review

There is less data to support the use of face masks or respirators to prevent becoming infected.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/20092668/

20. "Exercise with facemask; Are we handling a devil's sword?" – A physiological hypothesis

No evidence to suggest that wearing a mask during exercise offers any benefit from the droplet transfer from the virus.

"Exercising with facemasks may reduce available Oxygen and increase air trapping preventing substantial carbon dioxide exchange. The hypercapnic hypoxia may potentially increase acidic environment,cardiac overload, anaerobic metabolism and renal overload, which may substantially aggravate the underlying pathology of established chronic diseases"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32590322/

21. Use of face masks by non-scrubbed operating room staff: a randomized controlled trial

Surgical site infection rates did not increase when non-scrubbed personnel did not wear face masks.
2010 Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/20575920/

22. Surgical face masks in modern operating rooms – a costly and unnecessary ritual?

When the wearing of face masks by non-scrubbed staff working in an operating room with forced ventilation seems to be unnecessary.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/1680906/

23. Masks: a ward investigation and review of the literature

Wearing multi layer operating room masks for every visit had no effect on nose and throat carriage rates.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/2873176/

24. Aerosol penetration and leakage characteristics of masks used in the health care industry

The protection provided by surgical masks may be insufficient in environments containing potentially hazardous submirconometer-sized aerosols.

“Conclusion: We conclude that the protection provided by surgical masks may be insufficient in environments containing potentially hazardous submicrometer-sized aerosols”

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/8239046/

25. Masks for prevention of viral respiratory infections among health care workers and the public: PEER umbrella systematic review

Meta analysis review that says there is limited evidence to suggest that the use of masks may reduce the risk of spreading viral respiratory infections.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32675098/

26. Modeling of the Transmission of Coronaviruses, Measles Virus, Influenza Virus, Mycobacterium tuberculosis*, and* Legionella pneumophila in Dental Clinics

Evidence to suggest that transmission probability is strongly driven by indoor air quality, followed by patient effectiveness and the least by respiratory protection via mask use.

So this could explain “second waves” and has nothing to do with hand shaking, or not wearing a mask.

27. Nonpharmaceutical Measures for Pandemic Influenza in Nonhealthcare Settings-Personal Protective and Environmental Measures

The use of face masks, either by infected or non infected peresons, does not have a significant effect on influenza transmission.

SO MASKS DON'T PROTECT YOU FROM ME, AND VICE VERSA.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32027586/

28. Effectiveness of personal protective measures in reducing pandemic influenza transmission: A systematic review and meta-analysis

Meta analyses suggest that regular hand hygiene provided a significant protective effect over face masks and their insignificant protection.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/28487207/

29. Effectiveness of N95 respirators versus surgical masks against influenza: A systematic review and meta- analysis

Use of n95 respirators compared to surgical masks is not associated with a lower risk of laboratory confirmed influenza.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32167245/

30. Adolescents' face mask usage and contact transmission in novel Coronavirus

Face mask surfaces can become contamination sources. People are storing them in their pockets, bags, putting them on tables, people are reusing them etc. This is why this study is relevant:

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32582579/

31. Visualizing the effectiveness of face masks in obstructing respiratory jets

Loosely folded face masks and "bandana style" face coverings provide minimum stopping capability for the smallest aerosolized droplets.

This applies to anyone who folds or shoves a mask into their pockets or bag. It also applies to cloth and homemade cloth masks:
Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32624649/

32. Use of surgical face masks to reduce the incidence of the common cold among health care workers in Japan: a randomized controlled trial

Face mask use in healthcare workers has not been demonstrated to provide benefit in terms of colds symptoms or getting colds.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/19216002/

33. A cluster randomised trial of cloth masks compared with medical masks in healthcare workers

Penetration of cloth masks by influenza particles was almost 97 percent and medical masks 44 percent. so cloth masks are essentially useless, and "medical grade" masks don't provide adequate protection.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/25903751/

34. Simple respiratory protection–evaluation of the filtration performance of cloth masks and common fabric materials against 20-1000 nm size particles

Cloth masks and other fabric materials tested in the study had 40-90 percent instantaneous penetration levels against polydisperse NaCl aerosols.

"Results obtained in the study show that common fabric materials may provide marginal protection against nanoparticles, including those in the size ranges of virus-containing particles in exhaled breath"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/20584862/

35. Respiratory performance offered by N95 respirators and surgical masks: human subject evaluation with NaCl aerosol representing bacterial and viral particle size range

"The study indicates that N95 filtering facepiece respirators may not achieve the expected protection level against bacteria and viruses"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/18326870/

36. Do N95 respirators provide 95% protection level against airborne viruses, and how adequate are surgical masks?

The n95 filtering respirators may not provide expected protection level against small virons

37. Do Surgical Masks Stop the Coronavirus?

Study article: https://slate.com/news-and-politics/2020/01/coronavirus-surgical-masks-china.html

38. Effectiveness of personal protective measures in reducing pandemic influenza transmission: A systematic review and meta-analysis

This study states that an N95, depending on the brand, can range from 0.1-0.3 microns. however, most people cannot buy an N95 with a micron smaller than 0.3 micron because they are expensive and not readily available on the public market.

"N95 respirators made by different companies were found to have different filtration efficiencies for the most penetrating particle size (0.1 to 0.3 micron)"

"Above the most penetrating particle size the filtration efficiency increases with size; it reaches approximately 99.5% or higher at about 0.75 micron"

"Meta-analyses suggest that regular hand hygiene provided a significant protective effect (OR=0.62; 95% CI 0.52-0.73; I2=0%), and facemask use provided a non-significant protective effect (OR=0.53; 95% CI 0.16-1.71; I2=48%) against 2009 pandemic influenza infection"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/28487207/

39. Effectiveness of N95 respirators versus surgical masks against influenza: A systematic review and meta- analysis

"The use of N95 respirators compared with surgical masks is not associated with a lower risk of laboratory- confirmed influenza. It suggests that N95 respirators should not be recommended for the general public or non high-risk medical staff who are not in close contact with influenza patients or suspected patients"

N95 masks did show a positive effect for BACTERIA but not viruses.

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32167245/

40. Adolescents' face mask usage and contact transmission in novel Coronavirus

This study used dye to show if masks were contaminated. "As a result, masks surface becomes a contamination source. In the contact experiment, ten adults were requested to put on and off a surgical mask while doing a word processing task. The extended contamination areas were recorded and identified by image analysis"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32582579/

41. Use of surgical face masks to reduce the incidence of the common cold among health care workers in Japan: a randomized controlled trial

"Of the 8 symptoms recorded daily, subjects in the mask group were significantly more likely to experience headache during the study period"

"Face mask use in health care workers has not been demonstrated to provide benefit in terms of cold symptoms or getting colds"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/19216002/

42. Effectiveness of Adding a Mask Recommendation to Other Public Health Measures to Prevent SARS CoV-2 Infection in Danish Mask Wearers : A Randomized Controlled Trial

"The recommendation to wear surgical masks to supplement other public health measures did not reduce the SARS-CoV-2 infection rate among wearers by more than 50 percent in a community with modest infection rates, some degree of social distancing, and uncommon general mask use"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/33205991/

43. A cluster randomised trial of cloth masks compared with medical masks in healthcare workers

"An analysis of mask use showed ILI (RR=6.64, 95 percent CI 1.45 to 28.65) and laboratory-confirmed virus (RR=1.72, 95 percent CI 1.01 to 2.94) were significantly higher in the cloth masks group compared with the medical masks group. Penetration of cloth masks by particles was almost 97 percent and medical masks 44 percent"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/25903751/

44. Respiratory performance offered by N95 respirators and surgical masks: human subject evaluation with NaCl aerosol representing bacterial and viral particle size range

"The study indicates that N95 filtering facepiece respirators may not achieve the expected protection level against bacteria and viruses. An exhalation valve on the N95 respirator does not affect the respiratory protection"

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/18326870/

45. Performance of N95 respirators: filtration efficiency for airborne microbial and inert particles

Coronavirus is 0.125 micron, as you can read in this study, it states that most N95 masks can only filter particles as small as 0.75 microns. This is too big to trap this virus. that is a fact.

And even with an efficiency of 95 percent (depending on brand, so filtration may be lower) IF the virus can be trapped... it's still missing 5 percent and maybe more based on an N95 that has 0.1 microns .

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/9487666/

CORONAVIRUSES ARE 0.125 MICRON. SO THE BEST N95 ON THE MARKET WOULD DO NOTHING .

46. A Novel Coronavirus from Patients with Pneumonia in China, 2019

A chinese study that proves that an airborne coronavirus particle (0.125 micron) can pass directly through an n95 mask

Study article: https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/31978945/

47. Airborne coronavirus particle (<0.125 micron) will pass directly through a N95 face mask.

Study article: https://www.greenmedinfo.com/article/airborne-coronavirus-particle

SIZE OF THE CORONAVIRUS: Size can vary but all are smaller than 0.3 micron .

"Human coronaviruses measure between 0.1 and 0.2 microns, which is one to two times below the cutoff" This "cut off" is referring to the size an N95 mask can trap. Most of us, are not using MEDICAL or regular N95s.

« Let's put aside that the way public health authorities define vaccinated is NOT the way most people think of being vaccinated. Had one shot of either the Pfizer or Moderna mRNA vaccines? You're not vaccinated. Had two? Still not vaccinated, not for two weeks.

In countries where health authorities are more honest, statistics on hospitalizations and deaths have three categories - "fully" vaccinated, "partially" vaccinated, and "unvaccinated." Many cases fall in the middle category. In fact, data show that the vaccines can cause an increase in infections and deaths for up to two weeks after the first dose, possibly because they temporarily suppress immunity by recruiting so many white blood cells to the area of the injection.

The truth is that if we were treating vaccines like other drugs, we would include the "partially" vaccinated cases in the "vaccinated" category because they have occurred AFTER treatment has begun.

The United States does the opposite. When it reports statistics on vaccine hospitalizations or deaths, it ignores partly vaccinated people. They are lumped with those who have never received a dose as "unvaccinated."

This trick is particularly galling now that the vaccine companies and the government have acknowledged the fact that the mRNA shots begin to lose their protective effect in a matter of months and that many people will need boosters soon. » (…)

« For example, Illinois is now reporting 159 deaths, New York City reported 94 through mid-June, and Massachusetts 80, North Carolina 61, Washington state 45, and Oklahoma 19 as of mid-July. That's 458 deaths in geographically diverse states (and a city) with a combined population of roughly 50 million, just over 1/7 of the United States population. That implies as many as 3,000 vaccine breakthrough deaths nationally, almost all since May 1. (California and Texas have reported relatively low numbers of deaths, but it is not clear if they actually have fewer or are just counting very slowly.)

The CDC's reporting lag means that the actual total number of COVID deaths since May 1 is closer to 35,000 than its reported figure. If 3,000 vaccine breakthrough deaths have occurred since then, they're running closer to 10 percent than 1 percent of total Covid deaths. »

- 26 juillet 2021 : Variant Delta - Virulence - « Le variant delta en chiffres » - Gérard Maudrux

  « Le variant delta moins virulent ? Maintenant, avec plus de recul, on peut le confirmer. Plus de recul, car il y a un décalage entre diagnostic et décès (si c'est le marqueur que l'on prend), en moyenne 15 jours. Les anglais ont démarré leur dernière vague le 24 mai (premier jour de ré ascension des cas), soit il y a 2 mois, largement suffisant pour juger des dégâts causés par la vague. Voici les courbes superposées des nouveaux cas et des décès dans ce pays, depuis 18 mois.

  Pour la seconde vague, on distingue bien le décalage cas/décès, et les 2 courbes se suivent. Pour la troisième vague, la courbe décès ne suit plus, les décès sont faibles comparés à la seconde vague. Pour la première vague, la courbe des cas est aplatie et les décès plus forts, en raison des tests bien moins nombreux au début.

  En proportion du nombre de cas, ces courbes montrent 15 fois moins de décès avec le delta, qu'avec le précédent variant. Autre constatation importante, les anglais ont amorcé depuis 5 jours la fin de vague, les décès devraient diminuer dans une dizaine de jours. Fin de vague, sans avoir vacciné plus, et en ayant allégé toutes les mesures d'accompagnement. Avec l'inverse de ce que nous faisons, tout se passe bien avec le delta. Tout ceci était visible depuis 1 mois, sauf par nos dirigeants, nos élus et notre presse.

Israël suit avec un décalage d'un mois, même constatations sur les cas et les décès. »

- 26 juillet 2021 : USA - Tests PCR - Inefficacité - Études - Nouvelle Position du CDC - « Why Is The CDC Quietly Abandoning The PCR Test For COVID? »

« Here are a few headlines from those experts and scientific studies:

1. Experts compiled three datasets with officials from the states of Massachusetts, New York and Nevada that conclude:"Up to 90% of the people who tested positive did not carry a virus."

2. The Wadworth Center, a New York State laboratory, analyzed the results of its July tests at the request of the NYT: 794 positive tests with a Ct of 40: "With a Ct threshold of 35, approximately half of these PCR tests would no longer be considered positive," said the NYT. "And about 70% would no longer be considered positive with a Ct of 30! "

3. An appeals court in Portugal has ruled that the PCR process is not a reliable test for Sars-Cov-2, and therefore any enforced quarantine based on those test results is unlawful.

4. A new study from the Infectious Diseases Society of America, found that at 25 cycles of amplification, 70% of PCR test "positives" are not "cases" since the virus cannot be cultured, it's dead. And by 35: 97% of the positives are non-clinical.

5. PCR is not testing for disease, it's testing for a specific RNA pattern and this is the key pivot. When you crank it up to 25, 70% of the positive results are not really "positives" in any clinical sense, since it cannot make you or anyone else sick

So, in summary, with regard to our current "casedemic", positive tests as they are counted today do not indicate a "case" of anything. They indicate that viral RNA was found in a nasal swab. It may be enough to make you sick, but according to the New York Times and their experts, probably won't. And certainly not sufficient replication of the virus to make anyone else sick. But you will be sent home for ten days anyway, even if you never have a sniffle. And this is the number the media breathlessly reports… and is used to fearmonger mask mandates and lockdowns nationwide… » (…)

« As PJMedia's Stacey Lennox wrote, the "casedemic" is the elevated number of cases we see nationwide because of a flaw in the PCR test. The number of times the sample is amplified, also called the cycle threshold (Ct), is too high.

It identifies people who do not have a viral load capable of making them ill or transmitting the disease to someone else as positive for COVID-19.

The New York Times reported this flaw on August 29 and said that in the samples they reviewed from three states where labs use a Ct of 37-40, up to 90% of tests are essentially false positives. The experts in that article said a Ct of around 30 would be more appropriate for indicating that someone could be contagious - those for whom contact tracing would make sense.

Just a few days earlier, the CDC had updated its guidelines to discourage testing for asymptomatic individuals. It can only be assumed that the rationale for this was that some honest bureaucrat figured out the testing was needlessly sensitive. He or she has probably been demoted.

This change was preceded by a July update that discouraged retesting for recovered patients. The rationale for the update was that viral debris could be detected using the PCR test for 90 days after recovery. The same would be true for some period of time if an individual had an effective immune response and never got sick. Existing immunity from exposure to other coronaviruses has been well documented. These are many of your "asymptomatic" cases.

However, due to political pressure and corporate media tantrums, the new guidance on testing was scrapped, and testing for asymptomatic individuals is now recommended again. Doctors do not receive the Ct information from the labs to make a diagnostic judgment. Neither the CDC nor the FDA has put out guidelines for an accurate Ct to diagnose a contagious illness accurately.

Hence, our current "casedemic." Positive tests as they are counted today do not indicate a "case" of anything. They indicate that viral RNA was found in a nasal swab. It may be enough to make you sick, but according to the New York Times and their experts, probably won't. And certainly not sufficient replication of the virus to make anyone else sick. But you will be sent home for ten days anyway, even if you never have a sniffle. And this is the number the media breathlessly reports. »

The narrative being sold to the public goes like this. The new wave of COVID-19 infections caused by various Greek-letter variants, major disruptions due to natural disasters (attributed to climate change), and cyber-attacks targeting key industries are causing worker shortages and the inability for ships and other major transport systems to reach their destinations. This "shortage" of workers and goods such as food and computer chips plays right into globalist stooges hands. As prices skyrocket, the economy will further deteriorate and panic will rule the day. - 30 juillet 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Analyse de Laurent Mucchielli - « La vaccination Covid à l'épreuve des faits. 2ème partie : une mortalité inédite »

  « Dans le précédent épisode de notre mini-série sur la vaccination, nous avions montré que les données épidémiologiques les plus facilement disponibles à l'échelle mondiale suffisent à prouver que la vaccination ne protège pas de la contamination et de la transmission du Sars-Cov-2, en particulier de l'actuel variant Delta (ou indien), ce qui contredit massivement les déclarations répétées des représentants du pouvoir exécutif français relatives à la « protection vaccinale ». Aux États-Unis, le directeur du NIAID, Antony Fauci, vient du reste de le reconnaître publiquement, recommandant même le port du masque en intérieur par les personnes vaccinées. Autre exemple : en Angleterre, les touristes français doivent subir une quarantaine même s'ils sont vaccinés. Il est donc déjà clair que la vaccination n'est pas la solution miracle annoncée pour endiguer l'épidémie et que le chantage formulé par l'exécutif français (vaccination générale ou reconfinement) est fondé sur un mensonge. Un second mensonge répété à plusieurs reprises tant par le président de la République, le premier Ministre que le ministre de la Santé (et d'autres élus adoptant des postures sanitaires autoritaires, à l'image du maire de Nice M. Estrosi) est probablement la prétendue quasi-disparition (« à 96% ») des formes sévères de la Covid grâce à la vaccination. En Israël, un des pays où la population est la plus vaccinée au monde, les autorités viennent ainsi de décider de fermer les frontières du pays aux touristes vaccinés, indiquant non seulement que la vaccination ne protège pas de la contamination et de la transmission, mais également que la majorité des personnes hospitalisées pour des formes graves sont désormais des personnes vaccinées.

Tout ceci suggère clairement qu'un gouffre sépare le marketing des industriels (repris par la propagande politique) des réalités de santé publique. Et c'est également au fond de ce gouffre qu'est pour le moment oubliée la question des effets indésirables les plus graves de la vaccination anti-covid, sujet de ce nouvel épisode. » (…)

Au Royaume Uni, le ministère de la santé indique que, le 14 juillet 2021, ont été administrées environ 20 millions de premières doses et 12 millions de deuxièmes doses du vaccin Pfizer/BioNTech, 25 millions de premières doses et 23 millions de deuxièmes doses du vaccin AstraZeneca (cette firme pharmaceutique étant domiciliée à Londres), et environ 1,3 million de premières doses du vaccin Moderna. Au total, plus de 46 millions de personnes ont reçu au moins une dose et plus de 35 millions deux doses. Le rapport de pharmacovigilance du 22 juillet commence par indiquer que les vaccins sont sûrs et fait tout pour appeler à la vaccination générale. Le début du rapport officiel signale que les vaccins ont des effets indésirables de court terme qui sont très peu graves. Par exemple, pour la Pfizer, « les effets indésirables les plus fréquents dans les essais étaient la douleur au site d'injection, la fatigue, les maux de tête, les douleurs musculaires, les frissons, les douleurs articulaires et la fièvre ; ceux-ci ont été signalés chacun chez plus de 1 personne sur 10. Ces réactions étaient généralement d'intensité légère ou modérée et se sont résorbées en quelques jours après la vaccination ». Certes, le ministère précise aussi avoir enregistré quelques 325 000 signalements d'effets indésirables (dont les deux tiers pour l'AstraZeneca). Mais dans le détail, il précise que « l'écrasante majorité des rapports concernent des réactions au site d'injection (douleur au bras par exemple) et des symptômes généralisés tels que syndrome « grippal », maux de tête, frissons, fatigue (fatigue), nausées (envie de vomir), fièvre, étourdissements, faiblesse, douleurs musculaires et rythme cardiaque rapide. Généralement, ceux-ci surviennent peu de temps après la vaccination et ne sont pas associés à une maladie plus grave ou plus durable ». En un mot : tout va bien. Comme en France, le gouvernement anglais martèle du reste dans son rapport que « les vaccins sont le meilleur moyen de protéger les gens contre le COVID-19 et ont déjà sauvé des milliers de vies. Tout le monde doit continuer à se faire vacciner lorsqu'on lui demande de le faire, sauf indication contraire ». Et pourtant. Une fois passée l'introduction à la gloire de la vaccination, la seconde partie du rapport détaille les effets indésirables : chocs anaphylactiques, paralysie de Bell (paralysie faciale), thromboses (71 décès de ce type avec l'AstraZeneca), troubles menstruels et saignements vaginaux, myocardites et péricardites (surtout avec le Pfizer), réactions cutanées sévères (surtout avec le Moderna), syndromes de Guillain Barré (surtout avec l'AstraZeneca) et enfin des « événements à l'issue fatale », c'est-à-dire des morts. Dans le détail, à la date donc du 14 juillet 2021, l'agence britannique reconnaît 999 morts liés à l'injection du vaccin AstraZeneca, 460 liés à celle du Pfizer et 31 autres, ce qui porte le total à *près de 1 500 morts.

Aux Pays-Bas, le centre de pharmacovigilance (bijwerkinden centrum - LAREB) fait un point mensuel sur la vaccination et ses effets indésirables, ces derniers étant principalement signalés par les citoyens. Dans sa dernière actualisation du 4 juillet 2021, il faisait état de 16,5 millions de doses administrées, principalement le Pfizer (11,8 millions de doses, contre 2,8 millions pour AstraZeneca, 1,3 million pour Moderna et 600 000 pour Janssen). A cette date, 93 453 déclarations d'effets indésirables avaient été remontées concernant les conséquences de la vaccination anti-covid, parmi lesquels les thromboses dans le cas des vaccins AstraZeneca et Janssen. Enfin, le centre comptait 448 décès rapportés comme liés à la vaccination, concernant principalement des personnes âgées et principalement le vaccin Pfizer.

En Europe, le site de pharmacovigilance de l'Agence européenne du médicament est particulièrement difficile à manier informatiquement, le chargement des données concernant les vaccins anti-Covid est compliqué à trouver et extrêmement long à réaliser, quand il fonctionne. Deux chercheurs français les ont cependant étudiées patiemment à la fin du mois de juin et présenté dans cette vidéo. A la fin du mois de juin, la pharmacovigilance européenne avait déjà enregistré environ 9 000 décès liés à la vaccination *uniquement pour le vaccin de Pfizer, notamment du fait de complications cardiaques, pulmonaires ou cérébro-vasculaires, inclues des morts par Covid (un comble pour les vaccins anti-covid…). Par ailleurs, ces données livrent également un deuxième constat très préoccupant, qui est le fait que ces risques d'effets indésirables graves concernent non seulement les personnes âgées de plus de 65 ans, mais aussi les nourrissons et les adolescents (12-17 ans). En d'autres termes, les vaccins génétiques anti-covid utilisés en Europe présentent des risques d'effets indésirables graves (pouvant aller jusqu'à la mort) dans des catégories de la population qui ne sont nullement menacées par la Covid. Les professionnels de santé du collectif ReinfoCovid et de la Coordination Santé Libre ont ainsi montré que, en dessous de l'âge de 45 ans, la balance bénéfice/risque est très défavorable à la vaccination génétique anti-covid. Concernant les enfants et les adolescents, elle relève même d'une forme de violence sur mineurs qu'il serait par conséquent criminel de généraliser.

Enfin, aux États-Unis, où la pharmacovigilance (comme la transparence des données d'administration publique de manière générale) est beaucoup mieux organisée et plus contraignante que dans beaucoup de pays européens, des données très précises peuvent être exploitées sur le site de la Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS). Et, contrairement à l'argument des industriels, répétés en boucle par les journalistes français (à l'image des fact-checkers déjà cités), ces données sont très largement fiables. Six chercheurs anglais viennent ainsi d'analyser un échantillon de 250 déclarations de décès attribués aux vaccins anti-covid dans la VAERS. Il en résulte que les deux tiers des déclarations ont été faites par des médecins et qu'elles sont fiables à 86%. Or le constat qui ressort des données américaines est plus saisissant encore. En recherchant dans ces données les décès liés à la vaccination, il est possible non seulement d'avoir un comptage détaillé pour chaque vaccin anti-covid, mais de surcroît de pouvoir comparer ces résultats avec ceux de tous les autres vaccins administrés depuis plus de 30 ans dans ce pays. Au 16 juillet 2021, date à laquelle 160 millions d'Américains avaient été intégralement vaccinés, les vaccins anti-covid sont liés à plus de 6 000 décès, 91% d'entre eux étant attribuables aux seuls vaccins de Moderna et Pfizer (deux entreprises pharmaceutiques/biotechnologiques américaines, Janssen étant la filiale belge d'une autre entreprise pharmaceutique américaine, Johnson & Johnson). Nous avons reconstitué le tableau ci-dessous qui donne le détail de ces chiffres. » (…)

« Par ailleurs, ces fichiers permettent donc de comparer cette mortalité des vaccins anti-covid à la mortalité vaccinale globale dans ce pays depuis 30 ans (concernant des centaines de vaccins). Ce fichier donne un total de 16 605 décès pour l'ensemble des vaccins sur toute la période. A elle seule et en seulement 6 mois, la vaccination anti-covid représente donc 36% de la totalité de la mortalité vaccinale dans ce pays depuis 30 ans*. Par comparaison, dans la même base de données, nous avons compté le nombre de morts occasionnés par l'administration des différents vaccins contre la grippe saisonnière (influenza seasonal). En 30 ans (1990-2020), ces vaccins ont occasionné 1 106 décès, ce qui représente 6,66% du total de la mortalité vaccinale depuis 30 ans. Une autre façon d'exprimer ces résultats est donc de dire que, aux Etats-Unis, en 6 mois, la vaccination anti-covid a tué 5 fois plus de personnes que la vaccination anti-grippe en 30 ans. Ceci confirme d'une autre façon encore que nous sommes bien en présence de vaccins d'un nouveau genre, dont la dangerosité est inédite.

Conclusion

La question des effets indésirables graves des vaccins anti-covid fait l'objet d'un déni et d'un silence proprement scandaleux de la part du gouvernement et des principales agences sanitaires (Agence nationale de sécurité du médicament, Haute autorité de santé, Haut conseil de santé publique, etc.). Tout se passe comme s'il s'agissait d'un véritable tabou, en France comme dans la plupart des autres pays occidentaux. L'importance de ces effets apporte en effet une contradiction trop flagrante et dévastatrice pour l'idéologie de la vaccination intégrale qui guide des gouvernements ayant choisi de s'abandonner dans les bras de l'industrie pharmaceutique. Cette dernière est en effet au cœur de toute la gestion d'une épidémie qui constitue pour elle une aubaine inédite dans l'histoire : quel produit commercial breveté a pour marché potentiel la totalité de l'humanité, renouvelable chaque année qui plus est ? Patrons et actionnaires de ces firmes pharmaceutiques et biotechnologiques sont en train de devenir immensément riches. Au vu de la façon (dans l'urgence, pour générer un maximum de profits) dont ces industries ont travaillé, notamment aux Etats-Unis et en Angleterre, pour mettre au point ces nouveaux vaccins génétiques (ADN ou ARN), on pouvait ainsi dès le départ redouter que ces produits ne soient pas de très bonne qualité. Mais la réalité dépasse ces craintes et montre que ces vaccins ont davantage d'effets indésirables plus ou moins graves qu'aucun autre avant eux. Nous avons vu ainsi qu'aux Pays-Bas l'on parvient à un taux de 2,7 morts pour 100 000 vaccinés (16,5 millions de vaccinés, 448 morts). En France et aux Etats-Unis, ce taux monte à environ 3,7 morts pour 100 000 vaccinés. Et en Grande-Bretagne, ce taux grimpe même à 4,3 morts pour 100 000 vaccinés, très probablement en raison de la prépondérance du vaccin AstraZeneca que l'on sait depuis le mois de mars 2021 être le plus dangereux des quatre vaccins couramment utilisés en Occident (en particulier du fait des nombreuses thromboses qu'il provoque et qui commencent à être documentées dans la littérature scientifique médicale, voir par exemple ici et là), ce qui n'est guère surprenant lorsque l'on connaît les conditions dans lesquelles il a été fabriqué en Chine. Au passage, nous avons également signalé que ce fut le premier vaccin administré en France, dès février 2021, aux professionnels de santé. De là une des raisons rationnelles probables de la grande réticence à la vaccination anti-covid que manifestent une partie d'entre eux.

Cette mortalité vaccinale (qui n'est que la pointe émergée de l'iceberg des effets indésirables graves) est donc inédite, elle est particulièrement grave et sa dissimulation l'est plus encore. Soyons clair : dissimuler d'une façon ou d'une autre un tel danger est tout simplement criminel vis-à-vis de la population. Même réduite à ses plus élémentaires principes de déontologie (primum non nocere), l'approche de cette question en termes de santé publique devrait conduire à suspendre d'urgence la campagne vaccinale, à étudier beaucoup plus en détail les données de cette pharmacovigilance (en particulier selon les classes d'âge et en fonction des différents facteurs de risque) et, au terme d'une analyse bénéfices/risques méticuleuse, à déterminer à quelles catégories bien précises de la population il est possible de proposer la vaccination sans risque que les effets indésirables graves soient plus nombreux que les formes graves de la Covid dont elle sensée les protéger. Tout autre approche ne relève pas de la santé publique mais de postures idéologiques ou d'un marketing commercial. Et l'histoire a déjà montré (sur le tabac, sur les pesticides, sur la pollution aux hydrocarbures, etc.) que ces postures et ce marketing étaient responsables de véritables crimes contre les populations civiles. Que ces crimes soient commis au nom du Bien ou au nom de la Santé ne devrait en aucun cas aveugler sur leur réalité et leur nature. Toutes celles et ceux qui s'y adonnent pourront être désormais considérés comme complices de cette nouvelle mortalité vaccinale inédite dans l'histoire de la médecine. »

- 30 juillet 2021 : Vaccination - Inefficacité - Facilitation Dépendante des Anticorps - ADE - « Comment expliquer biologiquement l'excès de Covid post-vaccinaux »

Les membres du Conseil Scientifique Indépendant ont analysé des essais cliniques publiés sur les vaccins anti-Covid et décrypté les données de mortalité et d'effets indésirables à la suite des vaccinations post-commercialisation (note 1). Ils observent une surmortalité et une augmentation des cas de Covid dans de nombreux pays au début des campagnes de vaccination. Depuis le début de l'année 2020 au moins, de nombreux scientifiques et experts officiels ont mis en garde contre la facilitation ou ADE (antibody dependant enhancement ou aggravation de l'infection par les anticorps – vaccinaux ici).

Facilitation

Le phénomène des anticorps facilitateurs (ou facilitants) est une réponse « inadéquate » à une nouvelle infection par un virus au cours de laquelle les anticorps présents contre ce virus vont aggraver l'infection. Ces anticorps ont été produits suite à une première infection par un virus apparenté (ou plus rarement par le même virus) ou à la suite d'une vaccination antérieure contre le virus . Cette réponse est considérée comme inadéquate par l'immunologie théorique pour laquelle les anticorps ont un rôle protecteur contre les infections.
Le mécanisme est l'ADE = antibody dependent enhancement (facilitation dépendante des anticorps); il y a facilitation de l'entrée du virus dans la cellule par les anticorps résiduels mais aussi modification de l'expression des cytokines inflammatoires et des mécanismes antiviraux intracellulaires. Les immunités innée et adaptative sont altérées.

Patients on Transplant Waiting List

Dear Colleague

As COVID vaccination is now widely available, and I am sure the majority of your patients have availed of same, I would request that you families me as soon as possible with a list of patients who are on the transplant waiting list who are currently not vaccinated.

We would strongly urge patients who are potential transplant recipients be immediately vaccinated for COVID. In view of the risk of transmission, particularly of new COVID variants, we fear that it will not be possible to continue to offer transplantation to unvaccinated recipients. Therefore, if your patient cannot be vaccinated, for whatever reason, we would recommend that they be suspended from the waiting list with immediate effect until the COVID crisis has passed and there is no risk of transmission of COVID for the individual patient or to members of staff or other patients who are immunosuppressed on the transplant unit.

Can you please contact the transplant co-ordinators at Beaumont Hospital: transplantcoordinators@beaumont.ie or 01 8093119.

I would appreciate your response at your earliest convenience.

Yours sincerely

and in young males » - Denis G. Rancourt, Marine Baudin, Jérémie Mercier

« Abstract

We analyzed all-cause mortality by week (ACM/w) for Canada, and for the Canadian provinces, and by age group and sex, from January 2010 through March 2021; in comparison with data for other countries and their regions or counties.

We find that there is no extraordinary surge in yearly or seasonal mortality in Canada, which can be ascribed to a COVID-19 pandemic; and that several prominent features in the ACM/w in the COVID-19 period exhibit anomalous province-to-province heterogeneity that is irreconcilable with the known behaviour of epidemics of viral respiratory diseases (VRDs). We conclude that a pandemic did not occur.

In addition, our analysis of the ACM/w, by province, age and sex, allows us to highlight anomalies, occurring during the COVID-19 period, which provide strong evidence that:

- Among the most elderly (85+ years), many died from the immediate response to the pandemic that was announced by the WHO on 11 March 2020.
- Predominantly young males (0-44 years, and also 45-64 years) probably indirectly died from the sustained pandemic response, in the summer months of 2020, and into the fall and winter, starting in May 2020, especially in Alberta, significantly in Ontario and British Columbia, whereas not in Quebec.

Our study provides constraints on the mechanisms at play in VRD epidemics. »

  « Abstract

  Currently there are four major pharmaceutical companies who manufacture a SARS-CoV-2 now called SARS-CoV-19 vaccine. These manufactures and their vaccine are Pfizer--BioNTech mRNA Vaccine, the Moderna-Lonza mRNA-1273 Vaccine, the Serum Institute Oxford Astrazeneca Vaccine and the Janssen* COVID -19 *Vaccine, manufactured by Janssen Biotech Inc., a Janssen Pharmaceutical Company of Johnson & Johnson, a recombinant, replication-incompetent adenovirus type 26 expressing the SARS-CoV-2 spike protein. The intended purpose of these vaccines are to provide immunity from the so-called infectious novel coronavirus or SARS-CoV - 2 virus now called the SARS-CoV - 19. These four pharmaceutical companies have not provided complete FDA disclosure on their vaccine box, insert fact sheet or label for many of the major and/or minor ingredients contained within these so-called vaccines. The purpose of this research article is to identify those specific major and minor ingredients contained in the Pfizer Vaccine, the Moderna Vaccine, the Astrazeneca Vaccine and the Janssen Vaccine using various scientific anatomical, physiological and functional testing for each SARS-COV-2-19 vaccine. As a human right, governed under World Law by the Nuremberg Code of 1947, the vaccine specific ingredient information is critical, required and necessary to know so that any human from any country in the World can make an informed decision whether or not to consent to the SAR-CoV-2-19 inoculation. We have conducted the scientific testing on each vaccine and have identified several ingredients or adjuvants that have not been disclosed which are contained in these four SARS-CoV - 2 -19 vaccines. Currently, these vaccines are being administered to millions of humans around the World under an Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) issued by each country without full disclosure of all ingredients and in some cases mandated by governments or employers in violation of individual human rights under the Nuremberg Code of 1947. »

« Toxicité de la protéine spike issue des vaccins

Une étude très intéressante a montré qu'en utilisant un pseudo-virus à la surface duquel on a exprimé la protéine spike (partie S1 qui contient le RBD) du SARS-CoV2 mais dépourvu d'ARN viral, on provoquait une inflammation et des dommages dans les artères et les poumons de souris exposées par voie intratrachéale (Lei et al., 2021). La même chose a été observée sur des cellules humaines épithéliales (celles qui tapissent la paroi de nos vaisseaux) avec attaque des mitochondries (compartiment qui fabrique l'énergie de la cellule). Ce travail montre clairement que la protéine spike seule, non associée au reste du génome viral, est suffisante pour provoquer les dommages cardiovasculaires associés au COVID-19. Les implications pour les vaccins sont évidemment très préoccupantes !

Au moins aussi préoccupant, dans une étude in vitro, des chercheurs ont montré que la spike seule (partie S1) induisait une perte d'intégrité de la barrière hémato-encéphalique (qui sépare les vaisseaux irriguant le cerveau du système nerveux central) sur un modèle reconstituant cette barrière, ce qui suggère la possibilité d'une inflammation dans les vaisseaux du cerveau et dans le cerveau lui-même (Buzhdygan et al., 2020).

Ce passage de la barrière hémato-encéphalique a été confirmé chez la souris et la protéine spike a été observée sur les neurones dans tout le cerveau (Rhea EM et al., 2021). C'est très perturbant car on sait que l'ARNm des vaccins peut atteindre le cerveau (Bahl et al., 2017), comme le précise aussi l'Agence Européenne du Médicament (EMA) à hauteur de 2% de la concentration plasmatique (European Medicines Agency, 2021). Cet ARNm peut y produire de la protéine spike et les récepteurs ACE2 étant très nombreux dans le cerveau, on peut s'attendre à des problèmes d'ordre nerveux ou de dégénérescence? notamment de cellules qui ne sont pas renouvelées.

D'autre part, la protéine spike du SARS-CoV2 et du vaccin en mobilisant ACE2 induit aussi une diminution de la sérotonine, ce qui aggrave ou peut provoquer des états dépressifs voire suicidaires (Klempin F et al., 2018) (de Melo LA et al., 2020).

- 20 août 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Israël - UK - « Covid Vaccines: The Good, The Bad, The Ugly »

  « The latest data from Israel and the UK on covid vaccine effectiveness.

  The latest data from Israel, which has used primarily the Pfizer mRNA vaccine, indicates that vaccine effectiveness against Delta coronavirus infection and symptomatic ("mild") disease has dropped from about 95% to about 40%, whereas effectiveness against hospitalization and severe disease (i.e. low blood oxygen levels) remains at 80% to 90% (see chart above).

  Importantly, in people who got vaccinated already in January 2021 (primarily the elderly), protection against infection and mild disease mas already dropped to just 16% (see chart above). Moreover, since the Delta covid outbreak is still accelerating in Israel, the effectiveness against hospitalization and severe disease may further decrease (due to lags in hospitalizations).

  (Update: The latest official MoH data confirms that protection against severe disease has alreadydropped to 55%; compared to the original 96%, this results in a tenfold increase in residual risk.)

In the UK, which has primarily used the AstraZeneca DNA adenovector vaccine, the latest estimate by researchers at University College London indicates an effectiveness against infection of only 8% and a total effectiveness against severe disease of about 60%. In very senior citizens, the effectiveness against severe disease may be even lower (due to a weaker immune response).
(A substantially higher estimate by Public Health England, recently published in the New England Journal of Medicine, was based on outdated data from early June. Interestingly, the British government hasn't updated its data on AstraZeneca vaccine effectiveness since June 13. Update: New data from PHE confirms that effectiveness against infection has dropped below 20%.)

The Israeli data shown above indicates that effectiveness against infection and mild symptoms decreases rapidly over time and reaches near-zero levels after about half a year. Most likely, this is because covid vaccines do not achieve mucosal immunity (in contrast to natural infection) and serum antibody levels (i.e. antibodies in the blood) decrease within months (see chart below).

Thus, the false promise of very high protection against "symptomatic infection", found during official vaccine trials, was simply based on very high short-term serum antibody levels mimicking mucosal immunity. From an immunological perspective, this was just a (very lucrative) "flash in the pan" and not a lasting protective effect.

In contrast, protection against severe disease is achieved by lower serum antibody levels in combination with immunological memory (B cells) and cellular immunity (T cells). However, the Delta variant has already achieved partial immune evasion (as did Beta and Gamma, but not Alpha), and future coronavirus variants will likely achieve almost complete immune evasion.

Thus, vaccine protection even against severe disease will likely further decrease due to new variants, or, in the very worst case, will turn into antibody-dependent disease enhancement (ADE), if high levels of non-neutralizing antibodies aggravate the infection. Indeed, this is what happened in the case of vaccines against SARS-1 and dengue fever. (Update: A first molecular modelling study has found evidence of a potential ADE mechanism in people vaccinated against covid.)

To prevent such a decrease in protection against severe disease, or to restore short-term protection against infection and mild disease, updated "booster shots" will likely become necessary. (Update: On July 29, Israel announced "booster shots" for people over 60 years of age.) »

- 23 août 2021 : Variant Delta - Inefficacité des Vaccins - « The SARS-CoV-2 Delta variant is poised to acquire complete resistance to wild-type spike vaccines »

« Abstract

mRNA-based vaccines provide effective protection against most common SARS-CoV-2 variants. However, identifying likely breakthrough variants is critical for future vaccine development. Here, we found that the Delta variant completely escaped from anti-N-terminal domain (NTD) neutralizing antibodies, while increasing responsiveness to anti-NTD infectivity-enhancing antibodies. Although Pfizer-BioNTech BNT162b2-immune sera neutralized the Delta variant, when four common mutations were introduced into the receptor binding domain (RBD) of the Delta variant (Delta 4+), some BNT162b2-immune sera lost neutralizing activity and enhanced the infectivity. Unique mutations in the Delta NTD were involved in the enhanced infectivity by the BNT162b2-immune sera. Sera of mice immunized by Delta spike, but not wild-type spike, consistently neutralized the Delta 4+ variant without enhancing infectivity. Given the fact that a Delta variant with three similar RBD mutations has already emerged according to the GISAID database, it is necessary to develop vaccines that protect against such complete breakthrough variants. »

- 23 août 2021 : Masques - « Why Masks Are a Charade » - Dr Joseph Mercola

  « How Did Health Authorities Get So Irrational on Masks?
  In an August 11, 2021, City-Journal article,7 Jeffrey Anderson reviews the scientific evidence for universal masking, noting that February 25, 2020, U.K. health authorities published guidance discouraging the use of masks even for health care workers in residential care facilities due to the fact that they don't prevent viral spread.

  Although the guidance apparently has been wiped from the internet like Adams' tweet, Anderson quotes it as saying, "During normal day-to-day activities facemasks do not provide protection from respiratory viruses, such as COVID-19 and do not need to be worn by staff."

  Similarly, March 30, 2020, the executive director for the World Health Organization's Health Emergency Program stated "there is no specific evidence to suggest that the wearing of masks by the mass population has any particular benefit."

  Such guidance was truthful and logical. Surgical masks are not designed to protect the wearer or others against viral transmission, as the holes in the fabric are far larger than any virus. They're merely meant to prevent a health care worker from inadvertently infecting a patient's wound with bacteria-laden saliva or respiratory droplets. As reported by Anderson:

  "Public-health officials' advice in the early days of Covid-19 was consistent with that understanding. Then, on April 3, 2020, Adams announced that the CDC was changing its guidance and that the general public should hereafter wear masks whenever sufficient social distancing could not be maintained.

  Fast-forward 15 months. Rand Paul has been suspended from YouTube for a week for saying, 'Most of the masks you get over the counter don't work.'

  Many cities across the country, following new CDC guidance handed down amid a spike in cases nationally caused by the Delta variant, are once again mandating indoor mask-wearing for everyone, regardless of inoculation status.

The CDC further recommends that all schoolchildren and teachers, even those who have had Covid-19 or have been vaccinated, should wear masks …

How did mask guidance change so profoundly? Did the medical research on the effectiveness of masks change — and in a remarkably short period of time — or just the guidance on wearing them?"

Why Is the CDC Using Inferior Science to Support Masking?

We're routinely told to follow the science and that public health recommendations are based on just that. But are they really? Where is the evidence showing that masking has any impact on viral transmission?

It's striking how much the CDC, in marshalling evidence to justify its revised mask guidance, studiously avoids mentioning randomized controlled trials. ~ Jeffrey Anderson

Randomized controlled trials (RCTs) have long been regarded as the gold standard in medical research, as they allow you to isolate a specific variable and reduce the ability of researchers to produce a preferred outcome. It's still possible through a variety of tricks, but at least then you can see the bias. Curiously, RCTs are now routinely ignored when it comes to mask wearing. Why is that? Anderson reports:

"It's striking how much the CDC, in marshalling evidence to justify its revised mask guidance, studiously avoids mentioning randomized controlled trials …

In a 'Science Brief'11 highlighting studies that 'demonstrate that mask wearing reduces new infections' and serving as the main public justification for its mask guidance, the CDC provides a helpful matrix of 15 studies — none RCTs.

The CDC instead focuses strictly on observational studies completed after Covid-19 began. In general, observational studies are not only of lower quality than RCTs but also are more likely to be politicized, as they can inject the researcher's judgment more prominently into the inquiry and lend themselves, far more than RCTs, to finding what one wants to find.

A particular favorite of the CDC's … is an observational (specifically, cohort) study12 focused on two COVID-positive hairstylists at a beauty salon in Missouri.

The two stylists, who were masked, provided services for 139 people, who were mostly masked, for several days after developing Covid-19 symptoms. The 67 customers who subsequently chose to get tested for the coronavirus tested negative, and none of the 72 others reported symptoms.

This study has major limitations. For starters, any number of the 72 untested customers could have had COVID-19 but been asymptomatic, or else had symptoms that they chose not to report to the Greene County Health Department, the entity doing the asking.

The apparent lack of spread of COVID-19 could have been a result of good ventilation, good hand hygiene, minimal coughing by the stylists, or the fact that stylists generally, as the researchers note, 'cut hair while clients are facing away from them.'

The researchers also observe that 'viral shedding' of the coronavirus 'is at its highest during the 2 to 3 days before symptom onset.' Yet no customers who saw the stylists when they were at their most contagious were tested for COVID-19 or asked about symptoms.

Most importantly, this study does not have a control group. Nobody has any idea how many people, if any, would have been infected had no masks been worn in the salon."

RCTs Show Masks Don't Prevent Viral Transmission

Another piece of evidence leaned on by the CDC is a survey, which is even lower-quality evidence than an observational cohort study.

"Mask supporters often claim that we have no choice but to rely on observational studies instead of RCTs, because RCTs cannot tell us whether masks work or not. But what they really mean is that they don't like what the RCTs show," Anderson writes.

Indeed, you'd be hard-pressed to find even a single RCT showing mask wearing has a notable benefit. Anderson goes through 14 RCTs, conducted around the world, that have investigated the effectiveness of masks against respiratory viruses, discussing their findings.

Among them is a French study13 from 2010, which randomly placed sick patients and their household contacts into a mask group or a non-mask group. Adherence to the designated intervention was "good."

Within one week, 15.8% of household contacts in the no-mask control group and 16.2% in the mask group developed an influenza-like illness. The 0.4% difference between the groups was statistically insignificant. According to the authors: "In various sensitivity analyses, we did not identify any trend in the results suggesting effectiveness of facemasks."

The CDC's own data14,15,16 also show 70.6% of COVID-19 patients reported "always" wearing a cloth mask or face covering in the 14 days preceding their illness; 14.4% reported having worn a mask "often." So, a total of 85% of people who came down with COVID-19 had "often" or "always" worn a mask.

The Covid vaccine does not protect against acquiring Covid, nor does it prevent vaccinated people from spreading the virus.

The Covid Vaccine has massive adverse effects and is on course to cause more illnesses and deaths than Covid. Among the adverse effects are infertility and spontaneous abortion.

The vaccine trains the virus to evolve variants that escape the immune response.

The lethality of the Covid virus has been massively overstated.

The number of Covid cases were massively overstated by a defective PCR test.

The outbreak of new cases ascribed to the Delta variant are worst in the countries with the most heavily vaccinated populations.

Known cures such as HCQ and Ivermectin are intentionally blocked from use by official protocol.

Large numbers of top level scientists and doctors are calling for a halt to Covid vaccination. These calls are suppressed by the scum presstitutes and ignored by official authorities.

Why? Is it just profit? Is it just control? Or is there a darker agenda? »

  « The deployment of clever linguistic tricks has created a hostile upside-down universe, where even the vaccine-injured are tarnished as "anti-vaxxers" or liars rather than acknowledged as ex-vaxxers who took risks that turned out to be life-changing.

Psychological and linguistic manipulation are, for those in power, proven tools for building, consolidating and maintaining dominance — a reality keenly depicted in George Orwell's never-more-relevant novel, "1984."
As phrased by master propagandist Edward Bernays, an approximate contemporary of Orwell's, the mind of the people "is made up for it by the group leaders in whom it believes and by those persons who understand the manipulation of public opinion."

Recent events surrounding COVID vaccines have shown that medicine and public health — with the help of a complicit media — are particularly skilled at "pull[ing] the wires which control the public mind."

The clever bag of linguistic tricks deployed by the medical cartel includes seeding evocative terms such as "vaccine hesitancy" and "lockdowns" (which is prison terminology) into popular and scientific discourse, forging slippery new definitions of words with formerly fixed meanings (such as "pandemic," "herd immunity" and "vaccine"), and circling failed products back around by giving them the positive spin of "boosters."

Ominously, medicine's and public health's verbal assaults encourage shaming of, or violence against, those who ask questions, while upholding the disingenuous pretense that vaccine mandates are compatible with freedom.

In this hostile upside-down universe, even the vaccine-injured are tarnished as "anti-vaxxers" or liars rather than acknowledged as ex-vaxxers who took risks that turned out to be life-changing. »

  « In 1989, researchers from the Salk Institute in California published a paper detailing how they developed an RNA transfection system that could "directly introduce RNA into whole tissues and embryos".

  The concept of using RNA as a drug is first described in this paper, making it the seminal work that formed the foundation for decades of further research in this area. The "Discussion" section of the paper states that:

  The RNA/lipofectin method can be used to directly introduce RNA into whole tissues and embryos (R.W.M., C. Holt, and I.M.V., unpublished results), raising the possibility that liposome-mediated mRNA transfection might offer yet another option in the growing technology of eukaryotic gene delivery, one based on the concept of using RNA as a drug."

  One of the Salk Institute researchers listed on the paper is Dr Robert W. Malone, a scientist who has recently been censored on social media for warning about the possible dangers of the covid-19 vaccines. « One of the Salk Institute researchers listed on the paper is Dr Robert W. Malone, a scientist who has recently been censored on social media for warning about the possible dangers of the covid-19 vaccines. It could be argued that there's no expert more qualified to warn us about the dangers of mRNA injections than the man who helped pioneer the technology, nevertheless, Big Tech decided he was expounding "misinformation", because, well, they know better apparently.

Malone's research, which resulted in a procedure that could be used to "efficiently transfect RNA into human cells" using a "synthetic cationic lipid" was supported by grants from the American Cancer Society and the National Institute of Health (who currently have a stake in the Moderna mRNA vaccine, showing their allegiance to the technology. More on this later).

While Malone's contributions to the development of mRNA technology are well-known and well-documented, Wikipedia decided to remove all mention of him from their "RNA Vaccine" entry shortly after the scientist began speaking out about the dangers of the rushed-through covid vaccines. The June 14th version of the article mentioned Malone by name 3 times and cited his work 6 times. The current version of the article mentions him 0 times and cites his work only 3 times.

However, this is unsurprising considering Wikipedia's documented bias towards the pharmaceutical industry. Far more interesting is the institution that produced the research in the first place – the Salk Institute.

The Salk Institute, named after Jonas Salk, the creator of the Salk polio vaccine, was constructed in 1962 thanks to funding from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, today known as the March of the Dimes.

The March of the Dimes (MOD) was established in 1937 with the mission of eradicating polio and during a time when the Eugenics Establishment was already a prominent, but not yet popular, feature of the American health scene. The theory of Eugenics is based on the idea that selective procreation can lead to the gradual "improvement" of the human race and that certain families are fit to lead society by virtue of their "superior" genes.

At the time, the nation's key eugenics organizations included the American Eugenics Society (AES) and the American Society of human Eugenics (ASHE), funded by the Rockefeller, Carnegie and Harriman families, as well as the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. It should be noted that the Rockefellers were instrumental in funding and promoting eugenics around the world. The Eugenics movement promoted selective mating, artificial insemination and compulsory sterilization and euthanasia as important means of weeding out so-called "inferior" human beings. »

« In 1997, 8 years after the Salk Institute paper, the FDA approved the first-ever trial of transfected RNA to develop immunity in cancer patients. The Recombinant DNA Advisory Committee of the National Institute of Health then voted to continue approval some months later, leading to the first-ever mRNA-based vaccine administered to humans.

Though mRNA is propagandized in the media as the next revolution in health, those with keen perception may be alarmed when reading excerpts such as this one, taken from an article on the history of mRNA, written by Damian Garde, a Biotech reporter for STATS:

"The concept: By making precise tweaks to synthetic mRNA and injecting people with it, any cell in the body could be transformed into an on-demand drug factory."

Talk of cells being turned into "on-demand drug factories" is exactly the sort of meaningless techno-rhetoric meant to impress and entice an uninformed public. mRNA vaccines are based on the following concept: a piece of synthetic mRNA is shuttled into your cells, where it is used as a template to create the viral "spike protein". Once this protein leaves the cell, the body produces antibodies and "learns" how to fight future Sars-Cov-2 infections.

mRNA-based vaccines are often touted as a safer alternative to DNA-based vaccines, which, according to experts "may trigger permanent and dangerous changes in the genetic information of treated people". However, do we know for sure that mRNA vaccines don't permanently change the genetic makeup of our cells? A 2001 paper titled RNA as a tumor vaccine: a review of the literature states that (emphasis added):

unlike DNA-based vaccines, there is little danger of incorporation of RNA sequences into the host genome."

The use of the word "little" would seem to indicate that there may be at least some danger of genome integration, or more likely, researchers simply don't know.

In the 2004 "expert opinion" paper by Pascolo cited above, he outlines the link between mRNA vaccines and gene therapies, something which is continually denied and dismissed by the mainstream:

Although located in the cytosol and not in the nucleus, mature mRNAs belong to the biochemical family of nucleic acids. mRNA, similarly to DNA, may be considered a gene and, consequently, it's use as a vaccine may be viewed as 'gene therapy'." »

En terme de vitesse de vaccination, le succès de la campagne d'injection israélienne est remarquable. Au 24 août 2021, près de 13 050 964 de doses ont été administrées et 70% de la population aurait

reçu au moins une dose de vaccin. Les deux mois qui ont suivi la campagne d'injection Pfizer ont été marqués par une augmentation considérable des contaminations journalières, leur nombre dépassant les pics de la vague précédente malgré un confinement strict. Ces deux mois post-injection ont établi les records mensuels de contaminations depuis le début de l'épidémie. Cette évolution défavorable a confirmé que le pseudo-vaccin Pfizer est incapable d'empêcher la transmission de la maladie.

« Le 27 août, l'OMS vient de sortir un guide très révélateur pour notre avenir concernant la certification électronique de la vaccination, à l'heure de l'éternelle pandémie du Covid. Ce guide global prévoit notamment la possibilité d'élargir le suivi électronique à d'autres vaccinations et incite tous les pays membres à y recourir, à des niveaux différents en fonction de la réactivité de leur population. Bref, si l'on se soumet, l'on arrive à*Pass sanitaire for ever* ! Le "nouveau monde" met en place ses instruments.

L'OMS, qui a vu sa fonction gouvernante décuplée grâce à la crise du Covid, prévoit de faire perdurer son pouvoir au-delà des risques de disparition ou d'apparition d'un virus ou d'un autre. L'intérêt étant bien le transfert des mécanismes de gouvernance à un niveau surpa-étatique, système dans lequel les Etats ne sont que des structures d'exécution. Ainsi, un guide concernant la généralisation et la pérennisation de la certification électronique des vaccins, au-delà de celui contre le Covid, a été publié ce 27 août par l'OMS.

Selon le document lui-même, en plus des "experts" de l'OMS, il a mis à contribution, notamment, des personnes venant de la Banque mondiale (l'on appréciera la dimension sanitaire), de PATH (une organisation globale axée sur "l'équité sanitaire" et "l'innovation" financée à plus de 20% par le Gouvernement américain et à plus de 50% par des Fondations, dont Bill Gates, Bloomberg ou Open society de Soros), l'Organisation internationale de l'aviation civile, la direction générale pour la santé et la sécurité alimentaire de la Commission européenne, le ministre de la Santé de Nouvelle-Zélande, la direction générale de la communication et des technologies de la Commission européenne, le cabinet juridique Ernst and Young, SNOMED International (organisation internationale d'élaboration des normes de terminologie de la santé - bref, en charge de l'élaboration de la Novlangue sanitaire), le ministère canadien responsable de la politique de l'immigration et des réfugiés (question, comme nous le voyons aujourd'hui en France, effectivement et étrangement liée au Covid), des universités, des groupes technologiques, etc. Et en dernière phrase des remerciements, l'on trouve ceci :

  « Israel is reporting the highest coronavirus infection rate in the world, showing that neither vaccine mandates nor "vaccine passports" are suitable means to limit or end the pandemic.

Israel has been a global pioneer in covid mass vaccinations as well as in introducing the highly controversial "vaccine passport" (Green Pass). Nevertheless, since late August 2021, Israel has been reporting the highest coronavirus infection rate in the entire world (see chart above).

The Israeli case clearly shows that neither covid vaccine mandates nor "vaccine passports" are suitable means to limit or end the pandemic. This is because covid vaccines are unable to reduce coronavirus infections and transmission, and they lose much of their effectiveness even against severe disease within a few months, a medical fact already known from influenza vaccines.

It should be noted that even in Israel, covid vaccines continue to provide some protection against hospitalization and severe disease (about 50%). Nevertheless, double-vaccinated Israeli citizens will again be counted as 'unvaccinated' and will require a third dose. It may well be, however, that "booster shots" have in fact increased recent coronavirus infections ("post-vaccination spike"). »

« Do vaccine mandates violate civil liberties? Some who have refused vaccination claim as much.

We disagree.

At the A.C.L.U., we are not shy about defending civil liberties, even when they are very unpopular. But we see no civil liberties problem with requiring Covid-19 vaccines in most circumstances.

While the permissibility of requiring vaccines for particular diseases depends on several factors, when it comes to Covid-19, all considerations point in the same direction. The disease is highly transmissible, serious and often lethal; the vaccines are safe and effective; and crucially there is no equally effective alternative available to protect public health.

In fact, far from compromising civil liberties, vaccine mandates actually further civil liberties. They protect the most vulnerable among us, including people with disabilities and fragile immune systems, children too young to be vaccinated and communities of color hit hard by the disease. »

  « Newspeak definition opens the door for more authoritarian control, huge Big Pharma profits…and potentially the worst deception of the entire "pandemic »

  « Israel has been at the forefront of the vaccination push ever since November 2020, when they signed agreements with Pfizer to run what were essentially medical experiments on their civilian population.

  They were the first country to roll out the Pfizer vaccine. They were the first country to try out the (since abandoned) "Green passes" system of medical segregation. And now they're the first country to change the terms of the "get vaccinated and get your freedom back" contract.

  That's right. Just as "three weeks to flatten the curve" turned into around 18-months (and counting), "double jabbed" is now evolving into "triple jabbed".

  To quote Dr Salman Zarka, Israel's "coronavirus czar":

  We are updating what it means to be vaccinated,"

  So, there you have it. In Israel, officially, those who have been injected with two doses of Pfizer's so-called vaccine are no longer counted as vaccinated.

What does this mean?

Well, first of all, it means all those "vaccinated" people can kiss their recently acquired freedoms goodbye, unless they're willing to get at least one more booster.

According to the Wall Street Journal [paywalled article]:

Holders of Israel's vaccine passports must get a third dose of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine within six months of their second dose, or lose the so-called green pass that allows them more freedom."

It should also be noted that the third booster is not considered the last. The Israeli Ministry of Health *"has not ruled out further boosters in the future"*and the third shot will only extend the "vaccinated" status for six months, not permanently.

So, essentially, the precedent has been set that your freedoms are the state's to take away on a whim. And, if you comply, they will simply use your compliance as an excuse to take even greater liberties (pun very much intended). » « Ohio Judge Orders Hospital To Treat Ventilated COVID-19 Patient With Ivermectin, see this.

  The murderers at West Chester Hospital in Cincinnati would rather patients die than to treat them with Ivermectin. This is how crazed and brainwashed the Medical establishment is. A judge had to intervene to force the hospital to give Ivermectin treatment to a dying patient. In America to get competent medical treatment requires wining a court case.

  The corrupt public health authorities protecting Big Pharma profits use the excuse that people desperate for Ivermectin but unable to get Ivermectin for humans are harming themselves by taking large doses in formulations for animals. This, of course, is not a justification for banning the use of doses formulated for people.

  Ivermectin Suppressed Covid in Africa where it is used against River Blindness

  In an earlier article I pointed out that in malaria-infested countries where the population has traditionally taken HCQ weekly to ward off infection, Covid cases are rare as HCQ is also a covid preventative and cure.

  Now evidence arises from Japanese researchers that in countries in Africa where Onchocerciasis or River Blindness is endemic, Ivermectin is distributed to the population to prevent or cure infection. In these countries, there is practically no Covid.

  Researchers divided Africa between countries that have Ivermectin programs for control of River Blindness and those that don't. The countries without Ivermectin programs had 4.3 times more cases and 5.7 times more Covid deaths despite having a 220,000,000 smaller population. »

Afin de comprendre à quoi il faut s'attendre dans les mois à venir en ce qui concerne la propagation du variant Delta et la mise en place de toutes les mesures sanitaires en France, les scientifiques de l'institut Pasteur ont fait des modélisations pour prévoir, dans une nouvelle étude, l'évolution de l'épidémie dans les mois à venir. Les chercheurs préviennent toutefois que ces pronostics sont des hypothèses et qu'il peut y avoir d'importants changements si de nouveaux facteurs non pris en compte arrivent.

Les personnes non vaccinées contribuent de manière disproportionnée à la transmission du virus, estiment les auteurs de l'étude, de sorte que les mesures ciblant ces personnes peuvent contribuer à maximiser la lutte contre l'épidémie tout en minimisant les coûts pour la société par rapport aux approches non ciblées. » (…)

- 7 septembre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Protéines Spike - Codons - « Long-Term Dangers of Experimental mRNA Shots »

  « STORY AT-A-GLANCE

  - mRNA-based COVID shots have used codon optimization to improve protein production. A codon consists of three nucleotides, and nucleotides are the building blocks of DNA. Use of codon optimization virtually guarantees unexpected results
  - Replacing rare codons must be done judiciously, as rarer codons can have slower translation rates and a slowed-down rate is actually necessary to prevent protein misfolding
  - Stop codons, when present at the end of an mRNA coding sequence, signals the termination of protein synthesis. According to a recent paper, both Pfizer and Moderna selected suboptimal stop codons
  - The COVID shots induce spike protein at levels unheard of in nature, and the spike protein is the toxic part of the virus responsible for the most unique effects of the virus, such as the blood clotting disorders, neurological problems and heart damage. To expect the COVID shot to not produce these kinds of effects would be rather naïve

- Other significant threats include immune dysfunction and the flare-up of latent viral infections such as herpes and shingles. Coinfections, in turn, could accelerate other diseases. Herpes viruses, for example, have been implicated as a cause of both AIDS and chronic fatigue syndrome »

- 8 septembre 2021 : Masques - Dangers - « Masks Are a Ticking Time Bomb »

« STORY AT-A-GLANCE

- It's estimated that 129 billion face masks are used worldwide each month, which works out to about 3 million masks a minute
- Not only are masks not being recycled, but their materials make them likely to persist and accumulate in the environment
- Because masks may be directly made from microsized plastic fibers with a thickness of 1 mm to 10 mm, they may release microsized particles into the environment more readily — and faster — than larger plastic items, like plastic bags
- Microbes from your mouth, known as oral commensals, frequently enter your lungs, where they've been linked to advanced stage lung cancer; wearing a mask could potentially accelerate this process

- The "new normal" of widespread masking is affecting not only the environment but also the mental and physical health of humans »

- 8 septembre 2021 : Nouvelle Zélande - Totalitarisme - « "COVID Zero" New Zealand Has Completed Its Transformation Into A Full-Blown Police State »

  « Just observe what has happened in the Five Eyes partner nation during this week alone:

  1) Virtually the entire country is once again under an indefinite lockdown, after a few COVID-19 cases were reported throughout the nation. A single case necessitates a "snap lockdown," in which all rights of millions of citizens are immediately restricted and indefinitely subject to the containment of a seasonal respiratory disease. The current lockdown has been extended over Auckland until at least mid September, with many predicting a much lengthier sentence. According to past precedent, Kiwis will not receive their freedom back until — this is the truly insane part of Zero COVID — there is zero community spread of COVID-19.

And the second another case pops up on the radar, the entire country goes back to square one of the Zero COVID protocol.

2) A man is being shamed by his countrymen for having the audacity to "escape" from a government-sanctioned COVID internment camp. The camps have been described in a more positive, but false light by the press and government officials as "quarantine hotels," but it is most certainly an internment facility, as leaving is not allowed, and it carries a fine and lengthy prison sentence.

The Hill reported: "The person was charged with failing to comply with New Zealand's coronavirus health order. Under a new law passed last year, he could face a fine or up to six months in jail if convicted."

3) The country's police and military services are installing security checkpoints throughout New Zealand in an effort to make sure citizens are not traveling during the lockdown. Freely traveling during the lockdown now carries a massive fine and/or prison sentence as punishment. »

« Here's a study that wasn't covered at all by the media, despite it's chilling findings, which cut against claims by American health experts that COVID lockdowns haven't led to an increase in suicides.

A recent UK study showed 5x as many children have died via suicide since the start of the pandemic than the number who have died from COVID (almost no children - and no healthy children - have died from COVID in the US and UK). And the fact that suicides have increased in Japan over the past year has already been documented.

  « A new study suggests that almost half of those hospitalized with COVID-19 have mild or asymptomatic cases. »

« The authors of the paper out this week took a different tack to answer a similar question, this time for adults. Instead of meticulously looking at why a few hundred patients were admitted to a pair of hospitals, they analyzed the electronic records for nearly 50,000 COVID hospital admissions at the more than 100 VA hospitals across the country. Then they checked to see whether each patient required supplemental oxygen or had a blood oxygen level below 94 percent. (The latter criterion is based on the National Institutes of Health definition of "severe COVID.") If either of these conditions was met, the authors classified that patient as having moderate to severe disease; otherwise, the case was considered mild or asymptomatic.

The study found that from March 2020 through early January 2021—before vaccination was widespread, and before the Delta variant had arrived—the proportion of patients with mild or asymptomatic disease was 36 percent. From mid-January through the end of June 2021, however, that number rose to 48 percent. In other words, the study suggests that roughly half of all the hospitalized patients showing up on COVID-data dashboards in 2021 may have been admitted for another reason entirely, or had only a mild presentation of disease.

This increase was even bigger for vaccinated hospital patients, of whom 57 percent had mild or asymptomatic disease. But unvaccinated patients have also been showing up with less severe symptoms, on average, than earlier in the pandemic: The study found that 45 percent of their cases were mild or asymptomatic since January 21. »

- 13 septembre 2021 : Vaccinations & Épidémies - Dangers - Immunité Collective - « Why Mass Vaccinations Prolong & Make Epidemics Deadlier: Vaccines Expert Calls Out Governments » - Geert Vanden Bossche

« Mass vaccination campaigns may have a beneficial short-time effect in that they reduce viral spread and protect vulnerable people from disease (e.g., elderly people and those with underlying disease), but will eventually drive the propagation of more infectious variants. Dominant circulation of the latter will lead to a resurgence of viral infectious pressure, thereby eroding the innate immune defense of the unvaccinated (i.e., mostly younger age groups including children) and thus making them more susceptible to contracting Covid-19 disease. This already explains why mass vaccination campaigns conducted in the middle of a pandemic will only cause Sars-CoV-2 to engender more disease and claim more human lives. Because of this mass vaccination program, waves of morbidity will continue for much longer, as more (recovery from) disease cases will be required to compensate for the erosion of the population's innate immunity and, therefore, to make up for the latter's deficient contribution to HI. [Herd Immunity].

A vaccine that only prevents hospitalizations and severe Covid-19 disease is not good enough to be used to combat a pandemic. From a global or even public health perspective, these are, therefore, not the right criteria to evaluate the success of mass vaccination campaigns deployed during a pandemic. Using these criteria as an indicator of the level of control over the pandemic will inevitably lead to a further escalation of this morbidity and mortality rates. There should be no doubt that non-transmission-blocking vaccines (i.e., so-called 'leaky' or 'imperfect' vaccines) can never ever control a pandemic, even though they may temporarily protect against disease. Only temporarily? Yes, indeed. »

  « I have not been able to review the relevant documents in detail with a view to establishing the number of victims resulting from the Nazi medical experiments.

  While the Nuremberg principles are of utmost relevance to the Covid-19 vaccine project, simplistic comparisons should be avoided. The context, the history and the mechanisms of compliance pertaining to the mRNA "vaccine" are fundamentally different.

  The scale and size of the Worldwide Vaxx operation as well as its complex organizational structure (WHO, GAVI, Gates Foundation, Big Pharma) is unprecedented.

  Humanity in its entirety is the objective of the Vaxx project. The target population for vaccine experimentation of the Covid-19 vaccine is the entire population of Planet Earth:
  7.9 billion people, involving several doses.

  Multiply the World's population by 4 doses (as proposed by Pfizer): the order of magnitude is 30 billion doses Worldwide.

  The numbers are in the billions. The likely impacts on mortality and morbidity are beyond description.

  Big Money is behind this public-private partnership project.

  « The FDA held a Vaccine Advisory Committee meeting yesterday (September 17, 2021) to discuss authorizing a third Pfizer COVID-19 "booster shot."

  There were signs heading into the meeting this week that there could be some fireworks at this hearing, as two top vaccine research scientists at the FDA, Dr. Marion Gruber and Dr. Phillip Kause, the Director and Deputy Director of the Office of Vaccines Research, recently resigned.

  This followed a report published in The Lancet from 18 officials at the FDA opposing the Biden Administration's plan to start distributing Pfizer "booster shots" later this month (September, 2021) before the FDA had even approved them. » (...)

  « Steve Kirsch, the Executive Director of the COVID-19 Early Treatment Fund, also gave testimony, and he began his comments with:

  I am going to focus my remarks today with the elephant in the room that nobody likes to talk about, that the vaccines kill more people than they save.

  He presented data to prove that the belief that these vaccines are "safe" simply isn't true. He gives several facts to show this, most all of which we have previously covered here at Health Impact News.

For example, people have 71 times more risk of heart attack following COVID-19 vaccines than any other vaccine.

Kirsch claims that expert analysis of existing data, including the 6-month Pfizer trials and VAERS data, prove that the shots kill more people than they allegedly save.

About 411 deaths per million doses. That translates into about 150,000 people have died (from the Pfizer shots).

He then presented some data from the Israel Ministry of Health.

The real numbers confirm that we kill more than we save. And I would love to look at the Israel ministry of health data on the 90+ year olds where we went from a 94.4% vaccinated group to 82.9% vaccinated in the last 4 months.

In the most optimistic scenario it means that 50% of the vaccinated people died and 0% of unvaccinated people died. Unless you can explain that to the public you cannot approve the boosters.

Dr. Jessica Rose, PhD, MSc, BSc, whom we have featured previously here on Health Impact News and has done extensive studies on the VAERS data, also gave a presentation where she showed that we have had a 1000% percent increase in adverse events following COVID vaccines, as compared to all previous vaccines in prior years, something we have covered extensively here at Health Impact News.

The report, which is the 23rd update to be released suggests at first glance that the vast majority of Covid-19 cases and hospitalisations are among the unvaccinated population. Even the World Health Organization (WHO) praised the effort, yet omitted the use of Ivermectin—a scandal. « Cet article présente en première partie le bilan de l'année 2020 pour montrer que dans sa globalité, cette année est loin d'être exceptionnelle du point de vue de la mortalité. Ce résultat est confirmé pour tous les pays d'Europe pour lesquels nous avons des données de population et de décès.

En seconde partie, cet article présente les décès semaine après semaine de tous les pays européens. Pour comprendre les dynamiques en jeu, 3 périodes de mortalité liées à la Covid-19 seront étudiées :

  - la période de mars-avril 2020, spécifique à un nombre restreint de pays européens
  - la période d'octobre à décembre 2020 qui présente une hausse des décès inhabtiuelle
  - la période depuis début 2021 qui présente un rebond de mortalité lui-aussi inhabituel

Nous verrons que dans les 3 cas, la mortalité est liée non pas à la seule présence d'une nouvelle maladie, mais directement aux choix de politiques sanitaires pris. Dans tous les cas, la croyance dans des modèles de propagation épidémique a induit les pouvoirs publics en erreur. La lutte contre la propagation au détriment de la qualité des soins s'est finalement révélée catastrophique. Cette expérience prouve que les modèles épidémiques utilisés sont déconnectés de la réalité et que seule la qualité du soin prévaut. Au regard des données collectées de mortalité, nous questionnons la stratégie de santé mise en place depuis plus d'un an, du port du masque au confinement total et jusqu'au pari vaccinal au détriment du soin classique. »

And later that month, Hector's wife, Mirta Carvallo, MD, heard that "something's going on with ivermectin in Australia," and she informed her husband of this: scientists at Monash University in Australia had shown that ivermectin could fight SARS-CoV-2 in vitro. Hector was intrigued; the anti-parasite medicine had already saved millions of folks in the southern hemisphere from river blindness, known as onchocerciasis. The doctor and his wife had often prescribed the drug for scabies, rosacea, and other ailments, and he says it is "one of the safest medicines I've ever used.   « Dans la première partie de cet article, nous avons vu que s'il arrive à la presse québécoise de rapporter des effets secondaires des injections anti-covid, ceux-ci sont souvent banalisés et leur nombre, tout comme leur gravité, semblent minimisés. La priorité semble être davantage de ne pas nuire à la campagne vaccinale en cours que de donner à la population une information complète sur les risques reliés aux injections. L'argument selon lequel les bénéfices des « vaccins » l'emportent sur les risques, si souvent avancé, est fortement mis à l'épreuve dès lors que l'on sait que toutes les informations pertinentes nécessaires à une prise de décision éclairée ne sont pas transmises à la population. Non seulement les médias faillissent-ils à leur rôle d'informer de manière objective et rigoureuse, mais il semble aussi que la pharmacovigilance au Québec et au Canada connaisse quelques ratés.

  En effet, il semble qu'il soit assez difficile pour la population, au Québec comme ailleurs – mais au Québec sans doute plus qu'à d'autres endroits – de se faire un portrait juste de la situation vaccinale. D'abord, le seul processus de déclaration de manifestations cliniques inhabituelles (MCI) n'est pas simple : quand un cas d'effet secondaire est observé, un professionnel de la santé doit remplir une Déclaration de manifestations cliniques inhabituelles après une vaccination [1], un formulaire de cinq pages plutôt long à remplir. Si une victime soupçonne que ses symptômes sont la conséquence de l'injection reçue, elle ne peut donc pas elle-même remplir une déclaration; tout doit passer par un médecin, et il semble que les médecins soient peu prompts à remplir de telles déclarations, que ce soit par manque de temps ou par leur refus d'établir une corrélation avec le vaccin. »

  « 'COVID Vaccines harm more people than they save,' physicians tell FDA

  During Friday's meeting, VRBPAC unexpectedly voted against approving boosters for the general population based on a lack of long-term data and stating the risks did not outweigh the benefits.

  During the public comment session, numerous experts said data supporting Pfizer's request for booster doses was inadequate, and several highlighted concerning patterns with data from the CDC's Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System or VAERS — requesting more attention be given to potential signals and reported adverse events.

  Dr. Jessica Rose, a viral immunologist and virologist stated she "took it upon herself to become a VAERS analyst who organizes data into comprehensive figures to convey information to the public in both published work and video medium."

  Rose said "safety and efficacy are the cornerstones of the development and administration of biological products meant for human use." She provided a data bridge showing the probability of an adverse event occurring and the severity of the resulting harm to health of individuals in the design population.

  "This is a barsoft that shows the past 10 years of VAERS data plotted against the total number of adverse event reports for all vaccines for the years 2011 to 2020 and for COVID associated products — only for 2021," Rose said.

  "The left barsoft represents all adverse event reports and the right barsoft represents all death adverse event reports," Rose said. "There's an over 1000% increase in the total number of adverse events for 2021, and we are not done with 2021. This is highly anomalous on both fronts."

Rose said:

"The onus is on the public health officials at the FDA, the CDC and policymakers to answer to these anomalies and acknowledge the clear risk signals emerging from VAERS data and to confront the issue of COVID injectable products use/risk. In my opinion [the risks] outweigh any potential benefit associated with these products, especially for children."

Rose also pointed out that as of Aug. 27, there were 1,500 adverse reactions occurring per million fully injected people, and 1 in 660 individuals are "succumbing to and reporting immunological adverse events associated with the COVID products." Rose noted adverse events are under-reported and the under-reporting factor was not considered in her data. »

1. La protéine spike est toxique.

La protéine spike (S), qui est la protéine formant la couronne caractéristique du virus SARS-CoV-2, est capable de se fixer sur les parois des cellules humaines. Cette fixation permet au virus de s'attacher aux cellules puis de les pénétrer afin de s'y reproduire. Si la protéine spike est neutralisée par le système immunitaire, le virus ne peut plus pénétrer les cellules et se reproduire.

Les vaccins à ARN (Pfizer, Moderna) et à adénovirus (Astra Zeneca, Janssen) contiennent le code génétique d'une protéine spike légèrement modifiée (Seneff et Nigh 2021). Ce code est envoyé vers les cellules humaines. Il est transporté par une nanoparticule lipidique dans le cas des vaccins à ARN, ou par un virus modifié génétiquement et non pathogène dans le cas des vaccins à adénovirus (Velot 2020). Les cellules humaines produiront ensuite la protéine spike, déclenchant une réponse immunitaire et vaccinant ainsi le sujet, car son système immunitaire sera prêt (pendant une durée qui reste à déterminer) à neutraliser la protéine spike en cas d'attaque ultérieure par le virus.

Le problème est que la protéine spike est toxique (Avolio et al. 2021, Lei et al. 2021). Lorsqu'elle est fabriquée par les cellules humaines suite la vaccination, elle se fixe sur les parois de ces cellules et peut causer des dommages. Si les protéines spike étaient seulement produites par les cellules musculaires, là ou est faite l'injection, cela ne représenterait probablement pas un problème. Mais une partie des nanoparticules contenues dans le vaccin passe dans la circulation sanguine, comme cela a été montré dans le cas des rats par une étude japonaise pour le vaccin Pfizer (Vidéo 1). Une fois dans la circulation sanguine, l'ARN du vaccin va s'introduire dans les cellules de la paroi des capillaires sanguins (cellules endothéliales), qui vont donc fabriquer la spike. La protéine va ensuite se fixer sur la paroi de ces cellules au lieu de circuler dans le plasma sanguin, car l'ARN qui la code a été modifié pour lui donner cette propriété (Vidéo 2). Ceci peut conduire à la destruction de ces cellules par les réponses immunitaires, ainsi qu' à la formation de caillots sanguins et à des myocardites et autres dommages.
Certains médecins ou chercheurs, dont le Professeur Bhakdi (Vidéo 3) en Allemagne et le Professeur Hoffe (Vidéo 4) au canada, on conduit des analyses montrant que 60% des personnes vaccinées ont un taux anormalement élevé de micro-caillots sanguins dans leur sang, après la vaccination. Les conséquences de ces micro-caillots ne sont pas connues. La protéine Spike est également capable de sortir des capillaires sanguins et de contaminer divers organes chez les humains d'après des rapports d'autopsie (Vidéo 5), ainsi que les neurones dans le cerveau au moins chez les souries (Rhea et al 2021).

2. Les vaccins pourraient causer des maladies à prion

Les prions sont des protéines qui ne sont plus capables de se déplier ou replier normalement. Ils sont impliquées dans de nombreuses maladies neurodégénératives, comme la maladie de Parkinson et l'Alzheimer. Selon Seneff et Nigh (2021), la protéine spike des vaccins a été modifiée, par rapport à son homologue naturelle, d'une manière qui pourrait la conduire à se comporter comme un prion. Le biologiste Luc Montagnier, prix Nobel de Médecine, évoque ce risque (Vidéo 7), tandis que Classen (2021) a mesuré que les patients vaccinés avec Astra-Zeneca au Royaume Uni sont 2.6 fois plus touchés par la maladie de Parkinson (une maladie à prions) que les patients vaccinés avec Pfizer. D'autres études sont toutefois nécessaires car l'étude de Classen (2021) ne contrôle pas les différences qui pourraient exister au niveau du profil des patients traités par ces deux vaccins, et n'effectue pas de comparaison avec des patients non vaccinés.

3. Maladies auto-immunes

La protéine spike, qui est la cible des anticorps produits par la vaccination, présente des similitudes avec certaines protéines humaines (Ehrenfeld et al. 2020, Lyons Weiler 2020, Vojdani et al. 2021). Il en découle un risque de maladies auto-immunes, ou "pathological priming", c'est à dire de situations dans lesquelles le système immunitaire détruirait des cellules ou protéines humaines, à cause de leur ressemblance avec les protéines virales.

Une ressemblance existerait notamment entre la protéine spike et la syncytine, une protéine placentaire (Vidéo 8). Les vaccins pourraient alors provoquer des troubles de la grossesse, comme mentionné dans une pétition demandant la révision des protocoles des essais cliniques testant les vaccins COVID. Kloc et al (2021) considèrent que cet événement est « improbable », ce qui est un aveu implicite qu'il est possible. Sans soute le risque est très faible mais vu que des milliards de personnes vaccinées sont concernées, il ne faut pas le négliger.

4. Les vaccins pourraient faciliter l'infection et aggraver la COVID-19 dans certaines circonstances

Il peut arriver qu'une deuxième infection par un virus cause plus d'effets délétères que la première infection, à cause d'une facilitation de l'infection par les anticorps (Antibody Dependent Enhancement ou ADE) acquis durant la première infection. Ceci peut se produire si le taux d'anticorps est faible, ou si la deuxième infection fait intervenir un nouveau variant qui est difficilement neutralisé par les anticorps. Le vaccin contre le virus de la dengue, notamment, a du être retiré avec fracas après avoir causé des décès du fait du mécanisme ADE (Normile 2017). L'ADE explique les échecs des tentatives de développement de vaccins contre d'autres coronavirus (Tseng et al. 2012) avant la crise COVID, et est source de préoccupations dans le cas des vaccins COVID (Eroshenko et al. 2020, Lee et al. 2020). Ces vaccins étant toujours en phase expérimentale (phase 3 pour Moderna et Pfizer), on ne dispose pas du recul permettant de savoir si le phénomène ADE va se produire, mais plusieurs publications récentes, revues ici, indiquent que cela pourrait être le cas. Des chercheurs ont par exemple conclu, en utilisant des outils de modélisation moléculaire, que lorsque le variant delta est mis en contact avec des anticorps acquis lors d'une infection par la souche originelle du virus, les anticorps neutralisant ont perdu en partie leur affinité tandis que des anticorps facilitateurs de l'infection la conservent (Yahi et al. 2021), d'où une facilitation de l'infection. »

  « In a video released Monday by Project Veritas, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services insider, Jodi O'Malley, a registered nurse, shares recorded conversations between herself and colleagues about the government's failure to acknowledge COVID vaccine risks and lack of efficacy.

  Project Veritas on Monday released the first video of its COVID vaccine investigative series featuring an interview with U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) insider, Jodi O'Malley, a registered nurse at the Phoenix Indian Medical Center in Arizona.

  O'Malley described to Project Veritas founder James O'Keefe what has been going on at her federal government facility. To corroborate her assertions, O'Malley recorded her HHS colleagues discussing their concerns about the new COVID vaccine.

  Here are some of the highlights from the video:

  - Dr. Maria Gonzales, ER doctor, HHS: "All this is bullshit. Now, [a patient] probably [has] myocarditis due to the [COVID] vaccine. But now, they [government] are not going to blame the vaccine."
  - Dr. Gonzales: "They [government] are not reporting [adverse COVID vaccine side effects] … They want to shove it under the mat."
  - Deanna Paris, registered nurse, HHS: "It's a shame they [government] are not treating people [with COVID] like they're supposed to, like they should. I think they want people to die."
  - Jodi O'Malley, HHS insider and registered nurse: The COVID vaccine is "not doing what its purpose was."
  - O'Malley: "I've seen dozens of people come in with adverse reactions."

- O'Malley: "If we [government] are not gathering [COVID vaccine] data and reporting it, then how are we going to say that this is safe and approved for use?"
- O'Malley: I'm not afraid of blowing the whistle "because my faith lies in God and not man … You know, like what kind of person would I be if I knew all of this — this is evil at the highest level. You have the FDA [U.S. Food and Drug Administration], you have the [Centers for Disease Control and Prevention] CDC, that are both supposed to be protecting us, but they are under the government, and everything that we've done so far is unscientific."
- O'Malley: "At the end of the day, it's about your health, and you can never get that back — and about your freedom, and about living in a peaceful society, and I'm like, 'no.' No. This is the hill that I will die on." »

Protocoles funéraires dans le cadre du Covid-19

Dans le cadre de la crise sanitaire qui frappe la Nouvelle-Calédonie, le gouvernement a validé un protocole rédigé par la direction des Affaires sanitaires et sociales qui précise les recommandations pour la prise en charge du corps des personnes décédées du Covid-19. Ce document, préparé en concertation avec les communes, s'inscrit dans le cadre du confinement strict de la population. Il vise à prévenir les risques de contagion, tout en préservant, au mieux, le respect dû aux défunts.

Protocoles funéraires Covid-19

Toute personne décédée à son domicile, dans un établissement social, un Ehpad ou sur la voie publique est présumée décédée du Covid-19, sauf si un certificat médical en atteste autrement. Par conséquent, ce défunt est considéré comme potentiellement contagieux.

Dans ce cas, la toilette mortuaire par un thanatopracteur ou un professionnel de santé est autorisée mais les soins de conservation sont interdits. Le corps est placé au plus vite dans une housse mortuaire étanche par l'opérateur funéraire ou une équipe autorisée par la mairie concernée.

La mise en bière doit s'effectuer très rapidement après autorisation de l'officier d'état civil (mairie). Elle est opérée sur le lieu du décès et effectuée par l'opérateur funéraire ou une équipe autorisée par la mairie concernée. Au maximum trois personnes de la famille peuvent y assister.

Le défunt doit être inhumé ou incinéré dans les 48 heures. Si ce délai ne peut être respecté, le cercueil est transporté par un opérateur funéraire vers un lieu de conservation adéquat de la commune, dans l'attente de l'inhumation ou de la crémation.

Concernant les décès à l'hôpital, où la possibilité de faire un test de dépistage simultané est possible, le protocole détaillé ci-dessus s'applique de la même façon en cas de décès du Covid-19 avéré ou supposé.

Funérailles

Dans le cadre du confinement, seules dix personnes au maximum peuvent assister au recueillement et aux funérailles.

  « First: unless and until COVID "cases" are abandoned as a metric by which policy action is presumptively dictated, these institutions are destined to continue flailing from irrational measure to irrational measure for the foreseeable future. Just turn your gaze over to one of America's most hallowed pedagogical grounds: As of September 17, Columbia University has newly forbidden students from hosting guests, visiting residence halls other than their own, and gathering with more than ten people. The stated rationale for these restrictions? Administrators have extrapolated from the "contact tracing" data they've compulsorily seized that a recent increase in viral transmission is attributable to "students socializing unmasked at gatherings in residence halls and at off-campus apartments, bars, and restaurants." (Socializing at apartments, bars, and restaurants in the middle of Manhattan — gee, I can't imagine anything more heinous.)

  Just like Connecticut College and so many other institutions I've been taking flurries of messages about, Columbia has already mandated vaccination for all students, faculty, and staff, and is approaching 100% compliance. But as has now been made abundantly clear, for many people in positions of bureaucratic authority, universal vaccination was never going to be sufficient for a transition away from the "Permanent Emergency" mode of COVID exegetical theology. The perverse incentives are easy to grasp. These administrators have so much invested in the infrastructure of "case" detection they've constructed over the past year and a half — not to mention the wider ideological project of "stopping the spread" at all costs — that it's impossible to imagine conditions under which they'd voluntarily move to dismantle the surveillance systems over which they preside. And not just because the new powers conferred by this infrastructure — the ability to micromanage the private lives of young adults, track and adjudicate the propriety of their movements, etc. — is probably creepily intoxicating on a level these administrators may not be overtly conscious of, and in any event would almost certainly never publicly admit. »

  « A bombshell report has concluded that scientists at the Wuhan Institute of Virology and their affiliated partners attempted to secure $14 million in funding from the Pentagon's scientific arm DARPA to genetically alter viruses, including bat coronaviruses, and make them more infectious to humans, just eighteen months prior to the subsequent outbreak and pandemic.

  The London Telegraph reports the findings revealed by Drastic, a web-based investigations team set up by scientists from across the world to look into the origins of Covid-19.

  The documents they obtained, confirmed as genuine by former US government officials, show that DARPA turned down the request, saying the plans for yet more gain of function research were TOO DANGEROUS to the human population. »

  PART I: "COVID DEATHS" & MORTALITY

  1. The survival rate of "Covid" is over 99%. Government medical experts went out of their way to underline, from the beginning of the pandemic, that the vast majority of the population are not in any danger from Covid.

  Almost all studies on the infection-fatality ratio (IFR) of Covid have returned results between 0.04% and 0.5%. Meaning Covid's survival rate is at least 99.5%.

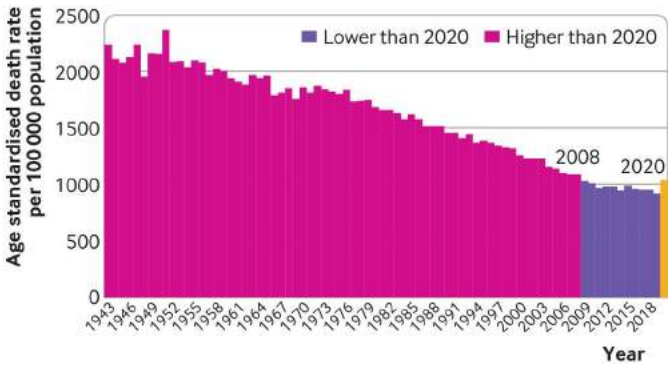
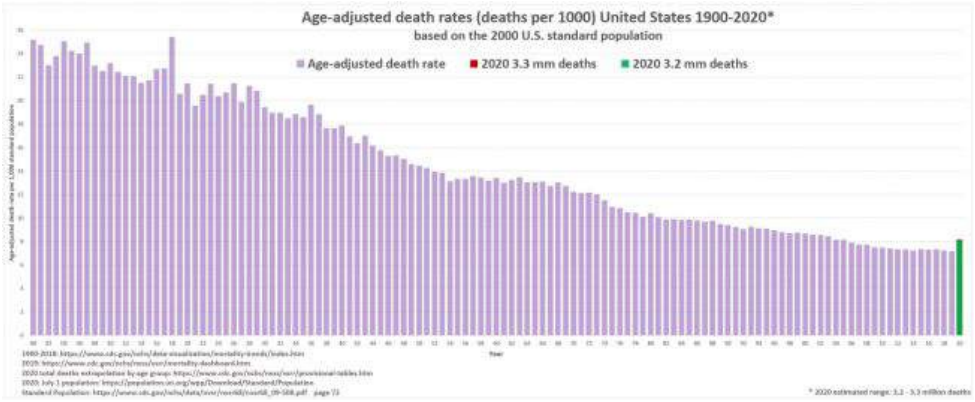
  2. There has been NO unusual excess mortality. The press has called 2020 the UK's "deadliest year since world war two", but this is misleading because it ignores the massive increase in the population since that time. A more reasonable statistical measure of mortality is Age-Standardised Mortality Rate (ASMR):



By this measure, 2020 isn't even the worst year for mortality since 2000, In fact since 1943 only 9 years have been better than 2020.

Similarly, in the US the ASMR for 2020 is only at 2004 levels:



For a detailed breakdown of how Covid affected mortality across Western Europe and the US click here. What increases in mortality we have seen could be attributable to non-Covid causes [facts 7, 9 & 19].

3. "Covid death" counts are artificially inflated. Countries around the globe have been defining a "Covid death" as a "death by any cause within 28/30/60 days of a positive test".

Healthcare officials from Italy, Germany, the UK, US, Northern Ireland and others have all admitted to this practice:

https://youtu.be/Tw9Ci2PZKZg

Removing any distinction between dying of Covid, and dying of something else after testing positive for Covid will naturally lead to over-counting of "Covid deaths". British pathologist Dr John Lee was warning of this "substantial over-estimate" as early as last spring. Other mainstream sources have reported it, too.

Considering the huge percentage of "asymptomatic" Covid infections [14], the well-known prevalence of serious comorbidities [fact 4] and the potential for false-positive tests [fact 18], this renders the Covid death numbers an extremely unreliable statistic.

4. The vast majority of covid deaths have serious comorbidities. In March 2020, the Italian government published statistics showing 99.2% of their "Covid deaths" had at least one serious comorbidity.

These included cancer, heart disease, dementia, Alzheimer's, kidney failure and diabetes (among others). Over 50% of them had three or more serious pre-existing conditions.

This pattern has held up in all other countries over the course of the "pandemic". An October 2020 FOIA request to the UK's ONS revealed less than 10% of the official "Covid death" count at that time had Covid as the sole cause of death.

5. Average age of "Covid death" is greater than the average life expectancy. The average age of a "Covid death" in the UK is 82.5 years. In Italy it's 86. Germany, 83. Switzerland, 86. Canada, 86. The US, 78, Australia, 82.

In almost all cases the median age of a "Covid death" is higher than the national life expectancy.

As such, for most of the world, the "pandemic" has had little-to-no impact on life expectancy. Contrast this with the Spanish flu, which saw a 28% drop in life expectancy in the US in just over a year. [source]

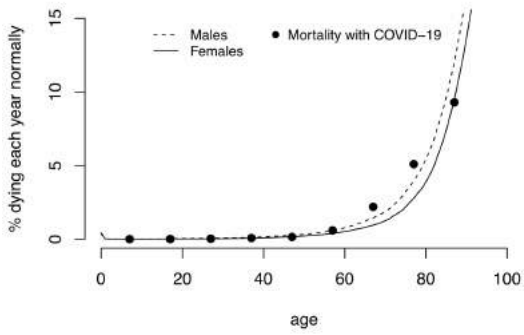
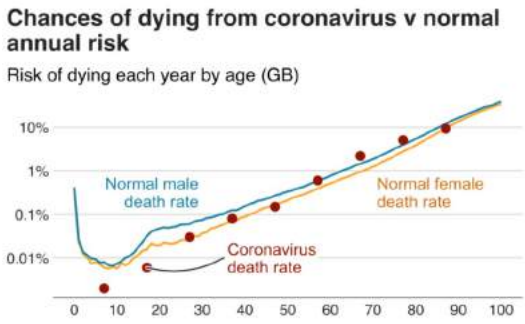
6. Covid mortality exactly mirrors the natural mortality curve. Statistical studies from the UK and India have shown that the curve for "Covid death" follows the curve for expected mortality almost exactly:





The risk of death "from Covid" follows, almost exactly, your background risk of death in general.

The small increase for some of the older age groups can be accounted for by other factors.[facts 7, 9 & 19]

7. There has been a massive increase in the use of "unlawful" DNRs. Watchdogs and government agencies have reported huge increases in the use of Do Not Resuscitate Orders (DNRs) over the last twenty months.

In the US, hospitals considered "universal DNRs" for any patient who tested positive for Covid, and whistleblowing nurses have admitted the DNR system was abused in New York.

In the UK there was an "unprecdented" rise in "illegal" DNRs for disabled people, GP surgeries sent out letters to non-terminal patients recommending they sign DNR orders, whilst other doctors signed "blanket DNRs" for entire nursing homes.

A study done by Sheffield Univerisity found over one-third of all "suspected" Covid patients had a DNR attached to their file within 24 hours of hospital admission.

Blanket use of coerced or illegal DNR orders could account for any increases in mortality in 2020/21.[Facts 2 & 6]

PART II: LOCKDOWNS

8. Lockdowns do not prevent the spread of disease. There is little to no evidence lockdowns have any impact on limiting "Covid deaths". If you compare regions that locked down to regions that did not, you can see no pattern at all.

9. Lockdowns kill people. There is strong evidence that lockdowns – through social, economic and other public health damage – are deadlier than the "virus".

Dr David Nabarro, World Health Organization special envoy for Covid-19 described lockdowns as a "global catastrophe" in October 2020:

We in the World Health Organization do not advocate lockdowns as the primary means of control of the virus[…] it seems we may have a doubling of world poverty by next year. We may well have at least a doubling of child malnutrition […] This is a terrible, ghastly global catastrophe."

A UN report from April 2020 warned of 100,000s of children being killed by the economic impact of lockdowns, while tens of millions more face possible poverty and famine.

Unemployment, poverty, suicide, alcoholism, drug use and other social/mental health crises are spiking all over the world. While missed and delayed surgeries and screenings are going to see increased mortality from heart disease, cancer et al. in the near future.

The impact of lockdown would account for the small increases in excess mortality [Facts 2 & 6]

10. Hospitals were never unusually over-burdened. the main argument used to defend lockdowns is that "flattening the curve" would prevent a rapid influx of cases and protect healthcare systems from collapse. But most healthcare systems were never close to collapse at all.

In March 2020 it was reported that hospitals in Spain and Italy were over-flowing with patients, but this happens every flu season. In 2017 Spanish hospitals were at 200% capacity, and 2015 saw patients sleeping in corridors. A paper JAMA paper from March 2020 found that Italian hospitals "typically run at 85-90% capacity in the winter months".

In the UK, the NHS is regularly stretched to breaking point over the winter.

As part of their Covid policy, the NHS announced in Spring of 2020that they would be "re-organizing hospital capacity in new ways to treat Covid and non-Covid patients separately" and that "as result hospitals will experience capacity pressures at lower overall occupancy rates than would previously have been the case."

This means they removed thousands of beds. During an alleged deadly pandemic, they reduced the maximum occupancy of hospitals.

Despite this, the NHS never felt pressure beyond your typical flu season, and at times actually had 4x more empty beds than normal.

In both the UK and US millions were spent on temporary emergency hospitals that were never used.

PART III: PCR TESTS

11. PCR tests were not designed to diagnose illness. The Reverse-Transcriptase Polymerase Chain Reaction (RT-PCR) test is described in the media as the "gold standard" for Covid diagnosis. But the Nobel Prize-winning inventor of the process never intended it to be used as a diagnostic tool, and said so publicly:

PCR is just a process that allows you to make a whole lot of something out of something. It doesn't tell you that you are sick, or that the thing that you ended up with was going to hurt you or anything like that."

12. PCR Tests have a history of being inaccurate and unreliable. The "gold standard" PCR tests for Covid are known to produce a lot of false-positive results, by reacting to DNA material that is not specific to Sars-Cov-2.

A Chinese study found the same patient could get two different results from the same test on the same day. In Germany, tests are known to have reacted to common cold viruses. A 2006 study found PCR tests for one virus responded to other viruses too. In 2007, a reliance on PCR tests resulted in an "outbreak" of Whooping Cough that never actually existed. Some tests in the US even reacted to the negative control sample.

The late President of Tanzania, John Magufuli, submitted samples goat, pawpaw and motor oil for PCR testing, all came back positive for the virus.

As early as February of 2020 experts were admitting the test was unreliable. Dr Wang Cheng, president of the Chinese Academy of Medical Sciences told Chinese state television "The accuracy of the tests is only 30-50%". The Australian government's own website claimed "There is limited evidence available to assess the accuracy and clinical utility of available COVID-19 tests." And a Portuguese court ruled that PCR tests were *"unreliable" and should not be used for diagnosis.

13. The CT values of the PCR tests are too high. PCR tests are run in cycles, the number of cycles you use to get your result is known as your "cycle threshold" or CT value. Kary Mullis said: "If you have to go more than 40 cycles[…]there is something seriously wrong with your PCR."

The MIQE PCR guidelines agree, stating: *"[CT] values higher than 40 are suspect because of the implied low efficiency and generally should not be reported,"*Dr Fauci himself even admitted anything over 35 cycles is almost never culturable.

Dr Juliet Morrison, virologist at the University of California, Riverside, told the New York Times: Any test with a cycle threshold above 35 is too sensitive…I'm shocked that people would think that 40 [cycles] could represent a positive…A more reasonable cutoff would be 30 to 35".

In the same article Dr Michael Mina, of the Harvard School of Public Health, said the limit should be 30, and the author goes on to point out that reducing the CT from 40 to 30 would have reduced "covid cases" in some states by as much as 90%.

The CDC's own data suggests no sample over 33 cycles could be cultured, and Germany's Robert Koch Institute says nothing over 30 cycles is likely to be infectious.

Despite this, it is known almost all the labs in the US are running their tests at least 37 cycles and sometimes as high as 45. The NHS "standard operating procedure" for PCR tests rules set the limit at 40 cycles.

Based on what we know about the CT values, the majority of PCR test results are at best questionable.

14. The World Health Organization (Twice) Admitted PCR tests produced false positives. In December 2020 WHO put out abriefing memo on the PCR process instructing labs to be wary of high CT values causing false positive results:

when specimens return a high Ct value, it means that many cycles were required to detect virus. In some circumstances, the distinction between background noise and actual presence of the target virus is difficult to ascertain.

Then, in January 2021, the WHO released another memo, this time warning that "asymptomatic" positive PCR tests should be re-tested because they might be false positives:

Where test results do not correspond with the clinical presentation, a new specimen should be taken and retested using the same or different NAT technology.

15. The scientific basis for Covid tests is questionable. The genome of the Sars-Cov-2 virus was supposedly sequenced by Chinese scientists in December 2019, then published on January 10th 2020. Less than two weeks later, German virologists (Christian Drosten et al.) had allegedly used the genome to create assays for PCR tests.

They wrote a paper, Detection of 2019 novel coronavirus (2019-nCoV) by real-time RT-PCR, which was submitted for publication on January 21st 2020, and then accepted on January 22nd. Meaning the paper was allegedly "peer-reviewed" in less than 24 hours. A process that typically takes weeks.

Since then, a consortium of over forty life scientists has petitioned for the withdrawal of the paper, writing a lengthy report detailing 10 major errors in the paper's methodology.

They have also requested the release of the journal's peer-review report, to prove the paper really did pass through the peer-review process. The journal has yet to comply.

The Corman-Drosten assays are the root of every Covid PCR test in the world. If the paper is questionable, every PCR test is also questionable.

PART IV: "ASYMPTOMATIC INFECTION"

16. The majority of Covid infections are "asymptomatic". From as early as March 2020, studies done in Italy were suggesting 50-75% of positive Covid tests had no symptoms. Another UK study from August 2020 found as much as 86% of "Covid patients" experienced no viral symptoms at all.

It is literally impossible to tell the difference between an "asymptomatic case" and a false-positive test result.

17. There is very little evidence supporting the alleged danger of "asymptomatic transmission". In June 2020, Dr

Maria Van Kerkhove, head of the WHO's emerging diseases and zoonosis unit, said:

From the data we have, it still seems to be rare that an asymptomatic person actually transmits onward to a secondary individual,"

A meta-analysis of Covid studies, published by Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) in December 2020, found that asymptomatic carriers had a less than 1% chance of infecting people within their household. Another study, done on influenza in 2009, found:

...limited evidence to suggest the importance of [asymptomatic] transmission. The role of asymptomatic or presymptomatic influenza-infected individuals in disease transmission may have been overestimated..."

Given the known flaws of the PCR tests, many "asymptomatic cases" may be false positives.[fact 14]

PART V: VENTILATORS

18. Ventilation is NOT a treatment for respiratory viruses. Mechanical ventilation is not, and never has been, recommended treatment for respiratory infection of any kind. In the early days of the pandemic, many doctors came forward questioning the use of ventilators to treat "Covid".

Writing in The Spectator, Dr Matt Strauss stated:

Ventilators do not cure any disease. They can fill your lungs with air when you find yourself unable to do so yourself. They are associated with lung diseases in the public's consciousness, but this is not in fact their most common or most appropriate application.

German Pulmonologist Dr Thomas Voshaar, chairman of Association of Pneumatological Clinics said:

When we read the first studies and reports from China and Italy, we immediately asked ourselves why intubation was so common there. This contradicted our clinical experience with viral pneumonia.

Despite this, the WHO, CDC, ECDC and NHS all "recommended" Covid patients be ventilated instead of using non-invasive methods.

This was not a medical policy designed to best treat the patients, but rather to reduce the hypothetical spread of Covid by preventing patients from exhaling aerosol droplets.

19. Ventilators killed people. Putting someone on a ventilator who is suffering from influenza, pneumonia, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, or any other condition which restricts breathing or affects the lungs, will not alleviate any of those symptoms. In fact, it will almost certainly make it worse, and will kill many of them.

Intubation tubes are a source of potential a infection known as "ventilator-associated pneumonia", which studies show affects up to 28% of all people put on ventilators, and kills 20-55% of those infected.

Mechanical ventilation is also damaging to the physical structure of the lungs, resulting in "ventilator-induced lung injury", which can dramatically impact quality of life, and even result in death.

Experts estimate 40-50% of ventilated patients die, regardless of their disease. Around the world, between 66 and 86% of all "Covid patients"put on ventilators died.

According to the "undercover nurse", ventilators were being used so improperly in New York, they were destroying patients' lungs:

https://youtu.be/UIDsKdeFOmQ

This policy was negligence at best, and potentially deliberate murder at worst. This misuse of ventilators could account for any increase in mortality in 2020/21 [Facts 2 & 6]

*

PART VI: MASKS

20. Masks don't work. At least a dozen scientific studies have shown that masks do nothing to stop the spread of respiratory viruses.

One meta-analysis published by the CDC in May 2020 found "no significant reduction in influenza transmission with the use of face masks".

Another study with over 8000 subjects found masks "did not seem to be effective against laboratory-confirmed viral respiratory infections nor against clinical respiratory infection."

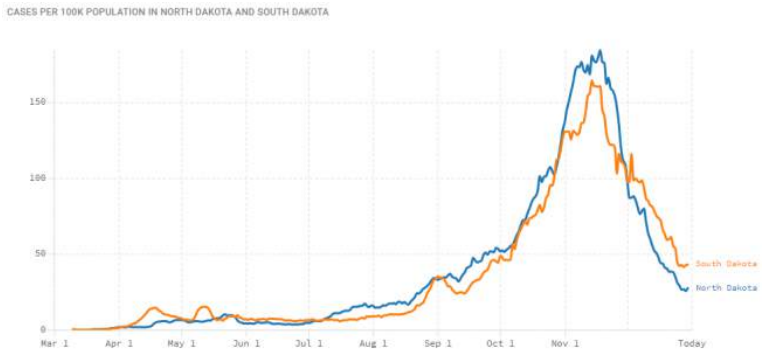
There are literally too many to quote them all, but you can read them: [1][2][3][4][5][6][7][8][9][10] Or read a summary by SPR here.

While some studies have been done claiming to show mask do work for Covid, they are all seriously flawed. One relied on self-reported surveys as data. Another was so badly designed a panel of experts demand it be withdrawn. A third was withdrawn after its predictions proved entirely incorrect.

The WHO commissioned their own meta-analysis in the Lancet, but that study looked only at N95 masks and only in hospitals. [For full run down on the bad data in this study click here.]

Aside from scientific evidence, there's plenty of real-world evidence that masks do nothing to halt the spread of disease.

For example, North Dakota and South Dakota had near-identical case figures, despite one having a mask-mandate and the other not:



In Kansas, counties without mask mandates actually had fewer Covid "cases" than counties with mask mandates. And despite masks being very common in Japan, they had their worst flu outbreak in decades in 2019.

21. Masks are bad for your health. Wearing a mask for long periods, wearing the same mask more than once, and other aspects of cloth masks can be bad for your health. A long study on the detrimental effects of mask-wearing was recently published by the International Journal of Environmental Research and Public Health

Dr. James Meehan reported in August 2020 he was seeing increases in bacterial pneumonia, fungal infections, facial rashes .

Masks are also known to contain plastic microfibers, which damage the lungs when inhaled and may be potentially carcinogenic.

Childen wearing masks encourages mouth-breathing, which results in facial deformities.

People around the world have passed out due to CO2 poisoning while wearing their masks, and some children in China even suffered sudden cardiac arrest.

22. Masks are bad for the planet. Millions upon millions of disposable masks have been used per month for over a year. A report from the UN found the Covid19 pandemic will likely result in plastic waste more than doubling in the next few years., and the vast majority of that is face masks.

The report goes on to warn these masks (and other medical waste) will clog sewage and irrigation systems, which will have knock on effects on public health, irrigation and agriculture.

A study from the University of Swansea found "heavy metals and plastic fibres were released when throw-away masks were submerged in water." These materials are toxic to both people and wildlife.

PART VII: VACCINES

23. Covid "vaccines" are totally unprecedented. Before 2020 no successful vaccine against a human coronavirus had ever been developed. Since then we have allegedly made 20 of them in 18 months.

Scientists have been trying to develop a SARS and MERS vaccine for years with little success. Some of the failed SARS vaccines actually caused hypersensitivity to the SARS virus. Meaning that vaccinated mice could potentially get the disease more severely than unvaccinated mice. Another attempt caused liver damage in ferrets.

While traditional vaccines work by exposing the body to a weakened strain of the microorganism responsible for causing the disease, these new Covid vaccines are mRNA vaccines.

mRNA (messenger ribonucleic acid) vaccines theoretically work by injecting viral mRNA into the body, where it replicates inside your cells and encourages your body to recognise, and make antigens for, the "spike proteins" of the virus. They have been the subject of research since the 1990s, but before 2020 no mRNA vaccine was ever approved for use.

24. Vaccines do not confer immunity or prevent transmission. It is readily admitted that Covid "vaccines" do not confer immunity from infection and do not prevent you from passing the disease onto others. Indeed, an article in the British Medical Journal highlighted that the vaccine studies were not designed to even try and assess if the "vaccines" limited transmission.

The vaccine manufacturers themselves, upon releasing the untested mRNA gene therapies, were quite clear their product's "efficacy" was based on "reducing the severity of symptoms".

25. The vaccines were rushed and have unknown longterm effects. Vaccine development is a slow, laborious process. Usually, from development through testing and finally being approved for public use takes many years. The various vaccines for Covid were all developed and approved in less than a year. Obviously there can be no long-term safety data on chemicals which are less than a year old.

Pfizer even admit this is true in the leaked supply contract between the pharmaceutical giant, and the government of Albania:

the long-term effects and efficacy of the Vaccine are not currently known and that there may be adverse effects of the Vaccine that are not currently known

Further, none of the vaccines have been subject to proper trials. Many of them skipped early-stage trials entirely, and the late-stage human trials have either not been peer-reviewed, have not released their data, will not finish until 2023 or were abandoned after "severe adverse effects".

26. Vaccine manufacturers have been granted legal indemnity should they cause harm. The USA's Public Readiness and Emergency Preparedness Act (PREP) grants immunity until at least 2024.

The EU's product licensing law does the same, and there are reports of confidential liability clauses in the contracts the EU signed with vaccine manufacturers.

The UK went even further, granting permanent legal indemnity to the government, and any employees thereof, for any harm done when a patient is being treated for Covid19 or "suspected Covid19".

Again, the leaked Albanian contract suggests that Pfizer, at least, made this indemnity a standard demand of supplying Covid vaccines:

Purchaser hereby agrees to indemnify, defend and hold harmless Pfizer [...] from and against any and all suits, claims, actions, demands, losses, damages, liabilities, settlements, penalties, fines, costs and expenses

PART VIII: DECEPTION & FOREKNOWLEDGE

27. The EU was preparing "vaccine passports" at least a YEAR before the pandemic began. Proposed COVID countermeasures, presented to the public as improvised emergency measures, have existed since before the emergence of the disease.

Two EU documents published in 2018, the "2018 State of Vaccine Confidence" and a technical report titled "Designing and implementing an immunisation information system" discussed the plausibility of an EU-wide vaccination monitoring system.

These documents were combined into the 2019 "Vaccination Roadmap", which (among other things) established a "feasibility study" on vaccine passports to begin in 2019 and finish in 2021:

This report's final conclusions were released to the public in September 2019, just a month before Event 201 (below).

28. A "training exercise" predicted the pandemic just weeks before it started. In October 2019 the World Economic Forum and Johns Hopkins University held Event 201. This was a training exercise based on a zoonotic coronavirus starting a worldwide pandemic. The exercise was sponsored by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation and GAVI the vaccine alliance.

The exercise published its findings and recommendations in November 2019 as a "call to action". One month later, China recorded their first case of "Covid".

29. Since the beginning of 2020, the Flu has "disappeared". In the United States, since February 2020, influenza cases have allegedly dropped by over 98%.

It's not just the US either, globally flu has apparently almost completely disappeared.

Meanwhile, a new disease called "Covid", which has identical symptoms and a similar mortality rate to influenza, is supposedly sweeping the globe.

30. The elite have made fortunes during the pandemic. Since the beginning of lockdown the wealthiest people have become significantly wealthier. Forbes reported that 40 new billionaires have been created "fighting the coronavirus", with 9 of them being vaccine manufacturers.

Business Insider reported that "billionaires saw their net worth increase by half a trillion dollars" by October 2020.

Clearly that number will be even bigger by now.

  « According to an editorial published Sept. 16 in The BMJ, more than 30,000 reports of menstrual irregularities and vaginal bleeding had been made, as of Sept. 2, to the Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency's (MHRA) Yellow Card Scheme — the UK system for collecting and monitoring adverse reactions following COVID vaccines.

  Reports of adverse reactions include heavier-than-usual periods, delayed periods and unexpected vaginal bleeding. Most women who reported a change to their period after vaccination found it returned to normal the following cycle, according to the author of the editorial, Dr. Victoria Male, a reproductive specialist at Imperial College in London.

  To date, none of the COVID vaccine manufacturers list any issues pertinent to menstrual health as a side effect. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, common side effects of COVID vaccines include: pain at the site of vaccination, tiredness, fatigue and fever. »

Par exemple « Qu'est-ce qu'une multinationale pharmaceutique comme Merck a à voir avec le monde du graphène et de la neuromodulation ? » pose le professeur Ricardo Delgado qui a fait une analyse de laboratoire pour connaître le contenu du vaccin. Quel est l'objectif réel du vaccin ? Peut-on imaginer un « monde futuriste » post-vaccinale qui conduirait au contrôle du corps et du cerveau ? Quel pourrait être le rôle de l'intelligence artificielle dans la nouvelle génération de vaccin ARNm ? Internet du Corps ? Après avoir parcouru une grande quantité d'informations sur ce sujet, le lecteur pourra en tirer ses propres conclusions. « Scientists have concluded that the Covid-19 vaccines have killed at least 150,000 people in the USA alone after conducting in-depth scientific research on publicly available data, and are now calling for the medical community to oppose mandatory Covid-19 vaccination as their findings prove that it is not justifiable.

Jessica Rose PhD, studied Immunology at Memorial University in Newfoundland and Labrador, gaining a Master of Science and Medicine in 2006. She then went on to study Computational Biology at Bar Ilan University, gaining a PhD in 2013.

From 2016 to 2020 she worked in Biochemistry / Protein Biology at the Technion Institute of Technology, and has published several papers such as 'Kinetic modelling of Hepatitis B Virus: the relationship between HBeAg and viral kinetics.' and 'Kinetics of Chronic Human Viruses – Comparative Analysis of Bio-Mathematical Models and their Clinical Implications.'

Now, in an in-depth analysis of the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) alongside data available from multiple scientific studies, including the Pfizer clinical trial studies, Jessica Rose PhD has concluded using a modest calculation that at least 150,000 Americans have been killed by the Covid-19 Vaccines.

In a paper which can be read in full here, titled 'Estimating the number of Covid vaccine deaths in America', Jessica Rose PhD states that she and her team determined the VAERS under-reporting multiplier by using a specific serious adverse event that should always be reported – anaphylaxis. »

  « We can officially confirm that the number of people to have died shortly after getting one of the Covid-19 vaccines has surpassed the number of people who have died of Covid-19, and we believe the data was released by accident.

According to official NHS data which can be viewed here, from March 2020 up to the 25th August 2021; a period of 18 months, 90,147 Covid deaths within 28 days of a positive test have been recorded in England hospitals.

Of these 86.315 all died of other serious pre-existing conditions including dementia, chronic kidney disease, chronic pulmonary disease, chronic neurological disease, and heart disease, but were added to the Covid statistics due to having received a positive test within 28 days of their death.

Based on Public Health Scotland data seen in the following chart it would seem the top pre-existing condition of those who've died with a positive test result for Covid-19 has been dementia, followed by heart disease and chronic respiratory disease. »

« The latest Office for National Statistics report on mortality rates by Covid vaccination status provides data on all deaths – Covid related and non-Covid related for the period Jan-July 2021 for the unvaccinated and the different categories of vaccinated ('within 21 days of first dose', '21 days or more after first dose', 'second dose'). The ONS data for Covid-19 mortality, is given in Table 4 of the ONS spreadsheet and the ONS data for all-cause mortality excluding Covid-19, is given in Table 5 of the same spreadsheet. Both tables are reproduced at the bottom of this post.

We believe there are severe weaknesses and possible errors in the ONS data (see foonote). But importantly, while it does not provide the raw age categorized data, it does provide "age standardized" mortality rates (also see explanatory video). This means the ONS have calculated the overall mortality rate in a way which (they believe) adjusts for the confounding effect of age, and this is 'baked into' the mortality rates they have published. However, while they report this age adjusted mortality rate for each of the three separate categories of vaccinated people they do not report it for the combined set of vaccinated people. In our analysis, and in the absence of the actual age stratified data, we compute a population weighted age adjusted all-cause mortality rate by using the ONS's published population sizes for each of the three categories of vaccinated. This is not ideal because the ONS age adjusted rates are so opaque and are not 'abolute numbers'. However, in the absence of detailed data this should provide a reasonable estimate of what the ONS age adjusted all-cause mortality rate would be for all unvaccinated if they had bothered to report it. We will call this the 'weighted vaccinated mortality rate'. The data table derived from the ONS data and used to compute this rate is given at the end of this post.

It turns out that, even using this age adjusted mortality rate, the death rate is currently higher among the vaccinated than the unvaccinated. »

  « A new scientific study has been published based on scientific research conducted in Canada which has concluded that the Covid-19 Vaccines are actually causing 1 in every 1,000 people to suffer myocarditis, rather than the 4.3 cases per million doses administered claimed by the UK Medicine Regulator and the Chief Medical Officer, Professor Chris Whitty.

  This means that if every chid over the age of 12; estimated to be 3 million children, take up the offer of the Pfizer mRNA Covid-19 vaccine, at least 3,000 of them could suffer myocarditis which causes inflammation of the heart and can lead to cardiac arrest, and knock years off life expectancy.

The findings were discovered in a study conducted by the University of Ottawa Heart Institute in Canada, which was published to medRxiv on September 16th 2021. »

« The UK Government's own data does not support the claims made for vaccine effectiveness/safety.

In a previous post we argued that the most reliable long-term measure of Covid-19 vaccine effectiveness/safety is the age adjusted all-cause mortality rate. If, over a reasonably prolonged period, fewer vaccinated people die, from whatever cause, including Covid-19, than unvaccinated people then we could conclude that the benefits of the vaccine outweigh the risks. We also pointed out that, to avoid the confounding effect of age, it is critical that data for each age category is available, rather than the aggregated data because, clearly, aggregated data might exaggerate vaccine mortality rates if more older people, with shorter expected mortality, are included. The UK roll out of the vaccine was executed in descending age order, from older to younger, except very early on in the vaccination programme when the vulnerable young were vaccinated along with the very elderly. As the programme progressed those vaccinated were, on average, older than those who remained unvaccinated and as the roll out proceeded a progressively higher proportion of the residual unvaccinated population are younger.

The latest Office for National Statistics report on mortality rates by Covid vaccination status provides data on all deaths – Covid related and non-Covid related for the period Jan-July 2021 for the unvaccinated and the different categories of vaccinated ('within 21 days of first dose', '21 days or more after first dose', 'second dose').   « The Pharmaceutical Leaders

  To start, here are the top five biggest pharmaceutical companies in the world at the moment by market capitalization:

  1. Johnson & Johnson

  The pharmaceutical and consumer goods giant is worth $428.7 billion in market cap. They developed the third vaccine authorized for use in the U.S. and were named among the TIME100 Most Influential Companies List in 2021.

  2. Roche

  The Swiss pharmaceutical giant is at the forefront of oncology, immunology, infectious diseases, ophthalmology, and neuroscience. In 2019, Roche's pharma segment sales rose by a healthy 16% to $53 billion.

3. Pfizer

Despite being the leading COVID-19 vaccine manufacturer in North America, Pfizer slid in the rankings to third place. The company has recently gained momentum, especially in the past quarter, with Q2'2021 revenues of $19.0 billion, reflecting a 86% operational growth from 2020.

4. Eli Lilly

Eli Lilly has taken a significant step towards establishing itself as a pharmaceutical industry leader. Having a market cap value of $125 billion in 2019, Eli Lilly has jumped to a current value of $214.9 billion, a significant growth of 72%.

5. Novartis

The second-biggest pharmaceutical company out of Switzerland, Novartis has been the face of the pharma industry for about 25 years. The primary manufacturer for the most recognizable drugs on the market pulled in a revenue of over $48 billion in 2020, a 3% increase compared to 2019. »

- 25 septembre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Cancers - « Covid Vaccines and Cancer » - Swiss Policy Research

« Can covid vaccines cause cancer? In some cases, the answer appears to be yes. To be sure, there is no evidence that covid vaccines themselves are carcinogenic (i.e. cancer-causing). However, it has been shown that in up to 50% of vaccinees, covid vaccines can induce a temporary immune suppression or immune dysregulation (lymphocytopenia) that may last about a week or possibly longer.

In addition, covid mRNA vaccines have been shown to "reprogram" (i.e. influence) adaptive and innate immune responses and, in particular, to downregulate the so-called TLR4 pathway, which is known to play an important role in the immune response to infections and cancer cells.

Thus, if there already is a tumor somewhere – known or unknown –, or if there is a predisposition to some type of cancer, such a state of vaccine-induced immune suppression or immune dysregulation might potentially trigger sudden tumor growth and cancer in the weeks following vaccination. Of note, lymphocytopenia has also been frequently observed in cases of severe covid.

At the immunological level, a similar mechanism appears to be triggering the post-vaccination reactivation of latent virus infections, most notably VZV (i.e. shingles), but also EBV (Epstein-Barr) and HPV. The vaccine-induced temporary immune suppression is also a likely factor contributing to the post-vaccination spike in coronavirus infections, observed in many countries.

The extent of the vaccine-induced tumor growth and cancer issue remains uncertain – it might be very rare – but there are already a few thousand such case reports in the notoriously incomplete official adverse event reporting systems and in vaccine-related online patient groups, although some of these cases may certainly be coincidental or even due to lockdown-related delayed diagnosis.

In August, US clinical pathologist Dr. Ryan Cole described a significant increase in certain types of cancer (e.g. endometrial cancer) since the beginning of the covid mass vaccination campaign (see video excerpt below; full video here). More recently, German pathologists also noted the issue of post-vaccination immune dysregulation and sudden tumor growth in some patients. »

  « Les vaccins covid peuvent-ils provoquer un cancer ? Dans certains cas, la réponse semble être oui. Certes, il n’existe aucune preuve que les vaccins covid soient eux-mêmes cancérigènes (c’est-à-dire qu’ils provoquent le cancer). Cependant, il a été démontré que jusqu’à 50 % des personnes vaccinées, les vaccins covid peuvent induire une immunodépression temporaire ou un dérèglement immunitaire (lymphocytopénie) qui peut durer environ une semaine, voire plus. En outre, il a été démontré que les vaccins à ARNm covid peuvent « reprogrammer » (c’est-à-dire influencer) les réponses immunitaires adaptatives et innées et, en particulier, réguler à la baisse la voie TLR4, connue pour jouer un rôle important dans la réponse immunitaire aux infections et aux cellules cancéreuses. »

  « Ladies and Gentlemen,

We, the survivors of the atrocities committed against humanity during the Second World War, feel bound to follow our conscience and write this letter.

It is obvious to us that another holocaust of greater magnitude is taking place before our eyes. The majority of the world's populace do not yet realize what is happening, for magnitude of an organized crime such as this is beyond their scope of experience.

We, however, know. We remember the name Josef Mengele. Some of us have personal memories. We experience a déjà vu that is so horrifying that we rise to shield our poor fellow humans. The threatened innocents now include children, and even infants. In just four months, the COVID-19 vaccines have killed more people than all available vaccines combined from mid-1997 until the end of 2013—a period of 15.5 years. And people affected worst are between 18 and 64 years old – the group which was not in the Covid statistics.

We call upon you to stop this ungodly medical experiment on humankind immediately. What you call "vaccination" against SARS-Cov-2 is in truth a blasphemic encroachment into nature. Never before has immunization of the entire planet been accomplished by delivering a synthetic mRNA into the human body. It is a medical experiment to which the Nuremberg Code must be applied. The 10 ethical principles in this document represents a foundational code of medical ethics that was formulated during the Nuremberg Doctors Trial to ensure that human beings will never again be subjected to involuntary medical experimentation & procedures. »

  « Le collectif Drastic a mis en ligne des documents selon lesquels l'ONG EcoHealth Alliance aurait soumis en 2018 à l'armée américaine un projet consistant à créer un virus Sars-CoV chimérique à partir de coronavirus de chauves-souris. Des documents publiés le 21 septembre par Drastic, un collectif de scientifiques indépendants travaillant sur les origines du Covid-19, révèlent que l'ONG américaine EcoHealth Alliance aurait demandé, en 2018, un financement de 14 millions de dollars pour un projet qui consistait à créer un virus Sars-CoV chimérique en exposant des chauves-souris chinoises à des mutations de coronavirus. Le président de l'organisation, qui n'a pas nié l'authenticité du document, évoque pour sa part une «mauvaise interprétation» d'une «communication scientifique usuelle». Comme l'explique le 23 septembre le site d'investigation The Intercept, le projet aurait été soumis, environ 18 mois avant l'apparition des premiers cas confirmés de Covid-19, à la Darpa, l'agence du département de la Défense des Etats-Unis en charge de la recherche et du développement des nouvelles technologies à usage militaire. Cette dernière l'avait rejeté pour des raisons de sécurité. Le projet qui aurait été soumis par EcoHealth Alliance (une organisation dont la mission déclarée est de protéger les personnes, les animaux et l'environnement contre les maladies infectieuses émergentes) prévoyait de s'étaler sur trois ans et demi, en collaboration avec l'Institut de virologie de Wuhan, et s'intitulait Project Defuse. Il visait, d'après le document révélé, à libérer des particules provenant de coronavirus de chauve-souris et contenant de «nouvelles protéines à pointes chimériques» dans des grottes de chauves-souris issues de la province chinoise du Hubei, qui abrite la capitale Wuhan. L'objectif était, selon le projet présenté, d'étudier et de prévenir la transmission à l'homme.

Les documents (obtenus d'un informateur anonyme) ont été publiés mi-septembre par Drastic (acronyme signifiant en français «Equipe de recherche autonome radicale décentralisée enquêtant sur le Covid-19»), un collectif international d'une trentaine de scientifiques pluridisciplinaires qui estime que le rapport de l'OMS sur l'origine du virus, publié en mars 2021, n'a pas été réalisé en toute indépendance. Pour rappel, celui-ci privilégiait l'hypothèse d'une transmission accidentelle du virus à l'homme par l'intermédiaire d'un animal.

Gibraltar (34 000 habitants) a commencé la vaccination en décembre 2020 alors que l'agence sanitaire recensait dans ce pays seulement 1040 cas confirmés et 5 morts attribués au covid19. Après une campagne de vaccination éclair très complète, obtenant une couverture vaccinale de 115 % (la vaccination a été étendue à de nombreux visiteurs espagnols), le nombre de nouvelles contaminations a été multiplié par 5 (passant à 5314) et celui des morts par 19. Atteignant 97, soit 2853 morts par million d'habitants, ce chiffre constituant l'un des records européens de mortalité. Mais les responsables de la vaccination nient tout lien causal sans proposer une autre étiologie plausible. Et après une accalmie de quelques mois, l'épidémie reprend confirmant qu'une couverture vaccinale à 115 % ne protège pas de la maladie. »

Malte fait partie des champions européens des pseudo vaccins : dans cette île de 500 000 habitants, près de 800 000 doses ont été administrées assurant une couverture vaccinale de près de 84 % avec un recul d'environ 6 mois.

Mais depuis début juillet 2021, l'épidémie est repartie et les formes graves (mortelles) augmentent forçant les autorités à reconnaître que la vaccination ne protège pas la population et à imposer des restrictions. »

« En Islande, on ne croit plus à l'immunité collective vaccinale
Dans ce petit pays de 360 000 habitants, plus de 80 % d'entre eux sont primo-vaccinés et 75 % ont un cycle vaccinal complet. Mais à la mi-juillet 2021, les nouvelles contaminations journalières sont passées d'une dizaine à environ 120, avant de se stabiliser à un taux supérieur à celui de la période pré vaccinale. Cette récidive brutale a convaincu l'épidémiologiste en chef de l'impossibilité d'obtenirl'immunité collective vaccinale « C'est un mythe » a-t-il publiquement déclaré. »

Covid Vaccines, Hospitals Are Filled With the Fully Vaccinated »

« Two Canadian nurses have spoken out as whistleblowers and revealed what they have seen during the Covid-19 pandemic. The nurses described seeing people dying post-vaccination and hospitals being overwhelmed with the fully vaccinated suffering from Covid.

Erica Beardsley, who was a nurse for 11 years in the small town of Pontiac in the Canadian province of Quebec, recently resigned after her employer mandated that she get vaccinated.

During an anti-vaccine mandate protest in Canada, Beardsley spoke with a reporter about what she witnessed during the pandemic.

“I’ve physically seen people restraining the elderly and vaccinating them against their will while they scream ‘No,’” she said.

“I’ve seen patients coming in with suicide and … once they’re dead, they are testing them for COVID. Why? Why are we testing them for COVID?”

“I’ve witnessed a lot of people dying of heart attacks shortly after the vaccine,” she continued. “I’ve witnessed miscarriages at full-term five days, four days, after the vaccine.”

Despite coming from a town of just around 5,000 people, Beardsley said this is becoming a disturbingly common occurrence.

“I’m in a little hospital, a small hospital. I’ve worked on every floor,” said Beardsley. She said she has worked in long-term care, general care, the emergency department and even for her hospital’s external clinic. “I saw it all.”

“I have nothing to lose, nothing to hide. They wanted to mandate the vaccine on me and I refused.”

A second nurse working in St. Michael’s Hospital in Toronto claims the hospital is filled with fully vaccinated Covid patients.

One reporter asked: “Are the hospitals full of Covid patients?”

The nurse responded: “The hospitals are pretty much full of people that have been vaccinated. They’re returning to the hospital due to their vaccinations.” »

« STORY AT-A-GLANCE

- The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has gone from a drug approval rate of 38% in 2005 to 61% in 2018. According to a 2017 Yale study, nearly 1 in 3 FDA approved drugs ends up having new safety issues detected in the years following approval
- September 17, 2021, the FDA approved the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID shot Comirnaty as a third-dose booster for people over the age of 65 and people at high risk of exposure to SARS-CoV-2 due to their profession
- According to a retrospective study by the University of Ottawa Heart Institute, 1 in 1,000 mRNA injections (Pfizer and Moderna) have resulted in myopericarditis, i.e. inflammation of the heart or heart sack, within one month of the shot, although symptom onset typically occurred within days
- Other data suggest 1 in 317 boys aged 16 to 17 will get myocarditis from the shots, and after a third booster, that number may reach as high as 1 in 25
- Even if the COVID shots were to provide 100% protection, which they clearly don't, VAERS data suggest they still kill two people for every life saved. Analyses using non-U.S. data show there are approximately 411 excess vaccine-related deaths per 1 million doses

« 1 in 1,000 mRNA Shots Results in Heart Inflammation

So, the FDA claims the Pfizer shot is safe and effective enough to warrant a third booster for certain groups. But is it? According to a retrospective study[9,10] by the University of Ottawa Heart Institute, 1 in 1,000 mRNA injections (Pfizer and Moderna) have resulted in myopericarditis, i.e., inflammation of the heart or heart sack, within one month of the shot, although symptom onset typically occurred within days.

The study was posted on the preprint server medRxiv September 16, 2021, the day before the FDA voted "yes" on boosters for the elderly and certain high-risk groups. As explained by the authors:[11]

"This study is a prospective collection and review of all cases with a myocarditis/pericarditis diagnosis over a 2-month period at an academic medical center … Patients were identified by admission and discharge diagnoses which included myocarditis or pericarditis. Inclusion criteria: in receipt of mRNA vaccine within one month prior to presentation …

Diagnosis was based on clinical presentation, ECG/echo findings and serial troponins and was confirmed in each case by CMR. Incidence was estimated from total doses of mRNA vaccine administered in the Ottawa region for the matching time-period. This data was obtained from the Public Health Agency of Ottawa …

Results: 32 patients were identified over the period of interest. Eighteen patients were diagnosed with myocarditis; 12 with myopericarditis; and 2 with pericarditis alone. The median age was 33 years (18-65 years). The sex ratio was 2 females to 29 males.

In 5 cases, symptoms developed after only a single dose of mRNA vaccine. In 27 patients, symptoms developed after their second dose of. Median time between vaccine dose and symptoms was 1.5 days …

Chest pain was the commonest symptom, but many others were reported. Non-syncopal non-sustained ventricular tachycardia was seen in only a single case. Median LV ejection fraction (EF) was 57% (44-66%). Nine patients had an LVEF below the normal threshold of 55%.

Incidence of myopericarditis overall was approximately 10 cases for every 10,000 inoculations. This is the largest series in the literature to clearly relate the temporal relationship between mRNA COVID vaccination, symptoms and CMR findings." »

- 27 septembre 2021 : Australie - Tyrannie - « Australia's Astonishing Tyranny Keeps Growing »

« Over the course of the last 18 months, Australia's state and federal governments have:

- Banned citizens from leaving the country without permission.
- Banned citizens from entering the country, with threat of five years in prison.
- Banned citizens and residents from crossing state borders.
- Banned citizens and residents from traveling further than 5k from home without permission.

Ironically, an Australian government website lays out citizens' "right to freedom of movement" and says that this very basic human right "cannot be made dependent on establishing a purpose or reason for leaving."
But Australia doesn't have to follow its own rules, nor care about the human rights of all the little people, because it's an emergency.

In the name of COVID Australian police and government officials have also:

- Tracked a large fast food order to a party to fine guests $26,000 for an unauthorized gathering.
- Deployed the military to enforce lockdowns. Deployed helicopters to threaten young healthy men playing soccer.
- Told people not to talk to their neighbors.
- Executed several dogs to prevent rescue workers from coming to the town.
- Arrested a pregnant mom in front of her kids for posting about an anti-lockdown rally on social media.

- Refused to grant a travel exception to a three year old boy visiting his grandparents separated from his parents for months, because of a surprise border closure.
- Caused a newborn infant to die because the mother was denied permission to travel across state borders for medical care.

It is also now illegal to plan, publicize, or participate in protests. The right to peaceably assemble and hold public protests against unjust government actions is enshrined in the Western legal tradition. But for organizing protests against the Australian government's tyranny, Anthony Khallouf has been sentenced to several months in prison.

His "crimes" include not complying with COVID decrees, and "encouraging the commission of crimes"— that is, sharing information about the time and location of protests. »

  « The propaganda plan was developed and put in place in April 2020 even though the Canadian Forces had already acknowledged that "information operations and targeting policies and doctrines are aimed at adversaries and have a limited application in a domestic concept."

A copy of the Dec. 2, 2020, Gosselin investigation, as well as other related documents, was obtained by this newspaper using the Access to Information law.

The plan devised by the Canadian Joint Operations Command, also known as CJOC, relied on propaganda techniques similar to those employed during the Afghanistan war. The campaign called for "shaping" and "exploiting" information. CJOC claimed the information operations scheme was needed to head off civil disobedience by Canadians during the coronavirus pandemic and to bolster government messages about the pandemic.

A separate initiative, not linked to the CJOC plan, but overseen by Canadian Forces intelligence officers, culled information from public social media accounts in Ontario. Data was also compiled on peaceful Black Lives Matter gatherings and BLM leaders. Senior military officers claimed that information was needed to ensure the success of Operation Laser, the Canadian Forces mission to help out in long-term care homes hit by COVID-19 and to aid in the distribution of vaccines in some northern communities.

BLM organizers have questioned why military officials gathered information on their initiative, pointing out they followed pandemic rules and did not hold any gatherings outside LTC homes.

Then chief of the defence Staff Gen. Jon Vance shut down the CJOC propaganda initiative after a number of his advisers questioned the legality and ethics behind the plan. Vance then brought in Gosselin to examine how CJOC was able to develop and launch the propaganda operation without approval.

Gosselin's investigation discovered the plan wasn't simply the idea of "passionate" military propaganda specialists, but support for the use of such information operations was "clearly a mindset that permeated the thinking at many levels of CJOC." Those in the command saw the pandemic as a "unique opportunity" to test out such techniques on Canadians.

The views put forth by Rear Adm. Brian Santarpia, then CJOC's chief of staff, summed up the command's attitude, Gosselin noted in his report.

"This is really a learning opportunity for all of us and a chance to start getting information operations into our (CAF-DND) routine," the rear admiral stated. »

  « Prior to the global pandemic caused by SARS-CoV-2 or covid-19, many looked to the United States as a beacon of freedom and liberty. When viewed in comparison to the harsh realities of the world, this may seem rather true. After all, one's perception of freedom and liberty is skewed by perspective. In recent weeks, the Biden administration has escalated its increasingly authoritarian approach to "managing" the threat of the virus. Even President Biden himself stated that safety takes precedence over freedom. Examples of the Biden administration's overreach include: its extension of the eviction moratorium through the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, vaccine mandates through the Department of Labor, and its investigations into states that refuse to adhere to the federal government's preferred public health guidelines. »

- 29 septembre 2021 : Covid & 5G - Lien - Étude - NCBI - « Evidence for a connection between coronavirus disease-19 and exposure to radiofrequency radiation from wireless communications including 5G » - Par Beverly Rubik et Robert R. Brown

  « There is a substantial overlap in pathobiology between COVID-19 and WCR exposure. The evidence presented here indicates that mechanisms involved in the clinical progression of COVID-19 could also be generated, according to experimental data, by WCR exposure. Therefore, we propose a link between adverse bioeffects of WCR exposure from wireless devices and COVID-19.

  Specifically, evidence presented here supports a premise that WCR and, in particular, 5G, which involves densification of 4G, may have exacerbated the COVID-19 pandemic by weakening host immunity and increasing SARS-CoV-2 virulence by (1) causing morphologic changes in erythrocytes including echinocyte and rouleaux formation that may be contributing to hypercoagulation; (2) impairing microcirculation and reducing erythrocyte and hemoglobin levels exacerbating hypoxia; (3) amplifying immune dysfunction, including immunosuppression, autoimmunity, and hyperinflammation; (4) increasing cellular oxidative stress and the production of free radicals exacerbating vascular injury and organ damage; (5) increasing intracellular Ca^{2+} essential for viral entry, replication, and release, in addition to promoting pro-inflammatory pathways; and (6) worsening heart arrhythmias and cardiac disorders.

WCR exposure is a widespread, yet often neglected, environmental stressor that can produce a wide range of adverse bioeffects. For decades, independent research scientists worldwide have emphasized the health risks and cumulative damage caused by WCR. The evidence presented here is consistent with a large body of established research. Healthcare workers and policymakers should consider WCR a potentially toxic environmental stressor. Methods for reducing WCR exposure should be provided to all patients and the general population. »

« Au niveau national, il ne semble pas y avoir de corrélation discernable entre le pourcentage de la population entièrement vaccinée et les nouveaux cas de COVID-19 au cours des 7 derniers jours (Fig. 1). En fait, la ligne de tendance suggère une association marginalement positive, de sorte que certains pays dont le pourcentage de population entièrement vaccinée est élevé présentent même un plus grand nombre de cas de COVID-19 par million d’habitants. Notamment Israël, dont plus de 60 % de la population est entièrement vaccinée, a enregistré le plus grand nombre de cas de COVID-19 par million d’habitants au cours des 7 derniers jours. L’absence de corrélation significative entre le pourcentage de population entièrement vaccinée et les nouveaux cas de COVID-19 est également illustrée, par exemple, par la comparaison entre l’Islande et le Portugal. Ces deux pays, dont plus de 75 % de la population est entièrement vaccinée, comptent plus de cas de COVID-19 par million d’habitants que des pays comme le Vietnam et l’Afrique du Sud, dont environ 10 % de la population est entièrement vaccinée. »

N°1. La Palme d'Or Pr Jean-François Bergmann 992.000€, dont 216.000 € de AbbVie et 162000 € de Sanofi. Cardiologue à l'hôpital Lariboisière. Ancien président de la Commission d'autorisation de mise sur le marché. Déjà épinglé par Cash Investigation pour ses conflits d'intérêts dans l'affaire du Crestor où il aurait pris part à un vote en faveur du Crestor alors qu'il touchait une rémunération d'Astra Zeneca, laboratoire est en lice pour un des vaccins contre la Covid.

N°2. Ancienne Palme d'Or, le Pr François Raffi 541.729€, dont 52.812 € de Gilead. Est-ce un hasard si on nous apprend que le coup de téléphone anonyme pour menacer Didier Raoult, s'il persistait avec l'hydroxychloroquine, est parti du téléphone portable du service d'infectiologie du CHU de Nantes, dont François Raffi est chef de service ? Sûrement une pure coïncidence. Condamné depuis.

N°3. Le Pr Jacques Reynes de Montpellier 291.741€, dont 48.006 € de Gilead et 64.493 € d'Abbvie. Il a été sollicité par Olivier Véran pour piloter l'essai clinique du protocole Raoult à Montpellier alors qu'il est en même temps le coordinateur national de deux études sur le remdesivir pour le compte de Gilead. Il n'avait sûrement pas eu le temps d'envoyer au Ministre sa Déclaration publique d'intérêts (DPI).

N°4. La Pr Karine Lacombe de Paris - Saint Antoine 212.209€, dont 28.412 € de Gilead. Elle est sur la dernière marche du podium, mais l'essentiel est d'y être. Il n'y a pas que le podium avec les Ministres à Matignon. Renvoyée devant un juge pour diffamation

N°5. Le Pr Jean Michel Molina de Paris - Saint Louis 184.034€, dont 26.950 € de Gilead et 22.864 € d'Abbvie. Or Jean-Michel Molina est co-auteur d'un article publié dans Médecine et Maladies Infectieuses sur quelques cas, pour dire que l'hydroxychloroquine ne marche pas. Médecine et Maladies Infectieuses est le journal officiel de la SPILF (Société de Pathologie infectieuse de Langue Française).

N°6. Le Pr Gilbert Deray de Paris 160.649€. Une belle somme pour un néphrologue qui est très présent sur les plateaux télés. Attention le remdesivir peut être très toxique pour les reins.

N°7. Le Pr Jean-Paul Stahl de Grenoble 100.358 €, dont 4.552 € d'Abbvie. À noter que cette somme n'a pas été déclarée sur sa DPI. Or Jean-Paul Stahl est rédacteur en chef du journal Médecine et Maladies Infectieuses. C'est lui qui a comparé le Plaquénil au papier toilette.

N°8. Le Pr Christian Chidiac de Lyon. 90.741€, dont 16.563 € de Gilead. Or Christian Chidiac est président de la Commission Maladies transmissibles du Haut Conseil de la Santé Publique qui a rendu le fameux Avis interdisant l'hydroxychloroquine, sauf aux mourants et demandant d'inclure les malades dans les essais officiels (donc Discovery). Son adjointe, la Pr Florence Ader, citée ci-dessous, est l'investigatrice principale de Discovery. Pure coïncidence.

N°9. Le Pr Bruno Hoen de l'Institut Pasteur. 82.610€, dont 52.012 € de Gilead. À noter que sur sa DPI, il a déclaré n'avoir reçu que 1000 € de Gilead ! Or Bruno Hoen a attaqué l'équipe de Marseille dans un courriel du 18 mars 2020, partagé avec tous les infectiologues.

N°10. Le Pr Pierre Tattevin de Rennes. 79.956€, dont 15.028 € de Gilead. À noter que sur sa DPI, comme son prédécesseur, il a déclaré n'avoir reçu que 1000 € de Gilead ! Ça doit être le surmenage. Or Pierre Tattevin est président de la SPILF. Cette Société savante a attaqué l'hydroxychloroquine pour encourager les inclusions dans Discovery, ainsi que dans les autres études par tirage au sort avec des groupes de patients non traités (études randomisées).

N°11. Le Pr Vincent Le Moing de Montpellier. 68.435€, dont 4.776 € de Gilead et 9.642 € d'Abbvie. Or Vincent Le Moing pilote, avec son patron Jacques Reynes cité ci-dessus, l'essai clinique de Montpellier.

N°12. Le Dr Alain Makinson de Montpellier. 63.873€, dont 15.054 € de Gilead. Or Alain Makinson participe à l'étude de Montpellier avec Jacques Reynes et Vincent Le Moing. Un beau trio. Montpellier est très bien représentée.

N°13. François-Xavier Lescure de Paris – Bichat. 28.929€, dont 8.621 € de Gilead. Or François-Xavier Lescure est l'adjoint de notre célèbre Yazdan Yazdanpanah qui est dans le Conseil scientifique Covid-19. Il a publiquement critiqué l'équipe de Marseille pour discréditer l'hydroxychloroquine. Il est co-auteur de l'étude très contestable sur le remdesivir de Gilead, publiée dans le New England Journal of Medicine. Or cette étude n'a aucune méthodologie.

N°14. La Pr Florence Ader de Lyon. 11.842€ , dont 3.750 € de Gilead. Or Florence Ader est l'investigatrice principale de Discovery.

  Erica Beardsley, qui a été infirmière pendant 11 ans dans la petite ville de Pontiac, dans la province canadienne de Québec, a récemment démissionné après que son employeur lui a ordonné de se faire vacciner.

  Lors d'une manifestation contre le mandat anti-vaccin au Canada, Beardsley a parlé à un journaliste de ce dont elle a été témoin pendant la pandémie.

  « J'ai vu physiquement des gens retenir des personnes âgées et les vacciner contre leur gré pendant qu'elles criaient 'Non' », a-t-elle déclaré.

  « J'ai vu des patients se suicider et… une fois qu'ils sont morts, ils les testent pour le COVID. Pourquoi? Pourquoi les testons-nous pour COVID ? »

« J'ai vu beaucoup de gens mourir d'une crise cardiaque peu de temps après le vaccin », a-t-elle poursuivi. « J'ai été témoin de fausses couches à terme cinq jours, quatre jours après le vaccin ».

Bien qu'il vienne d'une ville d'environ 5 000 habitants, Beardsley a déclaré que cela devenait un phénomène inquiétant.

« Je suis dans un petit hôpital, un petit hôpital. J'ai travaillé à tous les étages », a déclaré Beardsley. Elle a dit qu'elle a travaillé dans les soins de longue durée, les soins généraux, le service des urgences et même pour la clinique externe de son hôpital. « J'ai tout vu. »

« Je n'ai rien à perdre, rien à cacher. Ils voulaient me faire vacciner et j'ai refusé. »

Une deuxième infirmière travaillant à l'hôpital St. Michael's de Toronto affirme que l'hôpital est rempli de patients Covid entièrement vaccinés.

L'infirmière a répondu : « Les hôpitaux sont à peu près pleins de gens qui ont été vaccinés. Ils retournent à l'hôpital en raison de leurs vaccinations. »

« Alors vous me dites que les gens qui se sont fait vacciner sont à l'hôpital en ce moment ? » demanda le journaliste.

- 5 octobre 2021 : France - Vaccins - Dangers - Chiffres - DREES - Biais des Statistiques - Fact Checkers - Médias - Libération - « Le dessous des chiffres du Ministère de la Santé »

le 15 mai, sans que cela n'ait jamais été signalé dans l'étude, ni même justifié jusqu'à aujourd'hui. Nous attendons toujours les explications de ce choix et le statut vaccinal de ces personnes pour nous permettre de mesurer l'impact de ce tri. Dans cet article, nous allons analyser l'ensemble des résultats fournis par la DREES dans sa dernière étude. Nous allons voir que les choix de statistiques présentées ne sont pas neutres et masquent d'importants biais. Elles sont choisies et présentées pour promouvoir la vaccination et non pour apporter une information objective au public. Il suffirait de quelques statistiques supplémentaires, simples et disponibles pour la DREES, afin de mieux objectiver la situation. Nous réitérons nos demandes pour que l'ensemble des chiffres soit communiqué, afin de permettre un choix libre et éclairé des citoyens français. Le 13 juillet 2021, la DREES, la direction réalisant les statistiques pour le ministère de la santé a sorti une étude récapitulant les données connus des résultats de tests Covid-19 pour les vaccinés et les non-vaccinés en France. Cette étude a été complétée le 23 juillet 2021 par une autre étude ajoutant cette fois-ci les données d'hospitalisations et de décès liées à la Covid-19. Cette dernière étude est utilisée en ce moment par le gouvernement et les médias pour justifier la politique vaccinale, puisqu'elle affirme notamment que : - Les non-vaccinés représentent près de 85 % des entrées hospitalières, que ce soit en hospitalisation conventionnelle ou en soins critiques. - Les patients complètement vaccinés comptent pour environ 7 % des admissions, une proportion cinq fois plus faible que celle observée en population générale (35 % en moyenne durant la période d'étude). - À tout âge, la part de patients vaccinés entrant à l'hôpital est nettement inférieure à celle qu'ils représentent dans l'ensemble de la population. Seulement, comme l'a relevé @NiusMarco sur Twitter et détaillé Patrice Gibertie dans un article, les données utilisées pas la DREES posent un énorme problème : il manque la moitié des décès Covid-19 français. Dans cette vidéo, nous allons détailler les données de l'étude pour comprendre d'où viennent les données, comment la DREES a pu retirer la moitié des décès de son analyse et ce que cela signifie pour les conclusions de l'étude. - 6 octobre 2021 : DAVOS - Identité Digitale - Global Leaders - Great Reset - « The WEF and the Pandemic »

  « How is the Davos World Economic Forum involved in the coronavirus pandemic?

  The Davos World Economic Forum (WEF) is a premier forum for governments, global corporations and international entrepreneurs. Founded in 1971 by engineer and economist Klaus Schwab, the WEF describes its mission as "shaping global, regional and industry agendas" and "improving the state of the world". According to its website, "moral and intellectual integrity is at the heart of everything it does."

The WEF has been involved in the coronavirus pandemic in several ways.

First, the WEF was, together with the Gates Foundation, a sponsor of the prescient "Event 201"coronavirus pandemic simulation exercise, held in New York City on October 18, 2019 – the same day as the opening of the Wuhan Military World Games, seen by some as "ground zero" of the global pandemic. China itself has argued that US military athletes may have brought the virus to Wuhan.

Second, the WEF has been a leading proponent of digital biometric identity systems, arguing that they will make societies and industries more efficient, more productive and more secure. In July 2019, the WEF started a project to "shape the future of travel with biometric-enabled digital traveler identity management". In addition, the WEF collaborates with the ID2020 alliance, which is funded by the Gates and Rockefeller foundations and runs a program to "provide digital ID with vaccines". In particular, ID2020 sees the vaccination of children as "an entry point for digital identity."

Third, WEF founder Klaus Schwab is the author of the book COVID-19: The Great Reset, published in July 2020, which argues that the coronavirus pandemic can and should be used for an "economic, societal, geopolitical, environmental and technological reset", including, in particular, advancing global governance, accelerating digital transformation, and tackling climate change.

Finally, the WEF has been running, since 1993, a program called "Global Leaders for Tomorrow", rebranded, in 2004, as "Young Global Leaders". This program aims at identifying, selecting and promoting future global leaders in both business and politics. Indeed, quite a few "Young Global Leaders" have later managed to become Presidents, Prime Ministers, or CEOs (see below).

During the coronavirus pandemic, several WEF Global Leaders and Global Shapers (a junior program of the Global Leaders) have played prominent roles, typically promoting zero-covid strategies, lockdowns, mask mandates, and 'vaccine passports'. This may have been a (largely failed) attempt to protect public health and the economy, or it may have been an attempt to advance the global transformation agenda outlined above, or perhaps both.

In this regard, some notable Young Leaders include Jeffrey Zients (US White House Coronavirus Response Coordinator), Stéphane Bancel (CEO of Moderna), Jeremy Howard (founder of influential lobby group "Masks for All"), Leana Wen (zero-covid CNN medical analyst), Eric Feigl-Ding (zero-covid Twitter personality), Gavin Newsom (Governor of California, selected in 2005), Devi Sridhar (British zero-covid professor), Jacinda Ardern (Prime Minister of New Zealand), Greg Hunt (Australian Health Minister and former WEF strategy director), French President Emanuel Macron (selected one year prior to his election in 2017), Austrian Chancellor Sebastian Kurz, German Chancellor Angela Merkel (selected back in 1993), German Health Minister Jens Spahn, and former British Prime Minister Tony Blair (a leading proponent of 'global vaccine passports').

To get a full overview of their members, see Global Leaders for Tomorrow and Young Global Leaderson WikiSpooks (a Wiki focusing on covert power structures) as well as the official Young Global Leaders website. For an overview of some notable members in politics and the media, see below.

In conclusion, the Davos World Economic Forum has indeed been involved in the strategic management of the coronavirus pandemic, with a major emphasis on using the pandemic as a catalyst for digital transformation and the global introduction of digital identity systems. »

vaccin était strictement conforme à l'énoncé des substances mentionnées dans les notices.

En Allemagne par exemple des médecins se sont réunis pour faire le point et échanger autour de ce qu'ils ont analysé et trouvé dans les vaccins :

« À Heidelberg, le Prof. Dr. Peter Schirmacher a récemment mis en exergue une corrélation entre les vaccins contre le Covid-19 et 40% des décès qui sont apparus dans les 14 jours suivant la vaccination.

Lors des autopsies, les scientifiques ont pris l'option de mobiliser des matériels à la pointe de la nouvelle technologie pour arriver à établir un lien entre la vaccination et les décès de plusieurs vaccinés. Les résultats ont ainsi révélé que les injections engendrent une « crise de folie des lymphocytes (Lymphozyten-Amok)». Pour se mettre dans le contexte, on rappellera que les lymphocytes forment une sous-catégorie de globules blancs qui sont responsables des réactions immunitaires.

Cette crise est essentiellement due à : une surproduction de lymphocytes ou hyperplasie, un déstockage des organes lymphatiques qui contribue à la réduction des facultés immunitaires externes, un réflexe immunitaire abusif capable d'engendrer des maladies auto-immunes et l'apparition inattendue de ganglions lymphatiques au niveau de quelques organes à l'instar des poumons, de l'utérus, des glandes salivaires …

Face à ces effets secondaires, force est de constater que cette conférence de presse a eu l'effet d'une bombe à retardement. »

  « Now comes the hope for what might be life-saving treatments for Covid-19: new antiviral drugs. Combined with vaccines, these drugs have the potential to end the pandemic. The hope is that upon exposure, popping a pill for several days will either prevent infection altogether—once vaccine protection has waned—or in those infected, prevent disease. Merck/Ridgeback's molnupiravir is the first of what will be a mini-flood of such drugs over the next several years. The next question is, at what cost?

  My own investigation of multiple India suppliers puts the manufacturing cost of the raw material for molnupiravir, the active pharmaceutical ingredient (API), at about $2.50 dollars a treatment. The total price per treatment in the non-regulated markets will be no more than $20, factoring in the cost of manufacturing the pill, and a modest profit for all the intermediaries between the manufacturer and the patient. That is 35 times less than the Merck/Ridgeback government price, which is about $700. »

  « Thailand was hit hard with the Delta variant surge, and vaccination experienced a slow start as the manufacturer granted the license to produce the AstraZeneca/Oxford vaccine had no real experience in vaccine production. Now reports indicate that a cheap, herbal medicine might just be working to treat SARS-Cov-2, the virus behind COVID-19. Just a couple months ago, Thailand's national cabinet actually approved green chiretta for use in people with asymptomatic or mild COVID-19 infections following a successful study in the prison system here. Most of the nation's jails now use the herbal remedy with a remarkable track record to the study—90.02% that took the drug got better. These are better results than Molnupiravir, ivermectin, favipiravir, and remdesivir (the latter in a hospital setting). While the drug isn't a silver bullet nor cure, it may be just what the doctor ordered to treat the 90% of COVID-19 cases that are simply asymptomatic or mild in nature. While the data must still be substantiated, this could be game-changing, bombshell information. »

  « As predicted, and sure enough labelled "just another conspiracy theory" at the time, those who came forward to "play their part" and help the country "get back to normal" by "rolling up their sleeves" and getting the Covid-19 injection "when called upon to do so" have now discovered that "normal" is just a carrot that will forever be dangled in front of them just ever so slightly out of reach, and are now beginning their endless cycle of Covid-19 booster shots.

Although the authorities won't officially admit it, it turns out the Covid-19 injections only work for a couple of months, at which point alleged immunity begins to decline. This is of course evident by the numbers seen in the latest UK Health Security Agency Report which reveal that the Covid-19 injections currently have negative effectiveness as low as minus-eighty-eight-percent in everyone over the age of 30, suggesting they are actually destroying the immune systems of the recipients. »

  « The New York Times, in an article published Oct. 6, overstated the number of children hospitalized with COVID in the U.S. by more than 800,000. The Times acknowledged the mistake, and other errors in the same article, the following day by adding a correction to the end of the original piece.

  The Times initially reported "nearly 900,000 children have been hospitalized" with COVID since the pandemic began. The corrected article, updated Oct. 7, states "more than 63,000 children were hospitalized with COVID-19 from August 2020 to October 2021."

  According to Fox News, the original Times article, "A New Vaccine Strategy for Children: Just One Dose, for Now," by Apoorva Mandavilli, science and health reporter, was "peppered with errors" before major changes were made to the story.

  In addition to overstating the number of children hospitalized with COVID, the Times falsely reported actions taken by regulators in Sweden and Denmark — who paused Moderna's COVID vaccine for younger age groups last week citing reports of myocarditis — and botched the timing of a scheduled U.S. Food and Drug Administration meeting to discuss the authorization of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine for children 5 to 11 years old. »

« Oz Koren et son équipe ont indiqué que le ministère de la santé a pratiquement manipulé les données de son tableau de bord, en modifiant le statut vaccinal des cas positifs enregistrés dans les aéroports.

A titre d'exemple, un jour donné, le nombre de cas confirmés s'élevait à 118 chez les personnes vaccinées et à 242 chez les non vaccinées. Soudainement, les données ont été modifiées et on a constaté 10 cas confirmés vaccinés contre 350 non vaccinés.

Ce que le ministère a ignoré, c'est qu'il est possible de consulter les données originales via la plateforme waybackmachine de web archive et les captures d'écran du Conseil d'urgence.

Oz Koren et son équipe détiennent des vidéos qui démontrent ces manipulations frauduleuses. Par ailleurs, le Conseil a publié les captures d'écran des données originales et celles des données « révisées ». La différence est flagrante.

Il se trouve que le ministère de la Santé en Israël a déjà réalisé ce genre de manœuvre avec les commentaires d'une publication sur Facebook intitulée « Let's talk about side effects » ou parlons des effets secondaires des vaccins. Il a supprimé les commentaires révélant les effets indésirables. Le ministère de la Santé n'a pas encore répondu à ces allégations. »

  « The famed and much celebrated pulmonologist Dr. Pierre Kory sits down with Chris for another intimate and powerfully honest discussion about his work as an ICU doc on the front lines of the COVID pandemic for nearly the last 2 years. Kory dives into the intense struggles he has faced treating critically ill and desperate patients with severe COVID, while simultaneously doing battle with the nihilistic ideologues who dominate the massive, bureaucratic governmental structures such as the CDC, NIH, WHO, etc.

  Day in and day out, Kory has witnessed first hand, across thousands of patients, which therapies and treatments are working and which are not. But his attempts to finally bring this exceptional body of knowledge to the fore of"official" medical institutions for their consideration and acceptance, has proven to be a futile exercise thanks to the toxic political machinations in place.

  In the end, as it has always been, it's we the people who suffer and pay the price for these inexcusable acts of ignorance. When will we ever learn the lessons hard taught to us over these last 2 devastating years? Kory, for one, isn't holding his breath. »

Les statistiques officielles cacheraient elles la moitié des excès covid, les effets secondaires des vaccins seraient ils l'explication? Abonnez vous au blog car la censure veille…

En France les plus de 75 ans sont massivement morts en aout septembre, autant que l'hiver dernier, mais officiellement ils étaient protégés de la covid, ils sont morts de quoi ?

Un excès anormal de mortalité plus important que cet hiver ou qu'au printemps 2020. A l'époque on accusait la covid mais officiellement elle ne serait pas cause. Mais alors qu'est ce qui a tué les plus de 15 ans et pourquoi personne n'en parle ? Pourquoi une surmortalité toute causes confondues dans les semaineds qui suivent l'appel de Macron du 12 juillet? Il n'y a pas de décès covid à ce moment là..

Aux Etats Unis la moitié de la surmortalité de l'été et l'automne ne serait pas due à la Covid mais alors à quoi ?

Le site EUROMOMO mesure la surmortalité dans l'Union Européenne le royaume uni , Israelet quelques autres pays du continent. On découvre que depuis le début de 2021 la Covid représenterait moins de la moitié de la surmortalité enregistrée. La surmortalité serait deux fois plus importante que l'an dernier (sans vaccin), et elle exploserait après le mois de mai quand l'épidémie avait ralenti et plus encore en septembre octobre. Cette mortalité par rapport à 2020 ne concernerait pas les plus de 85 ans mais toutes les autres catégories dans les semaines qui suivent leur… vaccination.

– découverte de décisions injustifiées de dirigeants de l'Organisation mondiale de la santé (OMS), de l'Union européenne, du président et du gouvernement français comme d'adminis- trations du ministère français des Solidarités et de la Santé sur un médicament, l'Ivermectine, dont les caractéristiques d'efficacité et de sûreté contre la maladie covid-19 sont dissi-mulées ;

– recherche des principales études scientifiques vérifiées publiées au fil des mois sur l'Ivermectine ;

– analyse du jeu trompeur de dirigeants de sociétés transna- tionales étasuniennes de la pharmacie avec les dirigeants de l'Union européenne et de l'OMS pour imposer leurs pro- duits ;

– procès en cours contre ces dirigeants politiques et respon- sables d'administrations qui ont ainsi laissé mourir des dizaines de milliers de personnes au seul profit de fabricants de « vaccins » peu sûrs et potentiellement dangereux.

L'auteur montre, point par point, dans une succession de courts paragraphes très documentés, comment et pourquoi l'Ivermectine, médicament efficace et sûr, a été écarté du traitement de personnes atteintes de la covid-19. »

  « A new report from the left-leaning Australia Institute's Centre for Responsible Technology has warned state-level governments to avoid crossing into “new frontiers” of citizen surveillance following the increasing adoption of home quarantine apps in the country.

Currently, South Australia, New South Wales, and Victoria are trialling such apps, which use geolocation and facial recognition technology to help monitor compliance with COVID-19 quarantine measures. For example, over 97,000 residents have already used Western Australia’s home quarantine app, the G2G pass.

The report called on state governments to “regain the public’s trust” after police (in Queensland and Western Australia) were caught accessing data collected in COVID-19 contact tracing apps to assist in investigations.

“It is important to learn the lessons of recent history and not allow moments of global crisis, like the pandemic, to reshape the way surveillance technology is used,” Peter Lewis, director of the Centre for Responsible Technology, said in a press release on Oct. 11. »

This database maintained at EudraVigilance is only for countries in Europe which are part of the European Union (EU), which comprises 27 countries.

The total number of countries in Europe is much higher, almost twice as many, numbering around 50. (There are some differences of opinion as to which countries are technically part of Europe.)

Pour cette raison, le groupe Springer, qui possède la Bild-Zeitung aurait préféré se séparer du jeune et brillant rédacteur en chef. « Data released Friday by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) showed that between Dec. 14, 2020, and Oct. 15, 2021, a total of 818,044 adverse events following COVID vaccines were reported to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS).

The data included a total of 17,128 reports of deaths — an increase of 362 over the previous week, and a new report of a 12-year-old who died after getting the Pfizer vaccine.

There were 117,399 reports of serious injuries, including deaths, during the same time period — up 5,434 compared with the previous week.

Excluding "foreign reports" to VAERS, 612,125 adverse events, including 7,848 deaths and 50,225 serious injuries, were reported in the U.S. between Dec. 14, 2020, and Oct. 15, 2021.

Of the 7,848 U.S. deaths reported as of Oct. 15, 11% occurred within 24 hours of vaccination, 15% occurred within 48 hours of vaccination and 28% occurred in people who experienced an onset of symptoms within 48 hours of being vaccinated.

In the U.S., 406.1 million COVID vaccine doses had been administered as of Oct. 15. This includes: 237 million doses of Pfizer, 154 million doses of Moderna and 15 million doses of Johnson & Johnson (J&J). »

- 22 octobre 2021 : Canada - Dictature Sanitaire - Discrimination contre les Non-Vaccinés - « C'est absolument épouvantable : Les Canadiens non vaccinés sont en train de devenir la nouvelle minorité discriminée et persécutée » - Par Eva BartLett

« Au Canada, un pays soi-disant bienveillant qui se targue d'être inclusif, le totalitarisme du Covid est devenu manifeste avec la décision que bientôt seules les personnes entièrement vaccinées pourront voyager.

L'obligation de se faire vacciner a également été imposée aux travailleurs de la santé, aux employés municipaux et aux fonctionnaires fédéraux. En fait, dans le cadre de ce que le premier ministre Justin Trudeau a appelé l'une des politiques les plus strictes au monde en matière d'obligation vaccinale, les Canadiens non vaccinés sont de plus en plus restreints/exclus non seulement du travail, mais aussi de la vie sociale. On prétend que cela est fait pour leur bien-être et leur santé. Je soutiens cependant que ce n'est rien d'autre que du « fascisme médical ».

Il y a quelques mois, les médias du monde entier ont fait beaucoup de bruit lorsque le gouvernement du Canada a versé des larmes de crocodile sur l'emprisonnement, la torture, la privation de nourriture et le meurtre d'enfants autochtones dans le cadre de l'horrible système des « pensionnats ». Nous étions censés croire que le gouvernement se souciait soudainement d'une population qu'il avait toujours cherché à éliminer.
Mais, en plus des nombreux exemples qui prouvent que ce ne sont que des discours de façade, il est devenu clair, depuis plus d'un an et demi, que le gouvernement se moque bien des Canadiens, un point c'est tout.

Dans le cadre d'un des plus longs confinements au monde, les Canadiens ont vu leurs entreprises fermées, ont été privés de contact avec leurs aînés, ont été empêchés de pratiquer leur culte, d'organiser des réunion ou des fêtes pendant les vacances (alors que les dirigeants canadiens, eux, s'exemptaient des règles) et, plus grave encore, ont été privés de soins médicauxessentiels – tout cela au nom de la santé publique.

Les Canadiens, qui ont une immunité naturelle affirment qu'on leur a dit que ce n'était pas suffisant pour entrer dans le pays.

À partir du 30 octobre, seules les personnes vaccinées pourront prendre l'avion ou le train au Canada. Si un grand nombre de Canadiens se sont fait vacciner, beaucoup d'autres ont des inquiétudes légitimes quant à la sécurité des vaccins.

Lorsque le Dr Byram Bridle, professeur agrégé d'immunologie virale – un expert reconnu en vaccinologie – a refusé la vaccination parce qu'il avait une immunité naturelle, il a été tourné en dérision par les médias et banni de l'Université de Guelph. Il a précisé qu'il était « un amoureux des vaccins et un innovateur dans ce domaine« , mais qu'il s'inquiétait du « lien possible entre l'inflammation cardiaque qui voit apparaître et ces vaccins COVID-19« .

Sur la recommandation de l'OMS

Sur l'efficacité de l'Ivermectine

Sur l'usage de l'Ivermectine en Inde

Sur les études disponibles et l'efficacité de l'Ivermectine

CoV-2, dont 33 ont été revues par des pairs ». Réinfocovid précise que :–parmi ces 68 études scientifiques, il existe 50 essais cliniques avec des résultats comparant des groupes traités et contrôle. Dans ces 50 essais cliniques (dont 24 randomisés), l'Ivermectine a été utilisée dans : • 11 essais à titre prophylactique • 39 essais dans le traitement de la covid-19 (19 précocement, dès les premiers symptômes, et 20 à des stades tardifs et souvent graves de la covid-19.)–De plus, il existe 17 essais cliniques en cours dont les résultats sont attendus pour 2021 (https://emea01.safelinks.protection.outlook.com/?url=http%3A%2F%2Fwww.clinicaltrials.gov%2F&data=04%7C01%7C%7Ca7d0a544f54a4dd4451408d996048be2%7C84df9e7fe9f640afb435aaaaaaaaaaaa%7C1%7C0%7C637705768535763849%7CUnknown%7CTWFpbGZsb3d8eyJWIjoiMC4wLjAwMDAiLCJQIjoiV2luMzIiLCJBTiI6Ik1haWwiLCJXVCI6Mn0%3D%7C1000&sdata=if8vI%2FjobDHyPNNmmHhUNwAb1MEqPph1ceS%2F99qmRgQ%3D&reserved=0).

Passant en revue les essais contrôlés dans la prophylaxie et dans le traitement de la covid-19, Reinfocovid indique que les effets bénéfiques de l'Ivermectine en traitement précoce de la covid-19 qui sont décrits dans ces essais sont : • amélioration de la symptomatologie clinique ; • réduction du temps de récupération ; • réduction du portage viral, réduction du temps de négativation du test PCR ; • réduction du risque d'hospitalisation ; • réduction de la mortalité globale. De même, Reinfocovid dresse le bilan de vingt essais utilisant l'Ivermectine en traitement à des stades avancés de la maladie sur des patients hospitalisés. Constat : les effets bénéfiques de l'Ivermectine en traitement tardif de la covid-19 chez les patients hospitalisés qui sont décrits dans ces essais sont : • réduction du temps de récupération clinique ; • réduction du temps de négativation du test PCR ; • réduction de la durée d'hospitalisation ; • réduction des admissions en réanimation ; • réduction de la mortalité globale. Conclusion de Réinfocovid, qui publie en annexe de son analyse le détail et référencement des essais contrôlés avec l'Ivermectine dans le traitement de la covid-19 : « L'ensemble des études existantes montre une amélioration de la survie, un rétablissement clinique plus rapide et des signes d'effet dose-dépendant de la clairance virale pour les patients traités par Ivermectine plutôt que par contrôle. Même si des essais cliniques supplémentaires, de meilleure qualité et à plus grande échelle, ne pourraient être que bénéfiques, il est intéressant de noter que les avantages apparents de l'Ivermectine contre la Covid-19 semblent pouvoir s'appliquer à tous les stades de la maladie, de la prophylaxie au traitement des patients gravement malades. Trois méta-analyses sur ce sujet ont été réalisées (Abdulamir et al., 2021 ; Kory, 2021 ; Lawrie, 2021). Les résultats de ces trois méta-analyses sont tous concordants sur l'efficacité de l'Ivermectine dans la Covid-19, avec une baisse de la mortalité entre 65 % à 90 %, et une baisse du risque d'infection en prophylaxie de plus de 80 %, ainsi qu'à une diminution significative de la durée d'hospitalisation et du délai de guérison grâce au traitement par l'Ivermectine de patients atteints d'une Covid-19. »»

Sur le Conseil scientifique et son ignorance de l'Ivermectine

« Il convient également de rappeler que le Conseil scientifique mis en place le 10 mars 2020 par décret du président Macron, et présidé par le professeur à la retraite Jean-François Delfraissy, n'a jamais consacré un seul de ses avis et notes à l'Ivermectine en un an et demi alors que ce médicament permet de combattre efficacement la covid-19. Aussi, n'éclatez pas de rire si vous découvrez en lisant le règlement intérieur de ce comité de crise qu'il « a un rôle d'aide à la décision » et qu'il « rend périodiquement des avis sur l'état de la catastrophe sanitaire, les connaissances scientifiques qui s'y rapportent et les mesures propres à y mettre un terme ». L'Ivermectine, médicament élaboré dans les années 1980, utilisé pour la première fois sur l'homme en 1988, qui a sauvé des millions de vies et est étudié avec succès pour ses effets contre la covid-19 dans plusieurs pays, échappe mystérieusement aux « connaissances scientifiques » de ce curieux « conseil » à prétention « scientifique »

Sur le refus de la RTU pour l'Ivermectine et l'octroi d'une ATU pour le Remdesivir

« En effet, ainsi que l'explique maître Jean-Charles Teissedre, il est normalement « plus difficile d'obtenir une ATU (autorisation temporaire d'utilisation) qu'une RTU, car les conditions pour obtenir une RTU (recommandation temporaire d'utilisation), c'est juste une balance bénéfices/ risques favorable, de simples présomptions suffisant, tandis que pour obtenir une autorisation temporaire d'utilisation, il faut des présomptions qui soient très fortes, c'est la loi qui le dit ». Or, s'il existe peu d'études pour le Remdesivir, qui a obtenu de l'ANSM une ATU, « pour l'Ivermectine, il existe de nombreuses études qui sont toutes favorables », rappelle-t-il. La situation d'urgence sanitaire a permis en quelques semaines d'autoriser le Remdesivir–avec peu d'études sur le médicament du laboratoire étasunien Gilead–et le Bamlanivimab (à base d'anticorps monoclonaux) pour certains patients covid-19 grâce à une ATU. Pour le nouveau Remdesivir–également connu sous son nom de marque Veklury–, tout a été vite, très vite même. Beaucoup plus vite que pour l'Ivermectine, qui a pourtant un passé bien plus garni d'études scientifiques contrôlées et de résultats très positifs à travers le monde depuis près d'une quarantaine d'années. Mais, assurément, pas autant de lobbyistes auprès des centres de décisions de l'Union européenne et de Paris… »

Sur l'UE et le Remdesivir de Gilead

« « Le 3 juillet, le Remdesivir est devenu le premier traitement autorisé, bénéficiant d'une autorisation de mise sur le marché conditionnelle », annonce la Commission européenne. Mais, le 15 octobre suivant, la plus grande étude ouverte pour contrôler l'efficacité et la sûreté du Remdesivir, menée par l'OMS et baptisée « Solidarité »–près de 12 000 patients dans 500 hôpitaux de plus de 30 pays–montre que le Remdesivir a peu ou pas du tout d'impact sur la maladie ! Ces nouveaux résultats contredisent ceux de la documentation produite par Gilead Sciences pour obtenir son autorisation de mise sur le marché et ceux de l'AEM obtenus « dans un délai exceptionnellement court ». »

« Quant à l'Union européenne, « elle a décidé de régler le prix du Remdesivir exactement une semaine avant la publication des résultats décevants de l'essai Solidarity » et alors que « Gilead, ayant fait don de Remdesivir pour l'essai, a été informé des données le 23 septembre et savait que l'essai était un échec ». Rappelons que le contrat-cadre entre l'Union européenne et Gilead Sciences sera signé le 7 octobre suivant, soit 14 jours après que sa direction ait été informée des résultats négatifs de l'enquête. »

Sur Merck et l'Ivermectine

« Incroyable, mais vrai : c'est la société Merck & Co elle-même, tantôt opposée devant les tribunaux, tantôt partenaire de son rival Gilead Sciences, qui va discréditer la molécule… qu'elle produit ! Dans un communiqué publié en février 2021, qui sera largement repris par des médias et détracteurs de l'Ivermectine, celle-ci affirme « qu'à ce jour, notre analyse a identifié : aucune base scientifique pour un effet thérapeutique potentiel contre la Covid-19 à partir d'études précliniques ; aucune preuve significative d'activité

clinique ou d'efficacité clinique chez les patients atteints de la maladie Covid-19, et un manque préoccupant de données de sécurité dans la majorité des études ». Passons sur le fait, même si le détail a son importance, que Merck met alors au point un nouvel antiviral avec administration orale appelé le Molnupiravir (MK-4482/ EIDD-2801) pour le gouvernement des États-Unis. De très belles subventions–près de 400 millions de dollars US–et un contrat de plus d'un milliard de dollars US sont en jeu, auquel le petit comprimé Ivermectine ferait de l'ombre s'il était autorisé pour un usage généralisé, car largement moins coûteux et aussi efficace, sinon plus. »

Sur la sûreté et l'efficacité de l'Ivermectine

« L'une des plus importantes études scientifiques réalisées sur la sûreté et l'efficacité de l'Ivermectine contre la covid-19 est publiée au mois de mai 2021 par American Journal of Therapeutics. Les chercheurs y indiquent qu'« il existe de plus en plus de preuves démontrant à la fois l'innocuité et l'efficacité de l'Ivermectine dans la prévention et le traitement de la Covid-19. Les analyses épidémiologiques à grande échelle valident les résultats des études in vitro, animales, prophylactiques et cliniques. Les données épidémiologiques des régions du monde où l'utilisation de l'Ivermectine est répandue ont démontré une réduction temporellement associée du nombre de cas, des hospitalisations et des taux de mortalité ». »

« Pour ce qui est de la sûreté de l'Ivermectine de manière générale, « à titre de comparaison, écrivent-ils, VigiBase, recueillant les données de pharmacovigilance de plus de 130 pays adhérents à l'OMS, relève en 30 ans 16 décès et 4 700 effets indésirables pour l'Ivermectine, contre 3 695 décès et 161 147 effets indésirables pour le Doliprane ».»

« Le Docteur Gérard Maudrux, signataire à titre personnel du rapport adressé par les médecins au ministre Olivier Véran, souligne à la fin du mois de mars 2021 l'abondance de la documentation scientifique attestant de l'efficacité de l'Ivermectine : « De plus en plus d'articles sortent, ainsi que des méta-analyses–dont une française. Et il y a un consensus, ce qui n'était pas le cas avec la chloroquine. Il y a près

de quatre-vingt-douze études et elles ont toutes le même résultat : une mortalité divisée par quatre, voire par cinq, et des symptômes qui disparaissent deux fois plus rapidement, en à peine plus de quarante-huit heures. Enfin, il n'y a aucun effet secondaire grave. Qu'est-ce que ça nous coûterait d'essayer ? »»

« Un mois après que l'ANSM a refusé l'autorisation temporaire d'utilisation pour l'Ivermectine, « la dernière méta-analyse en date, que n'avait pas l'ANSM » qui « vient de la Mayo Clinique (NdA : Rochester, Minnesota, États-Unis) » et regroupe « 38 études, plus de 15 000 patients » conclut à « une réduction de 80 % de la mortalité » ! Puis, le même mois de mai, American Journal of Therapeutics publie encore une autre étude réalisée par des chercheurs de cinq grands centres étasuniens dont l'auteur principal est le docteur Pierre Kory, président de L'Alliance de soins intensifs Covid-19 de première ligne (FLCCC pour Front Line COVID-19 Critical Care Alliance). Ils indiquent dans leur conclusion : « Des méta-analyses basées sur 18 essais de traitement contrôlés randomisés de l'Ivermectine dans la Covid-19 ont trouvé des réductions importantes et statistiquement significatives de la mortalité, du temps de récupération clinique et du temps de clairance virale. De plus, les résultats de nombreux essais contrôlés de prophylaxie font état de risques considérablement réduits de contracter la Covid-19 avec l'utilisation régulière d'Ivermectine. » »

« « Combien de morts faudra-t-il cette fois pour autoriser un médicament qui évite 4 morts sur 5 ? » Pour mémoire, il aura fallu un peu plus de dix ans pour que l'ANSM soit condamnée à la peine maximum–303 000 euros d'amende–dans l'affaire du Médiator, l'un des pires scandales sanitaires de France, qui fit au minimum plus de

6 500 victimes et 500 décès, pour avoir « gravement failli dans sa mission ». « À l'époque, rappelle le docteur Gérard Maudrux, elle a tardé pour retirer le médicament, avec 2 000 morts dus à ce retard. Combien de morts faudra-t-il cette fois pour autoriser un médicament qui évite 4 morts sur 5, ce que disent toutes les études qui ont comme critère la mortalité ? Combien d'années ensuite pour la faire condamner ? » Pour ce professionnel de la santé publique, « les décisions sont politiques et financières, elles ne sont pas médicales. C'est un médicament totalement inoffensif, il y a moins de quinze morts en trente ans sur 4 milliards de prescriptions. C'est 100, voire 1 000 fois plus avec le Doliprane, tout le monde le sait », tempête le docteur Maudrux. »

« L'ANSM écarte de son rapport tous les spécialistes de l'Ivermectine Autre fait étrange pour un organisme comme l'ANSM qui revendique une démarche scientifique : celle-ci n'aurait entendu aucun des grands spécialistes de l'Ivermectine pour construire son rapport. Ce n'est pourtant pas faute que les médecins lui aient suggéré de nombreux contacts : « Nous avions également proposé à l'ANSM de contacter les spécialistes qui, en France, connaissaient le mieux l'Ivermectine pour avoir travaillé le sujet. Le laboratoire Medincell qui prépare un dossier avec des études pour une AMM concernant une forme à action prolongée, avec une grosse publication sur la sécurité du médicament faite par Jacques Descotes, professeur émérite à l'Université Claude Bernard à Lyon, Jean-Pierre Changeux de l'Académie des Sciences, professeur honoraire au Collège de France et à l'Institut Pasteur, et Pierre-Jean Guillausseau de l'Université de Paris Sorbonne, auteur d'un gros travail d'analyse des études étrangères. » L'ANSM écoutera-t-elle les arguments de ces grands chercheurs et prendra-t-elle en compte leurs travaux ? «Aucun n'a été consulté », précisent les médecins, qui ajoutent que l'agence sous tutelle du ministère des Solidarités et de la Santé a également laissé de côté bien d'autres données importantes. C'est ainsi « qu'il n'est pas fait état des constatations très positives faites dans deux Ehpad en France en début d'épidémie et portées à la connaissance des autorités. Aucun médecin prescripteur n'a été contacté pour évoquer son expérience, alors que ce sont ces

remontées de terrain qui ont permis au Baclofène d'avoir une RTU dans l'addiction alcoolique, sans aucune étude clinique, montrant qu'il existe d'autres moyens que les études étrangères pour évaluer l'efficacité d'un médicament », rapportent les médecins qui s'adressent au ministre de la Santé. »

Sur les masques

Sur l'ASNM et le traitement de la RTU

coups de grandes ponctions de fonds publics et à grands risques, ainsi qu'en attestent les effets secondaires graves qui leur sont liés. »

« Maître Jean-Charles Teissedre : Ce que je retire de cette immersion dans le domaine fascinant de la santé publique est que l'on sait aller très vite quand il s'agit de produits nouveaux qui représentent un espoir, mais aussi un risque, et que l'on fait preuve d'un excès de prudence pour des médicaments que l'on connaît parfaitement, mais dont le repositionnement est entravé jusqu'à l'absurde. On avance à la vitesse de l'escargot quand il s'agit de médicaments génériqués qui n'intéressent pas l'industrie, pas même les génériqueurs, qui ne sont pas d'accord pour financer des essais cliniques pour des molécules hors brevet parce qu'ils n'auront aucune garantie ni exclusivité à l'issue. »

Sur les études biaisées de l'OMS

recherche épidémiologique de premier plan. En résumé, la recommandation de l'OMS selon laquelle « l'Ivermectine ne doit pas être utilisée en dehors des essais cliniques » est entièrement basée sur :–le rejet de grandes quantités de données d'essai ;–la dégradation de la qualité des preuves ;–l'omission délibérée d'une relation dose-réponse avec la clairance virale. »

Sur l'attitude de Merck à l'égard de l'Ivermectine

- 23 octobre 2021 : Protéine Spike - Vaccins - Dangers - « The Spike Protein Is the Killer – Beware of mRNA "Vaccines" »

  « The cause for this rapid and often deadly proliferation of the spike protein is what Dr. Jane Ruby, medical expert and pharmaceutical researcher, calls "Magnetofection", an aggressive magnetic gel delivery system, included in the injection – to transport the spike protein in "warp speed" into every cell of the human body.

  The German manufacturer, Chemicell GmbH, Berlin (see this) of this special magnetic gel says it's not for use in humans. Yet, Moderna and Pfizer are using it in their mRNA experimental gene-therapy, about which they lie and call it falsely "vaccine". – Watch Dr. Jane Ruby's 9 min video here.

  This magnetofection transport system is so powerful, that people, who got their jab, were able to stick magnets on their body. The COVID "non-vaccine" injected lipid nanoparticles tell the body to produce the spike protein. Thanks to the magnetic gel, they rapidly leave the injection site and accumulate in organs and tissues. See this by Dr. Alex Pierson.

The spike proteins being activated in virtually every cell of the human body are overwhelming the body's immune system, thus, fighting it, rather than enhancing it. This may lead to numerous complications and infections over time. Some of them, like blood clotting, resulting in thrombosis and other heart ailments – and death – may be immediate results after the inoculation. Other potentially fatal effects, many of neurological nature, may not show up immediately but only over time – after one, two, or three years? It will then be difficult to trace the infirmity produced by the Spike Protein back to the vaccine.

In a compelling 1-minute video, Dr. Mike Yeadon, former Pfizer Vice President and Chief of Science, warns, "Everyone who takes the experimental vaccine cannot escape death". See this. » « Première certitude: l'épidémie de covid-19 a commencé à Wuhan bien avant décembre 2019. Des photos américaines prises par satellite ont repéré deux fois plus de voitures que d'ordinaire sur les parkings des principaux hôpitaux de Wuhan dès le mois d'août 2019.

- 25 octobre 2021 : Origine du Virus - Synthèse - « Virus chinois, argent américain, complicité française : les troubles origines du COVID-19 » - Le Courrier des Stratèges

  Deuxième certitude : le gouvernement chinois, avec les réflexes typiques d'un régime communiste, a dissimulé le plus longtemps possible l'existence de l'épidémie et n'en a parlé au monde que contraint et forcé, en janvier 2020 quand elle n'était plus possible à dissimuler.

  Troisième certitude : Le Dr. Anthony Fauci a tout fait pour empêcher Donald Trump de remonter la piste d'un accident de laboratoire au P4 de Wuhan car il avait, directement ou indirectement, autorisé des financements à destination du laboratoire de Wuhan. Les révélations se sont multipliées à cet égard ces dernières semaines. En bref, les recherches dites de "gain de fonction", consistant à transformer le génome de virus pour les rendre plus dangereux pour l'homme a été interdite aux Etats-Unis entre 2013 et 2017. Des chercheurs américains ont pu néanmoins continuer à faire de telles recherches au laboratoire de Wuhan avec, entre autres ressources, de l'argent du Pentagone transféré par une ONG appelée EcoHealth Alliance. Le 20 juillet 2021, Anthony Fauci avait encore nié l'existence de ce type de recherches mais un réseau de chercheurs appelé DRASTIC(Decentralized Radical Autonomous Search Team Investigating COVID-19) ne cesse d'amener des preuves du contraire.

  Quatrième certitude: la thèse de la transmission naturelle du virus à l'homme a de moins en moins de partisans. La thèse d'un accident de laboratoire devient majoritaire, d'autant plus que tout le monde s'accorde à dire que les Chinois ont mené avec un niveau de sécurité 2, à Wuhan, des recherches qui demandaient un niveau de sécurité 4.

Cinquième certitude: l'Armée chinoise se serait bien passée de la publicité faite au laboratoire de Wuhan puisqu'elle y menait, en lien avec la recherche civile, une recherche sur les armes biologiques du futur. »

- 25 octobre 2021 : FDA - Vaccins Pfizer - Dangers - Enfants - « Ten red flags in the FDA's risk-benefit analysis of Pfizer's EUA application to inject American children 5 to 11 with its mRNA product »

  « The FDA's risk-benefit analysis in connection with Pfizer's Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) application to inject children ages 5 to 11 with their COVID-19 vaccine is one of the shoddiest documents I've ever seen.

  Let's take it from the top:

  🚩 COVID-19 rates in children ages 5 to 11 are so low that there were ZERO cases of severe COVID-19 and ZERO cases of death from COVID in either the treatment (n= 1,518) or control group (n= 750). So any claims you see in the press about the Pfizer vaccine being "90% effective" in children are meaningless because they are referring to mild cases from which children usually recover quickly (and then have robust broad spectrum immunity). So there is literally no emergency in this population for which one could apply for Emergency Use Authorization. Pfizer's application should be dead on arrival if the FDA actually followed the science and their own rules. We will return to this topic below.

  🚩 Pfizer's clinical trial in kids was intentionally undersized to hide harms. This is a well known trick of the pharmaceutical industry. The FDA even called them out on it earlier this summer and asked Pfizer to expand the trial and Pfizer just ignored them because they can. (Pfizer fudged it by importing data from a different study but this other study only monitored adverse outcomes for 17 days so if anything the new data polluted rather than clarified outcomes). To put it simply, if the rate of particular adverse outcome in kids as a result of this shot is 1 in 5,000 and the trial only enrolls 1,518 in the treatment group then one is unlikely to spot this particular harm in the clinical trial. Voilà "Safe & Effective(TM)".

🚩 Pfizer only enrolled "participants 5-11 years of age without evidence of prior SARS-CoV-2 infection." Does the Pfizer mRNA shot wipe out natural immunity and leave one worse-off than doing nothing as shown in this data from the British government? Pfizer has no idea because children with prior SARS-CoV-2 infection were excluded from this trial. This was by design. Toxic polluters have learned to not ask questions that they do not want the answers to, lest they wind up staring at their own smoking gun in a future court case. »

  Steve Kirsch, Executive Director of the Covid-19 Early Treatment Fund was invited to speak at the meeting and due to the short time frame given to speak he felt it was best to prepare 30 slides which asked some extremely serious questions on the safety of giving an experimental injection to children.

« Selon l'analyste, la fraude repose sur trois piliers :

1. Données sensibles reléguées dans les appendices
Les conclusions avancées contredisent les données montrant une absence de protection et une surmortalité importante des vaccinés. Ces données sensibles sont reléguées dans des appendices à l'article, peu susceptibles d'être épluchées.

2. Viol des règles fondamentales à l'élaboration d'une étude fiable L'étude a été conçue pour camoufler certains résultats prévisibles et potentiellement embarrassants. Exemple : une règle d'or est de préserver rigoureusement l'intégrité des deux groupes testés : celui des sujets recevant l'injection – dits « vaccinés» – et ceux figurant dans le groupe contrôle recevant un placebo – dits « non-vaccinés ». Or cette disposition cardinale a été violée : le groupe contrôle a été liquidé en cours de route. Ceci rend définitivement impossible toute comparaison des taux d'effets indésirables dans les deux groupes.

Des « raisons éthiques » ont été invoquées. Or, sachant que le risque de mortalité générale en 2020 et 2021 n'a pas été modifié en-dessous de 80 ans, donc que les participants du groupe témoin ne risquaient rien à ne PAS être injectés, cela semble constituer une malfaçon dont on peine à imaginer qu'elle soit désintéressée.

3. Non rétractation de l'étude malgré ses malfaçons
Malgré ces procédés frauduleux, contraires à tous les standards, l'étude n'a pas été rétractée. Au lieu de cela, cet article a servi de prétexte à une expérimentation médicale rigoureusement prohibée par les conventions internationales, dont celle d'Oviedo en particulier, ou encore de la Déclaration d'Helsinki. »

- 28 octobre 2021 : Merck - Profits - Remèdes - « Molnupiravir: Covid Wonder Drug or Money-Making Scam? »

  « Yes, I'm talking about "Molnupiravir", Merck's latest poison being promoted as an effective treatment against covid-19 (hang on, I thought that's what the vaccines were for?).

  This unapproved (yes, unapproved) drug costs $700 per course and the US government has just agreed to buy 1.7m courses. That's a 1.2 BILLION dollar investment.

  The deal is part of the Biden administration's pledge to "respond to the health needs of the public", but, in actuality, it's simply a money-siphoning operation, with the American public coming off second best.

Molnupiravir is being sold to the public as the next big breakthrough in Covid-19 treatment off the back of what appears to be a SINGLE study, which was never even completed. Furthermore, the study was conducted by Merck (the makers of the drug), who chose not to disclose any adverse events. If that isn't suspicious enough, the study was never published in a peer-reviewed journal.

Media press releases are apparently the new standard when it comes to evaluating medical treatments. After all, why would you wait for independent confirmation of your results or objective peer-review when you can get paid journalists, without a shred of medical expertise, to convince the public that they need your new drug?

If government scientists with integrity were in charge of assessing Molnupiravir, not bribed pharma shills, they may be alarmed at the lack of testing or the failure to disclose adverse events, they may even notice that vitamin D has had FAR superior results in combating "Covid-19". In fact, one study, published in the highly respected and influential Journal of Clinical Endocrinology and Metabolism, found that vitamin D reduced mortality among severe covid-19 patients by 79%.

Compare that to the alleged 50% reduction offered by Molnupiravir for "mild-to-moderately ill" patients. Not to mention the difference in cost. As stated earlier, Molnupiravir runs at $700 per course, while vitamin D costs a fraction of that (probably less than $10!). »

- 28 octobre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Études - « 21 Studies on Vaccine Efficacy that Raise Doubts on Vaccine Mandates ⋆ Brownstone Institute »

« Here I summarize 16 studies and reports that shed light on vaccine induced immunity against Covid. They highlight the problems with vaccine mandates that are currently threatening the jobs of millions of people. They also raise doubts about the arguments for vaccinating children.

1) Gazit et al. out of Israel showed that "SARS-CoV-2-naïve vaccinees had a 13-fold (95% CI, 8-21) increased risk for breakthrough infection with the Delta variant compared to those previously infected." When adjusting for the time of disease/vaccine, there was a 27-fold increased risk (95% CI, 13-57).

2) Ignoring the risk of infection, given that someone was infected, Acharya et al. found "no significant difference in cycle threshold values between vaccinated and unvaccinated, asymptomatic and symptomatic groups infected with SARS-CoV-2 Delta."

3) Riemersma et al. found "no difference in viral loads when comparing unvaccinated individuals to those who have vaccine "breakthrough" infections. Furthermore, individuals with vaccine breakthrough infections frequently test positive with viral loads consistent with the ability to shed infectious viruses." Results indicate that "if vaccinated individuals become infected with the delta variant, they may be sources of SARS-CoV-2 transmission to others." They reported "low Ct values (<25) in 212 of 310 fully vaccinated (68%) and 246 of 389 (63%) unvaccinated individuals. Testing a subset of these low-Ct samples revealed infectious SARS-CoV-2 in 15 of 17 specimens (88%) from unvaccinated individuals and 37 of 39 (95%) from vaccinated people."

4) In a study from Qatar, Chemaitelly et al. reported vaccine efficacy (Pfizer) against severe and fatal disease, with efficacy in the 85-95% range at least until 24 weeks after the second dose. As a contrast, the efficacy against infection waned down to around 30% at 15-19 weeks after the second dose.

5) From Wisconsin, Riemersma et al. reported that vaccinated individuals who get infected with the Delta variant can transmit SARS-CoV-2 to others. They found an elevated viral load in the unvaccinated and vaccinated symptomatic persons (68% and 69% respectively, 158/232 and 156/225). Moreover, in the asymptomatic persons, they uncovered elevated viral loads (29% and 82% respectively) in the unvaccinated and the vaccinated respectively. This suggests that the vaccinated can be infected, harbor, cultivate, and transmit the virus readily and unknowingly.

6) Subramanian reported that "at the country-level, there appears to be no discernable relationship between percentage of population fully vaccinated and new COVID-19 cases." When comparing 2947 counties in the United States, there were slightly less cases in more vaccinated locations. In other words, there is no clear discernable relationship .

7) Chau et al. looked at transmission of SARS-CoV-2 Delta variant among vaccinated healthcare workers in Vietnams. Of 69 healthcare workers that tested positive for SARS-CoV-2, 62 participated in the clinical study, all of whom recovered. For 23 of them, complete-genome sequences were obtained, and all belonged to the Delta variant. "Viral loads of breakthrough Delta variant infection cases were 251 times higher than those of cases infected with old strains detected between March-April 2020".

8) In Barnstable, Massachusetts, Brown et al found that among 469 cases of COVID-19, 74% were fully vaccinated, and that "the vaccinated had on average more virus in their nose than the unvaccinated who were infected."

9) Reporting on a nosocomial hospital outbreak in Finland, Hetemäli et al. observed that "both symptomatic and asymptomatic infections were found among vaccinated health care workers, and secondary transmission occurred from those with symptomatic infections despite use of personal protective equipment."

10) In a hospital outbreak investigation in Israel, Shitrit et al. observed "high transmissibility of the SARS-CoV-2 Delta variant among twice vaccinated and masked individuals." They added that "this suggests some waning of immunity, albeit still providing protection for individuals without comorbidities."

11) In the UK COVID-19 vaccine Surveillance Report for week #42, it was noted that there is "waning of the N antibody response over time" and "that N antibody levels appear to be lower in individuals who acquire infection following 2 doses of vaccination." The same report (Table 2, page 13), shows the in the older age groups above 30, the double vaccinated persons have greater infection risk than the unvaccinated, presumably because the latter group include more people with stronger natural immunity from prior Covid disease. As a contrast, the vaccinated people had a lower risk of death than the unvaccinated, across all age groups, indicating that vaccines provide more protection against death than against infection.

12) In Israel, Levin et al. "conducted a 6-month longitudinal prospective study involving vaccinated health care workers who were tested monthly for the presence of anti-spike IgG and neutralizing antibodies". They found that "six months after receipt of the second dose of the BNT162b2 vaccine, humoral response was substantially decreased, especially among men, among persons 65 years of age or older, and among persons with immunosuppression."

13) In a study from New York State, Rosenberg et al. reported that "During May 3–July 25, 2021, the overall age-adjusted vaccine effectiveness against hospitalization in New York was relatively stable 89.5%–95.1%). The overall age-adjusted vaccine effectiveness against infection for all New York adults declined from 91.8% to 75.0%."

14) Suthar et al. noted that "Our data demonstrate a substantial waning of antibody responses and T cell immunity to SARS-CoV-2 and its variants, at 6 months following the second immunization with the BNT162b2 vaccine."

15) In a study from Umeå University in Sweden, Nordström et al. observed that "vaccine effectiveness of BNT162b2 against infection waned progressively from 92% (95% CI, 92-93, P<0·001) at day 15-30 to 47% (95% CI, 39-55, P<0·001) at day 121-180, and from day 211 and onwards no effectiveness could be detected (23%; 95% CI, -2-41, P=0·07)."

16) Yahi et al. have reported that "in the case of the Delta variant, neutralizing antibodies have a decreased affinity for the spike protein, whereas facilitating antibodies display a strikingly increased affinity. Thus, antibody dependent enhancement may be a concern for people receiving vaccines based on the original Wuhan strain spike sequence."

17) Goldberg et al. (BNT162b2 Vaccine in Israel) reported that "immunity against the delta variant of SARS-CoV-2 waned in all age groups a few months after receipt of the second dose of vaccine."

18) Singanayagam et al. examined the transmission and viral load kinetics in vaccinated and unvaccinated individuals with mild delta variant infection in the community. They found that (in 602 community contacts (identified via the UK contract-tracing system) of 471 UK COVID-19 index cases were recruited to the Assessment of Transmission and Contagiousness of COVID-19 in Contacts cohort study and contributed 8145 upper respiratory tract samples from daily sampling for up to 20 days) "vaccination reduces the risk of delta variant infection and accelerates viral clearance. Nonetheless, fully vaccinated individuals with breakthrough infections have peak viral load similar to unvaccinated cases and can efficiently transmit infection in household settings, including to fully vaccinated contacts."

19. Keehner et al. in NEJM, has recently reported on the resurgence of SARS-CoV-2 infection in a highly vaccinated health system workforce. Vaccination with mRNA vaccines began in mid-December 2020; by March, 76% of the workforce had been fully vaccinated, and by July, the percentage had risen to 87%. Infections had decreased dramatically by early February 2021…"coincident with the end of California's mask mandate on June 15 and the rapid dominance of the B.1.617.2 (delta) variant that first emerged in mid-April and accounted for over 95% of UCSDH isolates by the end of July, infections increased rapidly, including cases among fully vaccinated persons…researchers reported that the "dramatic change in vaccine effectiveness from June to July is likely to be due to both the emergence of the delta variant and waning immunity over time."

20. Juthani et al. sought to describe the impact of vaccination on admission to hospital in patients with confirmed SARS-CoV-2 infection using real-world data collected by the Yale New Haven Health System. "Patients were considered fully vaccinated if the final dose (either second dose of BNT162b2 or mRNA-1273, or first dose of Ad.26.COV2.S) was administered at least 14 days before symptom onset or a positive PCR test for SARS-CoV-2. In total, we identified 969 patients who were admitted to a Yale New Haven Health System hospital with a confirmed positive PCR test for SARS-CoV-2"…Researchers reported "a higher number of patients with severe or critical illness in those who received the BNT162b2 vaccine than in those who received mRNA-1273 or Ad.26.COV2.S…"

21. A very recent study published by the CDC reported that a majority (53%) of patients who were hospitalized with Covid-19-like illnesses were already fully vaccinated with two-dose RNA shots. Table 1 reveals that among the 20,101 immunocompromised adults hospitalized with Covid-19, 10,564 (53%) were fully-vaccinated with the Pfizer or Moderna vaccine (Vaccination was defined as having received exactly 2 doses of an mRNA-based COVID-19 vaccine ≥14 days before the hospitalization index date, which was the date of respiratory specimen collection associated with the most recent positive or negative SARS-CoV-2 test result before the hospitalization or the hospitalization date if testing only occurred after the admission). This highlights the ongoing challenges faced with Delta breakthrough when vaccinated. »

- 28 octobre 2021 : Moderna - Enquête de Withney Webb - « COVID-19: Moderna Gets Its Miracle » - Par Withney Webb

« COVID-19 erased the regulatory and trial-related hurdles that Moderna could never surmount before. Yet, how did Moderna know that COVID-19 would create those conditions months before anyone else, and why did they later claim that their vaccine being tested in NIH trials was different than their commercial candidate? » (…)

« In late 2019, the biopharmaceutical company Moderna was facing a series of challenges that not only threatened its ability to ever take a product to market, and thus turn a profit, but its very existence as a company. There were multiple warning signs that Moderna was essentially another Theranos-style fraud, with many of these signs growing in frequency and severity as the decade drew to a close. Part I of this three-part series explored the disastrous circumstances in which Moderna found itself at that time, with the company's salvation hinging on the hope of a divine miracle, a "Hail Mary" save of sorts, as stated by one former Moderna employee.

While the COVID-19 crisis that emerged in the first part of 2020 can hardly be described as an act of benevolent divine intervention for most, it certainly can be seen that way from Moderna's perspective. Key issues for the company, including seemingly insurmountable regulatory hurdles and its inability to advance beyond animal trials with its most promising—and profitable—products, were conveniently wiped away, and not a moment too soon. Since January 2020, the value of Moderna's stock—which had embarked on a steady decline since its IPO—grew from $18.89 per share to its current value of $339.57 per share, thanks to the success of its COVID-19 vaccine.
Yet, how exactly was Moderna's "Hail Mary" moment realized, and what were the forces and events that ensured it would make it through the FDA's emergency use authorization (EUA) process? In examining that question, it becomes quickly apparent that Moderna's journey of saving grace involved much more than just cutting corners in animal and human trials and federal regulations. Indeed, if we are to believe Moderna executives, it involved supplying formulations for some trial studies that were not the same as their COVID-19 vaccine commercial candidate, despite the data resulting from the former being used to sell Moderna's vaccine to the public and federal health authorities. Such data was also selectively released at times to align with preplanned stock trades by Moderna executives, turning many of Moderna's highest-ranking employees into millionaires, and even billionaires, while the COVID-19 crisis meant economic calamity for most Americans.

Not only that, but—as Part II of this three-part series will show, Moderna and a handful of its collaborators at the National Institutes of Health (NIH) seemed to know that Moderna's miracle had arrived—well before anyone else knew or could have known. Was it really a coincidental mix of "foresight" and "serendipity" that led Moderna and the NIH to plan to develop a COVID-19 vaccine days before the viral sequence was even published and months before a vaccine was even considered necessary for a still unknown disease? If so, why would Moderna—a company clearly on the brink—throw everything into and gamble the entire company on a vaccine project that had no demonstrated need at the time? »

  « Bref, alors que, le 15 septembre, Gabriel Attal expliquait que 10% des soignants n'étaient pas vaccinés, soit 300.000 personnes, avec seulement 1% des soignants suspendus, le ministre Véran expliquait ces derniers jours qu'il restait 7.000 soignants suspendus… Bref, des pacotilles selon lui, oubliant accessoirement de préciser le nombre de soignants en arrêt-maladie et le nombre de démissionnaires, partis à cause de l'obligation vaccinale.

  Ce management par la menace, par la violence, par la brutalité, produit pourtant des résultats formidables : 1.300 étudiants infirmiers viennent de démissionner, et le ministre ne comprend pas pour quoi. Il devrait nous interroger, nous avons quelques idées sur le sujet.

  On apprenait il y a quelques jours que 10% des postes d'infirmiers et d'infirmières étaient désormais vacants. Bien évidemment, la presse subventionnée ou contrôle par la caste écarte toute allusion

« 1. Étude Pfizer sur l'efficacité des deux doses :

Rappelez-vous la première étude qui a conduit à l'autorisation du vaccin : 3 morts dans le groupe placebo, 2 morts dans le groupe des vaccinés. OK, petit avantage vaccin, mais sur une période beaucoup trop courte pour être crédible. Maintenant Pfizer a un peu plus de recul, et sur la même cohorte, il a publié une deuxième étude avec les résultats arrêtés à 6 mois, c'est à dire en juillet 2021 (étude complète ici).

Le résultat sur l'efficacité de leur vaccin est sans appel, et ce n'est pas moi mais Pfizer qui le dit : groupe placebo, 14 morts, groupe des vaccinés, 15 morts. Les scientifiques et politiques salueront la qualité de la publication, ceux qui ont un peu de bon sens regarderont le résultat : quel est-il ? Autant de morts d'un côté ou de l'autre, quel est le bénéfice ? Quel médicament serait autorisé à la vente avec de tels résultats à 6 mois ? Aucun. Les traitements précoces ont été rejetés pour moins que cela.

Certains sont allés plus loin en épluchant le détail des chiffres de Pfizer, pour découvrir qu'en fait il y a eu 20 morts dans le groupe vaccinés contre 14 morts dans le groupe placebo. En effet Pfizer avait proposé aux participants non-vaccinés du groupe placebo de recevoir le vaccin début 2021, et certains placebo-vaccinés sont décédés, ramenant à 20 le nombre de morts vaccinés dans l'étude Pfizer après 6 mois de plus. Je ne rentrerai pas dans cette polémique de chiffres pour ne retenir que ce qui est indiscutable : les chiffres de Pfizer ne montrent aucune supériorité du vaccin après 6 mois de plus. »

« The Online Safety Bill, described as "the flagship legislation to combat abuse and hatred on the internet" has faced fierce criticism from civil liberties groups for its broad overreach.

The law would create a "knowingly false communication" offence which, according to the Times, "will criminalise those who send or post a message they know to be false with the intention to cause "emotional, psychological, or physical harm to the likely audience". Government sources gave the example of antivaxers spreading false information that they know to be untrue."

Given that authorities have deemed all kinds of information about the pandemic and vaccines "false" that later turned out to be true, this is a chilling prospect.

For example, claims that vaccines are not fully effective in stopping the spread of COVID-19 would have once been deemed "false," but that position is now a proven fact.

The bill would also change the current stricter standard of "indecent" or "grossly offensive" content to the much broader definition of "harmful effect" when deciding if a post or a message is criminal. »

- 1er novembre 2021 : Fauci - « Mais qui est Anthony Fauci ? » - Par Martin Kulldorff et Jay Bhattacharya - Newsweek

  « (…) Malheureusement, le Dr Fauci s'est trompé sur des points importants d'épidémiologie et de santé publique. La réalité et les études scientifiques l'ont maintenant rattrapé.

  Voici ces points importants :

  L'immunité naturelle. En insistant sur l'obligation de vacciner, le Dr Fauci a ignoré l'immunité naturelle acquise parmi les personnes ayant récupérées du COVID, qui sont plus de 45 millions aux États-Unis. Des preuves croissantes indiquent que l'immunité naturelle est plus forte et plus durable que l'immunité induite par le vaccin. [Ndlr : Les tendances à long terme ne sont pas encore claires. Une étude récente est parvenue à la conclusion inverse, mais a été critiquée par un des auteurs de cette tribune libre]. Dans une étude réalisée en Israël, les personnes vaccinées avaient 27 fois plus de risques de contracter un COVID symptomatique que les personnes non vaccinées qui s'étaient remises d'une infection antérieure.

Nous connaissons l'immunité naturelle contre les maladies au moins depuis la peste athénienne de 430 avant Jésus-Christ. Les pilotes, les camionneurs et les dockers le savent, et les infirmières le savent mieux que quiconque. Sous le mandat de Fauci, les hôpitaux licencient des infirmières héroïques qui se sont remises du Covid qu'elles avaient contracté en soignant des patients. Grâce à leur immunité supérieure, elles peuvent s'occuper en toute sécurité des patients les plus âgés et les plus fragiles avec un risque de transmission encore plus faible que les personnes vaccinées.
La protection des personnes âgées. Si tout le monde peut être infecté, le risque de mortalité est plus de mille fois supérieur chez les personnes âgées que chez les jeunes. Après plus de 700 000 décès signalés par Covid en Amérique, nous savons maintenant que les mesures d'isolement n'ont pas réussi à protéger les personnes âgées à haut risque. Lorsqu'il a été confronté à l'idée d'une protection ciblée des personnes vulnérables, le Dr Fauci a admis qu'il n'avait aucune idée de la manière d'y parvenir, arguant que ce serait impossible. Cela peut être compréhensible pour un scientifique de laboratoire, mais les scientifiques de santé publique ont présenté de nombreuses suggestions concrètes qui auraient été utiles, si Fauci et d'autres responsables ne les avaient pas ignorées.

Que pouvons-nous faire maintenant pour minimiser la mortalité due au Covid ? Les efforts de vaccination actuels devraient se concentrer sur les personnes de plus de 60 ans qui ne sont ni guéries ni vaccinées, y compris les personnes difficiles à atteindre et moins fortunées des zones rurales et des centres-villes. Au lieu de cela, le Dr Fauci a imposé la vaccination des enfants, des étudiants et des adultes en âge de travailler qui sont déjà immunisés – toutes des populations à faible risque – ce qui a entraîné d'énormes perturbations sur les marchés du travail et entravé le fonctionnement de nombreux hôpitaux. » (…)

« Les masques. L'étalon-or de la recherche médicale est l'essai randomisé, et il y en a eu deux sur les masques Covid pour adultes. Pour les enfants, il n'existe aucune preuve scientifique solide de l'efficacité des masques. Une étude danoise n'a pas trouvé de différence statistiquement significative entre le fait de porter un masque et de ne pas en porter en ce qui concerne l'infection par le coronavirus. Une étude menée au Bangladesh, dans une intervalle de confiance de 95 %, a montré que les masques réduisaient la transmission entre 0 % et 18 %. Par conséquent, les masques ne présentent aucun avantage ou un avantage limité. Le Dr Fauci aurait pu mettre l'accent sur de nombreuses autres mesures essentielles en cas de pandémie, comme une meilleure ventilation dans les écoles et l'embauche de personnel soignant possédant une immunité naturelle. »

  « Summary

We present here our research on the presence of graphene in covid vaccines. We have carried out a random screening of graphene-like nanoparticles visible at the optical microscopy in seven random samples of vials from four different trademarks, coupling images with their spectral signatures of RAMAN vibration.

By this technique, called micro-RAMAN, we have been able to determine the presence of graphene in some of these samples, after screening more than 110 objects selected for their graphene-like appearance under optical microscopy. Out of them, a group of 28 objects have been selected, due to the compatibility of both images and spectra with the presence of graphene derivatives, based on the correspondence of these signals with those obtained from standards and scientific literature. The identification of graphene oxide structures can be regarded as conclusive in 8 of them, due to the high spectral correlation with the standard. In the remaining 20 objects, images coupled with Raman signals show a very high level of compatibility with undetermined graphene structures, however different than the standard used here. »

« Une fraude de grande ampleur, impliquant la société pharmaceutique Pfizer, son sous-traitant, la société Ventavia Research Group chargée des essais cliniques, et la Food and Drug Aministration (FDA), a été révélée hier par le British Medical Journal. (…)

L'affaire dénoncée par le journaliste d'investigation Paul D Thacker pour le British Medical Journal, commence à l'automne 2020 alors que Pfizer emploie plusieurs sous-traitants pour effectuer des essais cliniques, qui s'effectuent sur 44 000 personnes et sur 153 sites dans le monde. Elle concerne trois sites de l'entreprise Ventavia au Texas. Pour certains chercheurs qui testent le vaccin de Pfizer sur ces sites, la rapidité a peut-être été obtenue au détriment de l'intégrité des données et de la sécurité des participants. Le personnel chargé des contrôles de qualité était submergé par le nombre de problèmes qu'il découvrait. Après avoir les avoir signalés à plusieurs reprises à Ventavia, la directrice régionale, Brook Jackson, a envoyé une plainte par courriel à la Food and Drug Administration (FDA). »

https://www.bmj.com/content/375/bmj.n2635?utm_source=twitter&utm_medium=social&utm_term=hootsuite&utm_content=sme&utm_campaign=usage

« In autumn 2020 Pfizer's chairman and chief executive, Albert Bourla, released an open letter to the billions of people around the world who were investing their hopes in a safe and effective covid-19 vaccine to end the pandemic. "As I've said before, we are operating at the speed of science," Bourla wrote, explaining to the public when they could expect a Pfizer vaccine to be authorised in the United States.1

But, for researchers who were testing Pfizer's vaccine at several sites in Texas during that autumn, speed may have come at the cost of data integrity and patient safety. A regional director who was employed at the research organisation Ventavia Research Group has told The BMJ that the company falsified data, unblinded patients, employed inadequately trained vaccinators, and was slow to follow up on adverse events reported in Pfizer's pivotal phase III trial. Staff who conducted quality control checks were overwhelmed by the volume of problems they were finding. After repeatedly notifying Ventavia of these problems, the regional director, Brook Jackson, emailed a complaint to the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Ventavia fired her later the same day. Jackson has provided The BMJ with dozens of internal company documents, photos, audio recordings, and emails.

Poor laboratory management

On its website Ventavia calls itself the largest privately owned clinical research company in Texas and lists many awards it has won for its contract work.[2] But Jackson has told The BMJ that, during the two weeks she was employed at Ventavia in September 2020, she repeatedly informed her superiors of poor laboratory management, patient safety concerns, and data integrity issues. Jackson was a trained clinical trial auditor who previously held a director of operations position and came to Ventavia with more than 15 years' experience in clinical research coordination and management. Exasperated that Ventavia was not dealing with the problems, Jackson documented several matters late one night, taking photos on her mobile phone. One photo, provided to The BMJ, showed needles discarded in a plastic biohazard bag instead of a sharps container box. Another showed vaccine packaging materials with trial participants' identification numbers written on them left out in the open, potentially unblinding participants. Ventavia executives later questioned Jackson for taking the photos.

Early and inadvertent unblinding may have occurred on a far wider scale. According to the trial's design, unblinded staff were responsible for preparing and administering the study drug (Pfizer's vaccine or a placebo). This was to be done to preserve the blinding of trial participants and all other site staff, including the principal investigator. However, at Ventavia, Jackson told The BMJ that drug assignment confirmation printouts were being left in participants' charts, accessible to blinded personnel. As a corrective action taken in September, two months into trial recruitment and with around 1000 participants already enrolled, quality assurance checklists were updated with instructions for staff to remove drug assignments from charts.

In a recording of a meeting in late September2020 between Jackson and two directors a Ventavia executive can be heard explaining that the company wasn't able to quantify the types and number of errors they were finding when examining the trial paperwork for quality control. "In my mind, it's something new every day," a Ventavia executive says. "We know that it's significant."

Ventavia was not keeping up with data entry queries, shows an email sent by ICON, the contract research organisation with which Pfizer partnered on the trial. ICON reminded Ventavia in a September 2020 email: "The expectation for this study is that all queries are addressed within 24hrs." ICON then highlighted over 100 outstanding queries older than three days in yellow. Examples included two individuals for which "Subject has reported with Severe symptoms/reactions … Per protocol, subjects experiencing Grade 3 local reactions should be contacted. Please confirm if an UNPLANNED CONTACT was made and update the corresponding form as appropriate." According to the trial protocol a telephone contact should have occurred "to ascertain further details and determine whether a site visit is clinically indicated."

Worries over FDA inspection

Documents show that problems had been going on for weeks. In a list of "action items" circulated among Ventavia leaders in early August 2020, shortly after the trial began and before Jackson's hiring, a Ventavia executive identified three site staff members with whom to "Go over e-diary issue/falsifying data, etc." One of them was "verbally counseled for changing data and not noting late entry," a note indicates.

At several points during the late September meeting Jackson and the Ventavia executives discussed the possibility of the FDA showing up for an inspection (box 1). "We're going to get some kind of letter of information at least, when the FDA gets here . . . know it," an executive stated.

A history of lax oversight

When it comes to the FDA and clinical trials, Elizabeth Woeckner, president of Citizens for Responsible Care and Research Incorporated (CIRCARE),[3] says the agency's oversight capacity is severely under-resourced. If the FDA receives a complaint about a clinical trial, she says the agency rarely has the staff available to show up and inspect. And sometimes oversight occurs too late.

In one example CIRCARE and the US consumer advocacy organisation Public Citizen, along with dozens of public health experts, filed a detailed complaint in July 2018 with the FDA about a clinical trial that failed to comply with regulations for the protection of human participants.[4] Nine months later, in April 2019, an FDA investigator inspected the clinical site. In May this year the FDA sent the triallist a warning letter that substantiated many of the claims in the complaints. It said, "[I]t appears that you did not adhere to the applicable statutory requirements and FDA regulations governing the conduct of clinical investigations and the protection of human subjects."[5]

"There's just a complete lack of oversight of contract research organisations and independent clinical research facilities," says Jill Fisher, professor of social medicine at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine and author of Medical Research for Hire: The Political Economy of Pharmaceutical Clinical Trials.

Ventavia and the FDA

A former Ventavia employee told The BMJ that the company was nervous and expecting a federal audit of its Pfizer vaccine trial.

"People working in clinical research are terrified of FDA audits," Jill Fisher told The BMJ, but added that the agency rarely does anything other than inspect paperwork, usually months after a trial has ended. "I don't know why they're so afraid of them," she said. But she said she was surprised that the agency failed to inspect Ventavia after an employee had filed a complaint. “You would think if there’s a specific and credible complaint that they would have to investigate that,” Fisher said.

In 2007 the Department of Health and Human Services’ Office of the Inspector General released a report on FDA’s oversight of clinical trials conducted between 2000 and 2005. The report found that the FDA inspected only 1% of clinical trial sites.[6] Inspections carried out by the FDA’s vaccines and biologics branch have been decreasing in recent years, with just 50 conducted in the 2020 fiscal year.[7]

The next morning, 25 September 2020, Jackson called the FDA to warn about unsound practices in Pfizer’s clinical trial at Ventavia. She then reported her concerns in an email to the agency. In the afternoon Ventavia fired Jackson—deemed “not a good fit,” according to her separation letter.

Jackson told The BMJ it was the first time she had been fired in her 20 year career in research.

Concerns raised

In her 25 September email to the FDA Jackson wrote that Ventavia had enrolled more than 1000 participants at three sites. The full trial (registered under NCT04368728) enrolled around 44 000 participants across 153 sites that included numerous commercial companies and academic centres. She then listed a dozen concerns she had witnessed, including:

- Participants placed in a hallway after injection and not being monitored by clinical staff
- Lack of timely follow-up of patients who experienced adverse events
- Protocol deviations not being reported
- Vaccines not being stored at proper temperatures
- Mislabelled laboratory specimens, and

- Targeting of Ventavia staff for reporting these types of problems.

Within hours Jackson received an email from the FDA thanking her for her concerns and notifying her that the FDA could not comment on any investigation that might result. A few days later Jackson received a call from an FDA inspector to discuss her report but was told that no further information could be provided. She heard nothing further in relation to her report.

In Pfizer's briefing document submitted to an FDA advisory committee meeting held on 10 December 2020 to discuss Pfizer's application for emergency use authorisation of its covid-19 vaccine, the company made no mention of problems at the Ventavia site. The next day the FDA issued the authorisation of the vaccine.[8]

In August this year, after the full approval of Pfizer's vaccine, the FDA published a summary of its inspections of the company's pivotal trial. Nine of the trial's 153 sites were inspected. Ventavia's sites were not listed among the nine, and no inspections of sites where adults were recruited took place in the eight months after the December 2020 emergency authorisation. The FDA's inspection officer noted: "The data integrity and verification portion of the BIMO [bioresearch monitoring] inspections were limited because the study was ongoing, and the data required for verification and comparison were not yet available to the IND [investigational new drug]."

Other employees' accounts

In recent months Jackson has reconnected with several former Ventavia employees who all left or were fired from the company. One of them was one of the officials who had taken part in the late September meeting. In a text message sent in June the former official apologised, saying that "everything that you complained about was spot on."

Two former Ventavia employees spoke to The BMJ anonymously for fear of reprisal and loss of job prospects in the tightly knit research community. Both confirmed broad aspects of Jackson's complaint. One said that she had worked on over four dozen clinical trials in her career, including many large trials, but had never experienced such a "helter skelter" work environment as with Ventavia on Pfizer's trial. "I've never had to do what they were asking me to do, ever," she told The BMJ. "It just seemed like something a little different from normal—the things that were allowed and expected."

She added that during her time at Ventavia the company expected a federal audit but that this never came.

After Jackson left the company problems persisted at Ventavia, this employee said. In several cases Ventavia lacked enough employees to swab all trial participants who reported covid-like symptoms, to test for infection. Laboratory confirmed symptomatic covid-19 was the trial's primary endpoint, the employee noted. (An FDA review memorandum released in August this year states that across the full trial swabs were not taken from 477 people with suspected cases of symptomatic covid-19.)

"I don't think it was good clean data," the employee said of the data Ventavia generated for the Pfizer trial. "It's a crazy mess."

A second employee also described an environment at Ventavia unlike any she had experienced in her 20 years doing research. She told The BMJ that, shortly after Ventavia fired Jackson, Pfizer was notified of problems at Ventavia with the vaccine trial and that an audit took place.

Since Jackson reported problems with Ventavia to the FDA in September 2020, Pfizer has hired Ventavia as a research subcontractor on four other vaccine clinical trials (covid-19 vaccine in children and young adults, pregnant women, and a booster dose, as well an RSV vaccine trial; NCT04816643, NCT04754594, NCT04955626, NCT05035212). The advisory committee for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is set to discuss the covid-19 paediatric vaccine trial on 2 November. »

  « On Wednesday, U.S. Senator Ron Johnson held a three-hour panel discussion in Washington D.C. with doctors and medical researchers who treat Covid injection injuries, along with patients who have experienced adverse events due to Covid injections.

  Dr. Peter Doshi, Editor of the British Medical Journal ("BMJ"), gave his testimony:

  "I found it fascinating to learn that Merriam Webster changed its definition of 'vaccine' earlier this year. mRNA products did not meet the definition of 'vaccine' that has been in place for 15 years at Merriam Webster but the definition was expanded such that mRNA products are now 'vaccines'. I highlight this to ask a question.

  "How would you feel about mandating Covid vaccines if we didn't call them 'vaccines'? What if these injections are called drugs instead?

  "So, here's the scenario: we have this 'drug' and we have evidence that it doesn't prevent infection, nor does it stop viral transmission, but the 'drug' is understood to reduce your risk of becoming very sick and dying of Covid. Would you take a dose of this 'drug' every six months or so for possibly the rest of your life, if that's what it took for the drug to stay effective?" »

- 6 novembre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Pfizer - Réduction du Risque Absolu - Nombre d'Enfants Morts - Surmortalité - « Pfizer "vaccine": kill 200 to 'save' one? »

« In the early days of the "vaccine" rollout, we ran several articles discussing the risk-reward of the new mRNA jabs. Dr Sadaf Gilani, in particular, did good detailed write-ups on "absolute risk reduction".
To explain "absolute risk reduction" (ARR) in simple terms: if an unvaccinated person has a 10% chance of getting the disease, and a vaccinated person has a 1% chance, then the ARR for the vaccine is 9%.

Of course, that's just an example, the actual ARR for the Covid "vaccines" is nowhere near 9%:

This is the absolute risk reduction for Pfizer/BioNtech (each group had over 18,000 people):

InjectionGroup:8/18,198=0.04%

Placebo Group: 162/18,325 = 0.88%

Absolute risk reduction = 0.84%

From the "absolute risk reduction", you can then calculate the "number needed to vaccinate" (NNTV). This is the rough number of people you need to inject in order to definitely prevent one case/death.

To continue the example above, if your vaccine reduces the odds of infection from 10% to 1% (an ARR of 9%), you need to vaccinate eleven people to prevent one infection, giving you an NNTV of 11.

Again, the NNTV of the Covid vaccines are much, much, MUCH higher than 11. Estimates range from between 88 and 700 to prevent a single case, and anything up to 100,000 to prevent one solitary death.

And remember, all this data was for adults. Children are at a far lower risk from Covid – both in terms of hospitalisation and death. In the US, children aged 5-11 have a 99.992% chance of surviving "Covid" – so it naturally follows the NNTV for this group will be far, far higher than for adults.

But, now that the FDA has approved Pfizer's "vaccine" for emergency use on children aged 5-11, "far, far higher" is not good enough. We need to calculate an actual figure for the "number needed to vaccinate" in order to hypothetically protect one child from dying "with Covid".

Fortunately for us, someone else has already done it.

Writing on his Substack, economist Toby Rodgers PhD has collated the numbers from Pfizer's own trials, the FDA and the CDC and done a very thorough write up. You can read the whole thing here, we'll just present you with some of the highlights:

As of October 30, 2021, the CDC stated that 170 children ages 5 to 11 have died of COVID-19-related illness since the start of the pandemic. (That represents less than 0.1% of all coronavirus-related deaths nationwide even though children that age make up 8.7% of the U.S. population).

The Pfizer mRNA shot only "works" for about 6 months (it increases risk in the first month, provides moderate protection in months 2 through 4 and then effectiveness begins to wane, which is why all of the FDA modeling only used a 6 month time-frame). So any modeling would have to be based on vaccine effectiveness in connection with the 57 (170/3) children who might otherwise have died of COVID-related illness during a 6-month period.

At best, the Pfizer mRNA shot might be 80% effective against hospitalizations and death. That number comes directly from the FDA modeling (p. 32). I am bending over backwards to give Pfizer the benefit of considerable doubt because again, the Pfizer clinical trial showed NO reduction in hospitalizations or death in this age group.

So injecting all 28,384,878 children ages 5 to 11 with two doses of Pfizer (which is what the Biden administration wants to do) would save, at most, 45 lives (0.8 effectiveness x 57 fatalities that otherwise would have occurred during that time period = 45).

So then the NNTV to prevent a single fatality in this age group is 630,775 (28,384,878 / 45). But it's a two dose regimen so if one wants to calculate the NNTV per injection the number doubles to 1,261,550. It's literally the worst NNTV in the history of vaccination.

630,000 children injected with 1.2 million doses to save one life. That's incredibly inefficient. However, it could be even worse than that.

As we covered last week, according to statistics cited at the VRBPAC meeting, only 94 children from the 5-11 age group have died. If this lower figure is correct, the NNTV to prevent a single death jumps up to915,641.»

  Viol des règles fondamentales à l'élaboration d'une étude fiable - L'étude a été conçue pour camoufler certains résultats prévisibles et potentiellement embarrassants. Exemple : une règle d'or est de préserver rigoureusement l'intégrité des deux groupes testés : celui des sujets recevant l'injection – dits « vaccinés» – et ceux figurant dans le groupe contrôle recevant un placebo – dits « non-vaccinés ».

Or cette disposition cardinale a été violée : le groupe contrôle a été liquidé en cours de route. Ceci rend définitivement impossible toute comparaison des taux d'effets indésirables dans les deux groupes.

Des « raisons éthiques » ont été invoquées. Or, sachant que le risque de mortalité générale en 2020 et 2021 n'a pas été modifié en-dessous de 80 ans, donc que les participants du groupe témoin ne risquaient rien à ne PAS être injectés, cela semble constituer une malfaçon dont on peine à imaginer qu'elle soit désintéressée.

- 11 novembre 2021 : Québec - Vaccins - Dangers - Effets Indésirables - « Les effets secondaires de la vaccination au Québec: Histoires médiatiques et témoignages » - Par Anne-Hélène Jutras

« Les deux premières parties de cet article [partie 1, partie 2]ont démontré que si les autorités sanitaires, aidées des médias, font porter beaucoup de responsabilités à la COVID-19 depuis dix-huit mois, il en va tout autrement des injections anticovid. En effet, depuis le début des campagnes de vaccination, tout semble être mis en œuvre pour en taire ou en minimiser les effets indésirables. Tout récemment, on a pu remarquer que sur le site du gouvernement du Canada, la liste des symptômes de la COVID-19 s'était allongée et qu'on y avait ajouté ces symptômes graves [1] :

  - difficulté respiratoire importante;
  - douleur ou oppression à la poitrine;
  - confusion d'apparition nouvelle;

- difficulté à vous réveiller.

Il n'est pas anodin de mentionner, ici, que ces symptômes s'apparentent à certains des effets indésirables rapportés des injections anticovid. Il n'est certainement pas sans intérêt non plus de rappeler qu'on a mis un an et demi avant de mettre de l'avant le risque accru de développer une myocardite après avoir contracté la COVID-19 [2], ce qui constituait déjà un effet indésirable avéré – et pas aussi rare qu'on le dit – des injections. Ces constats et la confusion qui en découle devraient amener avec eux un questionnement nécessaire : comment distinguer un cas d'effet secondaire post-vaccinal et un cas de COVID-19 dans les cas où les symptômes sont similaires? Ne serait-on pas en droit de questionner les statistiques que nous livrent quotidiennement les médias sur les cas de COVID-19?

Le 28 septembre 2021, les médias québécois nous rapportaient la mort de Kevin Smith-Chartrée [3], un jeune père de famille de 27 ans « en parfaite santé [4] » emporté par la COVID-19 après avoir été plongé dans un coma profond pendant deux semaines. Cette histoire mérite qu'on s'y arrête, parce qu'elle soulève plusieurs questions. Voici la chronologie des évènements telle que rapportée par les médias :

- Kevin Smith-Chartrée, qui, à la base, ne désirait pas se faire vacciner, a fini par le faire, suivant les conseils de ses proches. Il aurait reçu sa 1re dose à la mi-août (la date exacte n'est pas précisée).
- Le 1er septembre, il était déclaré positif à la COVID-19. Au début de sa maladie, il avait des symptômes s'apparentant à ceux de la grippe, qui auraient fini par toucher ses poumons.
- Le 5 septembre, après avoir été admis à l'hôpital de Saint-Jérôme, il écrivait sur sa page Facebook que pour cause de haute pression, son cœur, qui battait à 234 battements par minute, avait lâché à deux reprises.
- Se sentant mieux, il serait retourné chez lui le 8 septembre, après avoir signé un refus de traitement. Le lendemain, après plusieurs heures de détresse respiratoire, les ambulanciers sont venus le chercher : son taux d'oxygène était presque à zéro. Il est alors rentré dans un coma profond et a été branché à un respirateur artificiel. Il aurait passé 14 jours aux soins intensifs.

- Il aurait dit (l'histoire ne dit pas à quel moment) avoir l'intention de recevoir sa deuxième dose de vaccin une fois rétabli. Mais il ne s'est pas rétabli et est mort le 24 septembre. »

  « Footage has emerged of the Director-General of the World Health Organization speaking with the President of Brazil, Jair Bolsonaro, in which he clearly states that the WHO does not recommend Vaccine Passports as they would be discriminatory, the purpose of the Covid-19 injection is not to prevent infection and transmission of Covid-19 as it is incapable of doing so, and that the WHO does not recommend children should be given the experimental jab. » (…)

  « However, in the next breath Tedros confirmed that the Covid-19 vaccines cannot prevent infection or transmission of the virus in response to President Bolsonaro's query as to why many Brazilians are still dying with Covid-19 despite being fully vaccinated. This raises questions as to why Vaccine Passports would ever be considered at all by any country, or further down the line by the WHO if vaccination rate increase around the world.

  Tedros stated that "the vaccine does not prevent Covid but it does prevent serious illness and death. This is the purpose".

But President Bolsonaro argued that “many who got the second dose are dying”.

To which Tedros responded that this will happen among those with other underlying health conditions. However, as everyone should now be aware the vast majority of people who were dying with Covid-19 prior to the introduction of a vaccine were only those with other underlying health conditions. Which begs the question as to what exactly has changed following the roll-out of an experimental gene therapy?

President Bolsonaro then confirmed that in Brazil he does not have control over the response to the alleged pandemic due to the power to respond being held by Governors and local Mayors.

Bolsonaro then claimed that Brazilian Governors and Mayors are demanding mandatory Covid-19 vaccination for children. Unfortunately the footage then cuts out Tedros’s response but quickly skips to the President of Brazil confirming Tedros has stated the WHO’s position is that children should not be given the Covid-19 injection.

However, we can confirm that this is the WHO’s position and this can be found on their website. The WHO advice states that ‘More evidence is needed on the use of the different COVID-19 vaccines in children to be able to make general recommendations on vaccinating children against COVID-19’, and confirms that they currently only recommend children over the age of 12 who are deemed to be at high risk should possibly be offered the Pfizer Covid-19 injection. »

We say : STOP to all crazy and disproportionate measures that have been taken since the beginning to fight SARS-CoV-2 (lockdown, blocking the economy and education, social distancing, wearing of masks for all, etc.) because they are totally unjustified, are not based on any scientific evidence and violate the basic principles of evidence-based medicine. However, we of course support reasonable measures such as recommendations of washing hands, sneezing or coughing in elbow, using a disposable tissue, etc.

  It is not the first time that humanity faces a new virus : it experienced H2N2 in 1957, H3N2 in 1968, SARS-CoV in 2003, H5N1 in 2004, H1N1 in 2009, MERS-CoV in 2012 and faces the seasonal flu virus every year. However, none of the measures taken for SARS-CoV-2 has been taken for these viruses.

We are told :
-"But, SARS-CoV-2 is very contagious" and we answer : IT'S ABSOLUTELY FALSE. This claim is, moreover, rejected by internationally renowned experts[1]. A simple comparison with the other viruses shows that the contagiousness of SARS-CoV-2 is moderate [2,3]. It's diseases like measles that can be described as very contagious. For example, a person with measles can infect up to 20 people while a person infected with this coronavirus only contaminates 2 or 3, that is : 10 times less than measles. –

"But, it is a new virus" and we answer : H1N1 and the other viruses that we mentioned were also new viruses. Yet : we did not put countries into lockdown, we did not block the global economy, we did not paralyze the education system, we did not social distancing and we did not tell the healthy people to wear masks. »

  « Conclusions

  Ce panorama de l'évolution de l'épidémie dans ces pays champions de la vaccination, telle qu'elle est décrite par les données de l'OMS et les courbes de l'Université John Hopkins démontre :

  - Que les pseudo vaccins Covid ne protègent pas les populations des récidives de l'épidémie
  - Que les agences sanitaires abandonnent l'espoir d'une immunité collective par la vaccination maintenant qualifiée de mythe par la quasi-totalité des agences qui y croyaient

- Que cet échec est la conséquence de l'efficacité insuffisante et de la durée beaucoup trop courte[13] des pseudo vaccins actuels qui n'empêchent ni d'être malade ni de transmettre la maladie
- Que beaucoup d'experts pensent qu'il est temps d'apprendre à vivre avec le covid comme avec la grippe saisonnière.

Il est grand temps que notre ministre de la Santé considère les faits avérés et les conclusions des agences étrangères et cesse la quête infructueuse d'un Graal vaccinal illusoire et dangereux.

L'échec maintenant patent des pseudo vaccins est d'autant plus criant que les traitements précoces bon marché ont fait leurs preuves d'innocuité et d'efficacité en Inde comme en Afrique (Nigéria, Madagascar) lorsqu'on regarde leurs données publiées par l'OMS.

L'inde a privilégié les traitements précoces et préventifs par hydroxychloroquine et Ivermectine avec succès. »

- 16 novembre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Pfizer - Essais Cliniques - « More people died in the key clinical trial for Pfizer's Covid vaccine than the company publicly reported » - Par Alex Berenson

« On July 28, Pfizer and its partner BioNTech posted a six-month data update from their key Covid vaccine clinical trial, the one that led regulators worldwide to okay the shot.

At a time when questions about vaccine effectiveness were rising, the report received worldwide attention. Pfizer said the vaccine's efficacy remained relatively strong, at 84 percent after six months.

It also reported 15 of the roughly 22,000 people who received the vaccine in the trial had died, compared to 14 of the 22,000 people who received placebo (a saline shot that didn't contain the vaccine).

These were not just Covid deaths. In fact, they were mostly not from Covid. Only three of the people in the trial died of Covid-related illnesses - one who received the vaccine, and two who who received the saline shot. The other deaths were from other illnesses and diseases, mostly cardiovascular.

Researchers call this datapoint "all-cause mortality." Pfizer barely mentioned it, stuffing the details of the deaths in an appendix to the report.

But all-cause mortality is arguably the MOST important measure for any drug or vaccine - especially one meant to be given prophylactically to large numbers of healthy people, as vaccines are. »

« We are moving fast down the road to fascism.

This COVID-19 pandemic has shifted us into high gear.

The heavy-handed collusion between the Techno-Corporate State and the U.S. government over vaccine mandates is merely the latest manifestation of the extent to which fascist forces are working to overthrow our constitutional republic and nullify the rights of the individual.

In early November 2021, the Biden Administration drew its line in the sand for more than 100 million American workers: get vaccinated against COVID-19 (by Nov. 22 for federal workers, and Jan. 4 for federal contractors and companies with more than 100 employees) or else.

Or else what?

For many individuals with sincere objections to the vaccine, either based on their religious beliefs or some other medical or philosophical concern, non-compliance with workplace vaccine mandates will mean losing their jobs and the possibility of no unemployment benefits.

One survey conducted by the Society for Human Resource Management estimated that 28% of employed Americans wouldn't get a COVID vaccine even if it meant losing their jobs. »

- 17 novembre 2021 : USA - Absence de Soins - Hôpitaux - Incitations Financières - « Biden's Bounty on Your Life: Hospitals' Incentive Payments for COVID-19 »

  « Upon admission to a once-trusted hospital, American patients with COVID-19 become virtual prisoners, subjected to a rigid treatment protocol with roots in Ezekiel Emanuel's "Complete Lives System" for rationing medical care in those over age 50. They have a shockingly high mortality rate. How and why is this happening, and what can be done about it?

  As exposed in audio recordings, hospital executives in Arizona admitted meeting several times a week to lower standards of care, with coordinated restrictions on visitation rights. Most COVID-19 patients' families are deliberately kept in the dark about what is really being done to their loved ones.

  The combination that enables this tragic and avoidable loss of hundreds of thousands of lives includes (1) The CARES Act, which provides hospitals with bonus incentive payments for all things related to COVID-19 (testing, diagnosing, admitting to hospital, use of remdesivir and ventilators, reporting COVID-19 deaths, and vaccinations) and (2) waivers of customary and long-standing patient rights by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS).

  In 2020, the Texas Hospital Association submitted requests for waivers to CMS. According to Texas attorney Jerri Ward, "CMS has granted 'waivers' of federal law regarding patient rights. Specifically, CMS purports to allow hospitals to violate the rights of patients or their surrogates with regard to medical record access, to have patient visitation, and to be free from seclusion." She notes that "rights do not come from the hospital or CMS and cannot be waived, as that is the antithesis of a 'right.' The purported waivers are meant to isolate and gain total control over the patient and to deny patient and patient's decision-maker the ability to exercise informed consent."

Creating a "National Pandemic Emergency" provided justification for such sweeping actions that override individual physician medical decision-making and patients' rights. The CARES Act provides incentives for hospitals to use treatments dictated solely by the federal government under the auspices of the NIH. These "bounties" must paid back if not "earned" by making the COVID-19 diagnosis and following the COVID-19 protocol.

The hospital payments include:

- A "free" required PCR test in the Emergency Room or upon admission for every patient, with government-paid fee to hospital.
- Added bonus payment for each positive COVID-19 diagnosis.
- Another bonus for a COVID-19 admission to the hospital.
- A 20 percent "boost" bonus payment from Medicare on the entire hospital bill for use of remdesivir instead of medicines such as Ivermectin.
- Another and larger bonus payment to the hospital if a COVID-19 patient is mechanically ventilated.
- More money to the hospital if cause of death is listed as COVID-19, even if patient did not die directly of COVID-19.
- A COVID-19 diagnosis also provides extra payments to coroners. »

The study included 566 men and women (1:1) aged 28-97 years, who were patients in a preventive cardiology practice. All patients received a new PULS Cardiac Test 2-10 weeks after their second COVID-19 vaccine. This test result was compared with a PULS score from 3-5 months prevaccination. The PULS Cardiac Test measures multiple protein biomarkers, including hepatocyte growth factor [HGF], soluble Fas, and IL-16, and uses the results to calculate a 5-year risk score for new ACS. The PULS score increases with above-normal elevation. All participants received this test every 3-6 months for 8 years.»

- 18 novembre 2021 : USA - États Démocrates versus États Républicains - Résultats - « Why Is The Media Suddenly No Longer Interested In Blaming COVID Waves On Red States »

« So what are the lessons we can learn from this? Well, if you belong to the proper ideology, you can avoid being accused of running a death cult, being the Angel of Death or courting anti-vaxxers by promoting monoclonal antibodies. It doesn't matter if you don't have mask mandates or have lower than average vaccination rates, you can avoid most media criticism.

Four of the top five states in current case rates are either run by Democratic governors or where the populace overwhelmingly voted for Joe Biden. All are also seeing hospitalizations rising significantly too.

It's remarkable how it works, isn't it? When cases are rising in areas where the incorrect set of political beliefs is dominant, it's a moral failing that would be easily preventable if masks were mandated or vaccination rates improved.

When cases rise in areas with the correct set of media approved political beliefs, no matter what the vaccination rates are or mask wearing rules, it's an unfortunate barrier to be overcome and an unavoidable increase likely due to seasonal effects and infinitesimal percentages of unvaccinated Trumpers. Or unmasked kids.

This was an entirely predictable sequence of events, and exactly the same pattern we saw last year. Cases rose in the South during the summer, leading to mass criticism of free-dumb loving Covidiots, only for colder climates to take off a few months later to deafening silence.

The media never learns. Purposefully never learns. They're unable to accept that the spread of a highly infectious respiratory virus is not a moral examination to be passed or that there's essentially no correlation with government intervention and better COVID outcomes. »

  « Story at-a-glance:

  - Emails reveal the National Institutes of Health (NIH) colluded with EcoHealth Alliance to circumvent federal restrictions on gain-of-function (GOF) research and avoid oversight.
  - NIH officials allowed EcoHealth Alliance to craft oversight language governing its own GOF experiments.
  - At least two NIH officials expressed concern that the experiment might fall under the designation of GOF banned under federal moratorium. They later accepted EcoHealth's illogical justification for why the research should not be restricted.
  - The NIH is now trying to evade responsibility by shifting blame for the unlawful research onto EcoHealth Alliance, saying they violated the grant rules.
  - According to EcoHealth president Peter Daszak, the parent virus for his proposed chimeric SARS-like viruses, WIV1, had "never been demonstrated to infect humans."

  Yet three months earlier, his collaborator, Ralph Baric, Ph.D., had published a paper showing WIV1 did indeed have the ability to infect humans and posed a threat to the human population.

  « Comme dans mes deux précédents dossiers sur le sujet, nous allons voir ici que ce projet de dépopulation constitue l'un des objectifs stratégiques de la gouvernance mondiale depuis longtemps. Afin de réaliser son idéal collectiviste-oligarchique (collectiviste économiquement et oligarchique politiquement), l'hyper-classe globaliste travaille de longue date à réduire la démographie des classes moyennes et populaires partout dans le monde mais d'abord et en premier lieu en Occident, cela à l'horizon 2030 – 2050.

  Ce qui est logique : la construction d'un gouvernement mondial post-national et d'un collectivisme mondialisé, implique la formation d'un corps politique mondial restreint. Une humanité trop nombreuse est de fait plus dur à contrôler dans son ensemble pour une minorité politique. Aussi bien organisée et habile soit-elle, comme l'est l'oligarchie globaliste actuelle.

Camouflés par le catastrophisme climatique et une narration écologiste dévoyée, les appels à une réduction drastique de la population mondiale sont constants depuis des décennies au sein de groupes d'influence comme l'Optimum Population Trust (aujourd'hui Population Matters). Population Matters dont le président Jonathon Porritt (conseiller de l'ancien Premier ministre britannique Gordon Brown) expliquait en 2009 que la Grande-Bretagne devait « réduire radicalement sa population si elle veut construire une société durable » afin de la faire descendre à 30 millions d'habitants (67 millions actuellement).

Pour ces milieux, les politiques sanitaires conçues et projetées à l'échelle mondiale sont un moyen de cette réduction de population. Conceptions qui ne sont même pas cachées mais revendiquées comme nous avons déjà eu l'occasion de le démontrer.

Complotisme ? Rappelons ici que le premier des quatre chefs d'accusation invoqués lors du procès de Nuremberg fut justement l'accusation de complot.

Complot et crime contre l'humanité … Des catégories dont l'Histoire montrera peut-être bientôt qu'elles sont malheureusement loin d'appartenir au seul passé. »

  The number of Covid deaths reported by the RKI in the period under review consistently only represents a relatively small part of excess mortality and above all cannot explain the critical issue – the higher the vaccination rate, the higher the excess mortality.

  The most obvious explanation however is that being fully vaccinated increases the likelihood of death. »

- 20 novembre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Surmortalité - Chiffres - Protéine Spike - Sportifs - Dépopulation - « Injection mortelle. L'effrayant récit d'un médecin urgentiste sur une maladie inhabituelle provoquée par le vaccin » par Mike Whitney

  « Un rapport du Telegraph britannique explique comment le vaccin Covid-19 a entraîné une forte augmentation de la surmortalité. Voici un extrait de l'article :

  Près de 10 000 personnes de plus que d'habitude sont mortes au cours des quatre derniers mois pour des raisons autres que le vaccin Covid. Les experts ont demandé une enquête gouvernementale urgente pour savoir si ces décès étaient évitables…

  Les derniers chiffres de l'Office for National Statistics montrent que l'Angleterre et le Pays de Galles ont enregistré 20 823 décès de plus que la moyenne des cinq dernières années au cours des 18 dernières semaines. Seuls 11 531 décès concernaient le Covid. » (« L'alarme sonne car les morgues sont remplies de morts excédentaires non dues au Covid », UK Telegraph)

  La mortalité augmente parce que plus de gens meurent. Et plus de gens meurent parce que plus de gens ont été vaccinés. Il y a un lien entre la hausse de la mortalité et le vaccin Covid-19. Naturellement, les médias veulent rejeter la responsabilité de ces décès sur les « retards de prise en charge » et « l'absence de soins préventifs ». Mais il ne s'agit que d'une diversion. La première cause de décès est l'injection d'un agent pathogène toxique dans le sang d'environ 70 % de la population. C'est ce qui provoque la coagulation, les saignements, les embolies pulmonaires, les crises cardiaques, les accidents vasculaires cérébraux et les décès prématurés. C'est le vaccin.

  En voici d'autres :

  Les chiffres hebdomadaires pour la semaine se terminant le 5 novembre montrent qu'il y a eu 1 659 décès de plus que ce que l'on attendrait normalement à cette période de l'année. Parmi ceux-ci, 700 n'ont pas été causés par le Covid.

L'excédent devrait s'accroître au fur et à mesure que d'autres décès seront enregistrés dans les semaines à venir.

Les données de l'Agence britannique de sécurité sanitaire montrent que, depuis l'été, il y a eu des milliers de décès de plus que la moyenne quinquennale en matière d'insuffisance cardiaque, de maladies cardiaques, de troubles circulatoires et de diabète.

Le nombre de décès chez des particuliers est également supérieur de 40,9 % à la moyenne sur cinq ans, avec 964 décès excédentaires enregistrés au cours de la semaine la plus récente, qui s'achève le 5 novembre. (« L'alarme sonne car les morgues sont remplies de morts excédentaires non dues au Covid », UK Telegraph)

L'augmentation soudaine de la mortalité n'est pas un simple point clignotant sur un radar. C'est un drapeau rouge indiquant une rupture significative dans la tendance des cinq dernières années. Quelque chose a terriblement mal tourné. La vaccination de masse était censée réduire le nombre de cas, d'hospitalisations et de décès. Au lieu de cela, les décès continuent d'augmenter.

Pourquoi ?

La réponse à cette question se trouve dans les données elles-mêmes. Comme l'admet l'auteur, il y a eu une forte augmentation des cas d'insuffisance cardiaque, de maladies cardiaques, de troubles circulatoires et d'accidents vasculaires cérébraux. (Ce sont précisément les affections auxquelles on pourrait s'attendre si l'on venait d'injecter à des millions de personnes un produit biologique générateur de caillots qui déclenche une violente réponse immunitaire attaquant la paroi interne des vaisseaux sanguins et infligeant de graves dommages à l'infrastructure critique du corps. Donc, oui, la mortalité toutes causes confondues est en hausse, et il est certain qu'elle va encore augmenter à mesure que de plus en plus de personnes sont vaccinées et succombent progressivement aux effets (souvent) différés d'une concoction hybride qui est la pierre angulaire d'un plan maléfique visant à réduire considérablement la

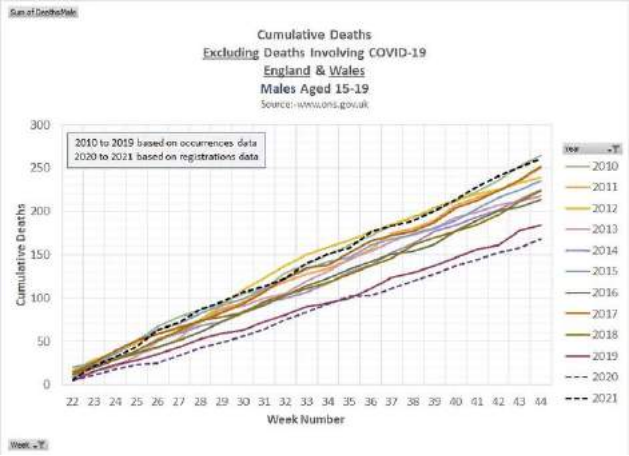
Dr Clare Craig @ClareCraigPath

« Depuis l'été, il y a eu deux fois plus de décès par covid, mais sept fois plus de décès en trop que l'année dernière. » (Twitter)

Et voici un autre article de Craig :

« Si vous commencez à la semaine 22 et que vous additionnez tous les décès depuis pour chaque année, alors quelque chose de très anormal se produit cette année chez les garçons de 15 à 19 ans. »



Donc, non seulement plus de personnes meurent, mais la tendance s'est déplacée vers le bas de la pyramide, car des personnes de plus en plus jeunes sont attirées dans le vortex des vaccins. En d'autres termes, le nombre de jeunes gens qui meurent d'un arrêt cardiaque ou d'une myocardite provoqués par le vaccin continue d'augmenter sans qu'on puisse en voir la fin.

Il n'est pas surprenant que la mortalité, toutes causes confondues, soit plus élevée chez les vaccinés que chez les non-vaccinés, ce qui, là encore, permet de remonter plus facilement à la source du problème, à savoir un « vaccin mortel » cytotoxique qui supprime le système immunitaire inné, endommage les organes vitaux et raccourcit de plusieurs années la vie de personnes normales et en bonne santé.

Vous avez peut-être vu l'une des nombreuses vidéos de jeunes athlètes en pleine forme qui meurent soudainement sur le terrain de jeu ou sont hospitalisés d'urgence peu après avoir reçu une injection. Sinon, voici un lien vers deux d'entre elles. (Athlètes s'effondrant après une vaccination : voir ici et ici)

Selon Israeli Real-Time News, il y a eu une « augmentation de 500% des décès de joueurs en 2021… Depuis décembre, 183 athlètes professionnels et entraîneurs se sont soudainement effondrés ! 108 d'entre eux sont morts ! »

« Augmentation de 500% des décès » d'athlètes ? !? Que devons-nous penser de tout cela ?

Pour commencer, le vaccin Covid-19 n'est pas un médicament. Il est le composant essentiel du plan élitiste d'extermination à l'échelle industrielle. Il est conçu pour infliger des blessures physiques graves aux personnes qui le prennent. Il est choquant que les gens soient si profondément dans le déni qu'ils ne peuvent pas voir ce qui se passe sous leurs yeux. (S'il vous plaît, regardez les clips vidéo des athlètes. Ce sont les personnes les plus en forme de la planète et, pourtant, elles sont terrassées par la mystérieuse substance contenue dans le vaccin). Voici comment le médecin sud-africain Shankara Chetty résume la situation dans une vidéo récente publiée sur Bitchute :

L'agent pathogène qui cause tous les décès dus à la maladie est la protéine spike. Et la protéine spike est ce que le vaccin est censé produire dans votre corps. …La protéine spike est l'un des poisons les plus artificiels que l'homme ait jamais fabriqués. Et, le but de cette toxine, est de tuer des milliards de personnes sans que personne ne s'en aperçoive. C'est donc un poison qui a un but précis. (« Le médecin sud-africain Dr. Shankara Chetty parle du « Grand Plan », Bitchute)

Tout est dit en quelques mots. Et Chetty n'est pas le seul à établir un lien entre le vaccin et le programme des élites mondialistes qui prévoient d'utiliser la couverture d'une pandémie pour mettre en œuvre leur plan de « gestion de la population ». L'ancien vice-président de Pfizer, Mike Yeadon, a exprimé un point de vue similaire il y a quelques jours sur son site Internet.

Il a déclaré :

En effet, et nous avons pourtant essayé de fournir autant d'informations que possible sur l'agent biologique qui est utilisé pour poursuivre ce programme maléfique, la protéine spike. Dans nos premiers rapports, nous avons transmis les recherches du Dr Patrick Whelan, qui a compris le danger de la protéine spike avant tout le monde.

Voici un bref résumé de son analyse tirée d'une lettre qu'il a soumise à la FDA le 8 décembre 2020 :

… Meinhardt et al…. montrent que la protéine spike dans les cellules endothéliales du cerveau est associée à la formation de microthrombi (caillots)… En d'autres termes, les protéines virales semblent causer des dommages aux tissus sans que le virus ne se réplique activement… Le vaccin Pfizer/BioNTech (BNT162b2) est composé d'un ARNm qui produit une protéine spike complète ancrée dans la membrane. Les études sur les souris suggèrent qu'une forme non tronquée de la protéine S1 comme celle-ci peut provoquer une microvasculopathie dans les tissus qui expriment beaucoup le récepteur ACE2.

…il semble que la protéine virale spike… soit également l'un des principaux agents responsables des dommages causés aux organes distants qui peuvent inclure le cerveau, le cœur, les poumons et les reins. Avant que l'un de ces vaccins ne soit approuvé pour une utilisation généralisée chez l'homme, il est important d'évaluer chez les sujets vaccinés les effets de la vaccination sur le cœur… Aussi important qu'il soit d'arrêter rapidement la propagation du virus en immunisant la population, il serait bien pire que des centaines de millions de personnes subissent des dommages durables, voire permanents, à la microvasculature de leur cerveau ou de leur cœur, parce qu'on n'a pas su apprécier à court terme un effet involontaire des vaccins à base de protéine de pointe pleine longueur sur ces autres organes. » (« La FDA ignore les avertissements sur la protéine Spike qui s'avère mortelle« , Truth in the Age of Covid)

- 22 novembre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Surmortalité - Allemagne - « Des médecins allemands confirment à nouveau la corrélation entre vaccin et surmortalité »

  Une nouvelle étude sur la surmortalité en Allemagne a été menée en tenant compte des publications de l'Institut Robert Koch et de l'Office fédéral de la statistique. Les analyses effectuées établissentl'existence d'une corrélation entre le taux de vaccination au Covid-19 et la surmortalité. Elle est de plus de 31.

  La logique serait de dire : plus le nombre de personnes vaccinées augmente, plus le nombre de décès diminue. Or, la situation est tout autre. En effet, plus le taux de vaccination est élevé, plus le taux de mortalité augmente. La question qui se pose est : cette surmortalité est-elle réellement liée à l'injection des vaccins contre le Covid-19 ?

  Les données réunies jusqu'à présent ne permettent pas d'obtenir une conclusion définitive sur le sujet. En tout cas, ce fait est constaté dans 16 pays et il demande une clarification dans le meilleur délai qui soit. »

« Figures available from Public Health Scotland show that excess deaths in Scotland have been on the rise since the middle of May 2021, despite a huge decline in Covid-19 deaths, with the under 65's seeing up to a 40% increase in the number of deaths against the five-year-average.

But further statistics go some way to explaining the increase in deaths among younger adults, because data on cardiovascular related health issues shows that some weeks since May 2021, have seen up to a 118% increase in the number of cardiovascular cases among 15-44-year-olds, and up to a 72% increase in the number of cardiovascular cases among 45-64-year-olds.

With it now being common knowledge that the Covid-19 vaccines can cause unusual blood clots associated with low levels of platelets, as well as heart problems in the form of myocarditis and pericarditis; particularly among younger adults, teens and children – is it safe to assume that the experimental injections are to blame for the extraordinary rise in excess deaths and cardiovascular related health issues among younger adults?

The chart shows that Scotland suffered excess deaths in line with an increase in alleged Covid-19 deaths towards the end of October 2020 and a further increase in alleged Covid-19 deaths in the middle of January 2021. We can then see that excess deaths gradually declined and actually fell below the five-year-average in April 2021, before climbing back up above expected levels from the middle of May 2021.

The difference this time though is that Scotland had an average weekly Covid-19 death rate of 1 between May 1st and June 19th, and since then the highest 7-day average Covid-19 death rate has only climbed as high as 24, with an average of 100 Covid-19 deaths being registered per week since the end of September. So it's safe to say that the excess deaths currently being suffered in Scotland since May 2021 cannot be attributed to Covid-19. »

  « Le scénario est maintenant bien rodé. En amont, il commence par des avis de scientifiques qui, alors que tout est supposé « sous contrôle », annoncent la possibilité du retour d'une nouvelle vague épidémique. Ces oracles sont bientôt confirmés par des données venant de pays plus ou moins lointains ; tout va bien en France, mais ailleurs c'est très grave. Les hypothèses de nos scientifiques s'avèreraient donc exactes. Les articles de presse pleuvent sur la panique engendrée dans ces pays et les mesures très dures en passe d'être mises en œuvre. Ces mesures nous paraissent démesurées, mais une petite voix nous dit qu'il faut se préparer à ce que ce soit bientôt notre tour. Enfin, Santé Publique France donne l'estocade et annonce à son tour une élévation « inquiétante de l'incidence » sans vraiment expliquer ni de quoi il s'agit exactement, ni en quoi elle est inquiétante. Cette information est immédiatement relayée par de puissants organes médiatiques. Elle est ensuite reprise par les autorités qui remettent en place des mesures contraignantes (masque obligatoire dans toutes les écoles et dans la rue de départements de plus en plus nombreux). « En même temps », le porte-parole du gouvernement nous assure de ne pas nous inquiéter. Cela inquiète encore plus car, à chaque fois qu'il ne faut pas s'inquiéter, nous pouvons être sûrs du contraire ; cela est en général confirmé quelques jours plus tard. Le nombre d'articles publiés sur la prochaine vague augmente et prépare le terrain. « Quelques dissidents » sont invités à s'exprimer pour faire bonne mesure car nous sommes en démocratie, juste le temps de les décrédibiliser incompétents, naïfs, inconscients, irresponsables, dangereux, complotistes. »

« In an analysis presented during a meeting of the American Heart Association, Dr. Steven Gundry, a pioneer in infant heart transplant surgery, said mRNA COVID vaccines put many patients at higher risk of a new acute coronary syndrome, such as a heart attack.

The COVID-19 Pfizer and Moderna mRNA vaccines "dramatically increase" a common measure of heart risk in people.

That's according to a recently published "warning" in the journal Circulation by cardiologist Dr. Steven Gundry, who is called a pioneer in infant heart transplant surgery.

The analysis was presented at the recent meeting of the American Heart Association.

The "dramatic changes in most patients" mean they are at higher risk of a new acute coronary syndrome, such as a heart attack, according to Gundry.

In part, the analysis states:

"We conclude that the mRNA vacs dramatically increase inflammation on the endothelium and T cell infiltration of cardiac muscle and may account for the observations of increased thrombosis, cardiomyopathy, and other vascular events following vaccination."

Gundry explained:

"Recently, with the advent of the mRNA COVID-19 vaccines (vac) by Moderna and Pfizer, dramatic changes in the PULS score became apparent in most patients."

Thousands of heart-related injuries have been reported following COVID mRNA vaccines. These injuries lead to the formation and progression of cardiac lesions which may become unstable and rupture, leading to cardiac events. »

« According to a court affidavit, at the time Ng was "in the same state for many, many days ... critically ill," and a nurse suggested that Dr. Ng "stop all this aggressive care and let [her father] die naturally." On November 5, after Ng was on a ventilator for three weeks, DuPage County Circuit Court Judge Paul Fullerton ruled in favor of the family and allowed Dr. Bain to administer 24mg doses of ivermectin from Nov. 8 through Nov. 12. The result? Within five days, he was able to breathe without the ventilator and on Nov. 16 walked out of the ICU.

By this past Sunday, Ng was breathing without supplemental oxygen on a regular hospital floor.

Shockingly, the lawyers had to go through five different appearances in this case just to save this man's life from a hospital that senselessly blocked lifesaving treatment. Originally, the judge dissolved his order because the doctors lied and said the patient was getting better. Then they blocked Dr. Bain from administering the ivermectin because he wasn't vaccinated. According to reporter Mary Beth Pfeiffer, Judge Fullerton overruled the hospital again because he had testimony from a hospital doctor who estimated that "someone in his condition being on a ventilator like that has a 10 or 15 percent chance of survival."

Ralph Lorigo, the lawyer on this case, told me that the patient was able to extubate himself from the ventilator, yet the hospital is still appealing the decision! How dare this man live! "You shouldn't have to have a lawyer to come out alive," said Lorigo in an interview with TheBlaze. »

  L'injonction met en place une procédure, où le désir de l'Autre se confond avec la violence de la contamination. Cet automatisme mimétique, destructeur du processus de différenciation, ne repose plus, comme dans la « lutte antiterroriste,« sur une guerre contre le droit. Ici, les libertés étant déjà détruites, il s'appuie sur une révocation de la Loi symbolique.

  Dans la « guerre contre le coronavirus, » l'individu est happé par la jouissance de l'objet-regard présentifié par le masque. Il détourne alors l'usage de l'objet en satisfaction de la pulsion de mort. De part son caractère traumatique, celle-ci devient une compulsion de répétition, renversant le désir de l'Autre en jouissance d'objet.

Réel. Alors, ce qui est mis en scène n'est plus la parole, mais l' ob-scène de l'objet masque. »

  « U.K. reports on child deaths from the Office for National Statistics (ONS) show that, in the weeks since the COVID shot has been administered to children between ages 12 and 15, recorded deaths have risen by 44 percent above the 2015-2019 average for the same time period.

  According to the ONS' "five-year average weekly deaths by sex and age group" figures between 2015 and 2019 among children ages 10-14, there were 41 deaths recorded from week 38 (late September) to week 45 (early November). Within the same time period, the weekly figures recorded for the year 2021 show that 59 children died, representing a 43.9 percent rise in deaths over the five-year average. A report from The Exposé notes that deaths among 10-14-year-olds have been consistently above that of the national five-year average since the shots started being administered to children, save for one week, week 42. Week 38 saw more than double the deaths among the young age group, going from a five-year average of three deaths to eight deaths in 2021.

The single largest weekly death count was observed in week 40, about two weeks after the jab had been rolled out, at which point 11 children died in 2021 compared with the five-year average of four, representing a 175 percent rise in deaths.

Breaking down the data into male and female categories, The Exposé showed that although more boys' deaths were recorded, 2021 has marked a greater percentage of increase in deaths for girls.

Overall, 24 boys died between weeks 38 and 45 on the five-year average scale, whereas 34 died in 2021, marking a 41.7 percent increase in deaths. The greatest number of boys' deaths were recorded in Week 40, during which time seven boys died, up 250 percent from the five-year average. » « Nearly all governments have attempted compulsory measures to control the virus, but no government can claim success. The research indicates that mask mandates, lockdowns, and school closures have had no discernible impact of virus trajectories.

Bendavid reported "in the framework of this analysis, there is no evidence that more restrictive nonpharmaceutical interventions ('lockdowns') contributed substantially to bending the curve of new cases in England, France, Germany, Iran, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, or the United States in early 2020." We've known this for a very long time now but governments continue to double down, causing misery upon people with ramifications that will likely take decades or more to repair.

The benefits of the societal lockdowns and restrictions have been totally exaggerated and the harms to our societies and children have been severe: the harms to children, the undiagnosed illness that will result in excess mortality in years to come, depression, anxiety, suicidal ideation in our young people, drug overdoses and suicides due to the lockdown policies, the crushing isolation due to the lockdowns, psychological harms, domestic and child abuse, sexual abuse of children, loss of jobs and businesses and the devastating impact, and the massive numbers of deaths resulting from the lockdowns that will impact heavily on women and minorities.

Now we have whispers again for the new lockdowns in response to the Omicron variant that, by my estimations, will be likely infectious but not more lethal.

How did we get here? We knew that we could never eradicate this mutable virus (that has an animal reservoir) with lockdowns and that it would likely become endemic like other circulating common cold coronaviruses. When we knew an age-risk stratified approach was optimal (focused protection as outlined in the Great Barrington Declaration) and not carte blanche policies when we had evidence of a 1,000-fold differential in risk of death between a child and an elderly person. We knew of the potency and success of early ambulatory outpatient treatment in reducing the risk of hospitalization and death in the vulnerable.

It was clear very early on that Task Forces and medical advisors and decision-makers were not reading the evidence, were not up to speed with the science or data, did not understand the evidence, did not 'get' the evidence, and were blinded to the science, often driven by their own prejudices, biases, arrogance, and ego. They remain ensconced in sheer academic sloppiness and laziness. It was clear that the response was not a public health one. It was a political one from day one and continues today.

A recent study (pre-print) captures the essence and catastrophe of a lockdown society and the hollowing out of our children by looking at how children learn (3 months to 3 years old) and finding across all measures that "children born during the pandemic have significantly reduced verbal, motor, and overall cognitive performance compared to children born pre-pandemic." Researchers also reported that "males and children in lower socioeconomic families have been most affected. Results highlight that even in the absence of direct SARS-CoV-2 infection and COVID-19 illness, the environmental changes associated with the COVID-19 pandemic is significantly and negatively affecting infant and child development."

Perhaps Donald Luskin of the Wall Street Journal best captures what we have stably witnessed since the start of these unscientific lockdowns and school closures: "Six months into the Covid-19 pandemic, the U.S. has now carried out two large-scale experiments in public health—first, in March and April, the lockdown of the economy to arrest the spread of the virus, and second, since mid-April, the reopening of the economy. The results are in. Counterintuitive though it may be, statistical analysis shows that locking down the economy didn't contain the disease's spread and reopening it didn't unleash a second wave of infections."

The British Columbia Center for Disease Control (BCCDC) issued a full report in September 2020 on the impact of school closures on children and found para "that i) children comprise a small proportion of diagnosed COVID-19 cases, have less severe illness, and mortality is rare ii) children do not appear to be a major source of SARS-CoV-2 transmission in households or schools, a finding which has been consistent globally iii) there are important differences between how influenza and SARS-CoV-2 are transmitted. School closures may be less effective as a prevention measure for COVID-19 iv) school closures can have severe and unintended consequences for children and youth v) school closures contribute to greater family stress, especially for female caregivers, while families balance child care and home learning with employment demands vi) family violence may be on the rise during the COVID pandemic, while the closure of schools and childcare centres may create a gap in the safety net for children who are at risk of abuse and neglect."

Now places like Austria (November 2021) have re-entered the world of lockdown lunacy only to be outmatched by Australia. Indeed, an illustration of the spurious need for these ill-informed actions is that they are being done in the face of clear scientific evidence showing that during strict prior societal lockdowns, school lockdowns, mask mandates, and additional societal restrictions, the number of positive cases went up!

What follows is the current totality of the body of evidence (available comparative studies and high-level pieces of evidence, reporting, and discussion) on COVID-19 lockdowns, masks, school closures, and mask mandates. There is no conclusive evidence supporting claims that any of these restrictive measures worked to reduce viral transmission or deaths. Lockdowns were ineffective, school closures were ineffective, mask mandates were ineffective, and masks themselves were and are ineffective and harmful. »

  Sur New York, les modélisations, les médias et Trump

  « Meanwhile, the models that had predicted apocalyptic outcomes proved wrong. Aside from a few bad days in New York City in March and April 2020, American hospitals were never close to being overrun. In fact, they were so empty in the spring of 2020 that many laid off workers. Even in New York, the field hospitals and medical ships went largely unused. But no one seemed to notice, much less care. Instead the Times, CNN, and the rest fixated on a single number, the count of Americans who had (reportedly) died from the coronavirus. Cable networks offered real-time tallies. The Times ran a special edition when the figure reached one hundred thousand. They never put the figure in context. They never explained that our methods for recording Covid-linked deaths were likely producing overcounts. Or that even with our aggressive counting, the Covid death figure represented just over 10 percent of all American deaths in 2020. Most important, they never explained honestly that Covid almost exclusively targeted the very old and sick. Instead they went the other way, searching desperately for outlier cases—the handful of coronavirus deaths of people under fifty without preexisting conditions. Inevitably, they made mistakes, as when the Times called the murder of a twenty-seven-year-old Iowa man a Covid death. Reporters are crucial watchdogs against government mistakes and overreach. All of government. But the media's hatred for Donald Trump blinded journalists to the power that state governors and unelected scientific and medical advisors wielded as the epidemic unfolded. As Covid hit, governors in many states seized unprecedented control of their citizens. They refused to reopen schools. They imposed draconian rules on businesses. They forced people to wear masks, even outside. Journalists didn't question these monumental intrusions. They cheered them, while ignoring scientists who challenged the conventional narrative. Hugely powerful social media companies such as Facebook and tech giants such as Google and Amazon went even further. Those corporations blocked videos and books and groups that questioned the value of the lockdowns—from which these same corporations have profited enormously. The social media companies worked with organizations such as the World Health Organization to become quasi-governmental censors. »

Sur les dépenses médicales aux USA

« In 2019, Americans spent $ 3.6 trillion—$ 3,600 billion—on health care. That represents a more than fifteen-fold increase in fewer than sixty years, after accounting for inflation. Medical spending is now almost 20 percent of the overall economy, more than energy and real estate combined. »

Sur la comparaison avec Ebola

« As Italian physicians wrote in March 2020, “Coronavirus is the Ebola of the rich.... It is not particularly lethal, but is very contagious. The more medicalized and centralized the society, the more widespread the virus.” »

Sur l’hystérie

« What I am saying is that our response to the coronavirus has been vastly disproportionate. The coronavirus has not disrupted the food chain (though the lockdowns threatened to do so). It has not overrun hospitals (though vaccine requirements for reluctant nurses are putting the system under enormous stress). It kills fewer American children than drowning, cancer, abuse, or a dozen other conditions. »

Sur les medias et la haine contre Trump

« Fed by anger at Trump, conventional media outlets stoked the coronavirus panic. The panic was the pull. But the push came from two incredibly powerful industries, technology and health care. Now Trump is gone. But we’ve set a precedent. A terrible precedent. »

Sur la Chine, sur les médias et les réseaux sociaux

« The most brazen example came on January 12. Just one day after a laboratory in Shanghai sequenced the coronavirus genome and published it online, China closed the lab for “rectification.” »

« The next shock came on January 23, when China locked down Wuhan and other cities in Hubei province, preventing at least thirty-five million people from traveling. »

« Social media fanned the panic. Videos posted to Chinese sites and shared to Reddit and Twitter showed men welding apartment doors shut and people collapsed in the streets. One disturbing video revealed body-bagged corpses filling hospitals. In a YouTube video posted on January 28, a Wuhan resident warned, “It’s like living in hell, waiting for death.” »

Sur les mesures sanitaires à San Francisco et leur efficacité

« San Francisco enforced its rules particularly strictly. Police there arrested almost three hundred people for refusing to wear masks. Still, the epidemic seemed to wax and wane on its own. In city after city, both where public health measures were strict and where they were not, cases peaked within a few weeks after the first infection was seen, then plunged again. Shortly after the epidemic ended in 1919, Dr. W. H. Kellogg, the executive officer of the California State Board of Health, published a "Summary of Conclusions Reached as a Result of the Study of the Control Measures Adopted." In other words, what, if any, public health rules had been most helpful? When he compared the course of the epidemic in different cities, Kellogg found that most regulations had made little difference. He was particularly dismissive of masks. "The very complete records at the disposal of the California State Board of Health indicate conclusively that the compulsory wearing of masks does not affect the progress of the epidemic," he wrote. Three eastern cities that had no mask rules had seen the same course of the epidemic as San Francisco. »

Sur la pandémie de 1976 et les conséquences des vaccins

« Meanwhile, a public health panic in 1976 about a possible influenza crisis backfired. Expert predictions that a "swine flu" outbreak might become another Spanish flu proved wildly wrong. A hastily made vaccine was blamed for hundreds of cases of Guillain-Barre syndrome, a neurological ailment that can lead to muscle weakness, paralysis, and even death. »

Sur les confinements, leurs dangers et sur Donald Henderson

Among the most vocal critics of the recommendations for lockdowns was Dr. Donald Henderson. Henderson, a recipient of the Presidential Medal of Freedom, had led the successful effort to eradicate smallpox, once among the world's most feared diseases. In December 2006, Henderson and three other scientists authored an eleven-page paper called "Disease Mitigation Measures in the Control of Pandemic Influenza." After outlining lockdown measures, they posed the question, "We must ask whether any or all of the proposed measures are epidemiologically sound…[and] consider possible secondary social and economic impacts." The authors argued that efforts to slow the spread of the flu in past epidemics had largely failed. They attacked quarantines, travel bans, and school closings of more than two weeks as likely counterproductive. They did not even mention full lockdowns, presumably because they viewed those as so unlikely. Near the end of the paper they made a heartfelt plea for governments to focus on supporting medical systems and otherwise allow life to go on: "Experience has shown that communities faced with epidemics or other adverse events respond best and with the least anxiety when the normal social functioning of the community is least disrupted. Strong political and public health leadership to provide reassurance and to ensure that needed medical care services are provided are critical elements"».

Sur les masques

« The run on masks came even as public health experts discouraged civilians from buying either standard surgical masks or higher-end protective respirators called N95s. "There is no role for these masks in the community," Dr. Robert Redfield, the director of the CDC, said at a congressional hearing on February 27. Three days later, Dr. Jerome Adams, the surgeon general, went further. "You can increase your risk of getting it by wearing a mask if you are not a health care provider," Adams said in an interview on Fox News. "There are things people can do to stay safe. There are things they shouldn't be doing and one of the things they shouldn't be doing in the general public is going out and buying masks." 7 Yet the shortages worsened by the day—made worse by China's efforts to hoover up every mask it could find. »

Sur le confinement en Italie

« On March 9, Italian prime minister Giuseppe Conte announced a lockdown covering all sixty million people in Italy. Even China had not tried to quarantine its entire population. Conte said Italy had no choice. "We all have to renounce something," he said, calling for shared sacrifice. All outdoor gatherings were forbidden. Schools and universities would be closed. The restrictions would last through April 3.10 Two days later, Italy further tightened its rules, closing bars, restaurants, and retailers aside from essential services such as grocery stores. For the first time since World War II, an advanced democracy had asserted the right to interfere in the most basic aspects of its citizens' lives. The Italian government made the extraordinary move in a matter of days, with almost no public discussion or debate. Yet, by March 9, when Italy imposed its first lockdown, the country had suffered only about nine thousand coronavirus cases and five hundred deaths. With one of the world's oldest populations and harsh northern winters, Italy regularly suffered severe winter flu epidemics. In the winter of 2014–2015 and again in 2016–2017, influenza and other flu-like illnesses had killed more than forty thousand Italians—eighty times as many as had died from the coronavirus at the time of the lockdown. »

Sur le CDC et les tests

« The CDC sent Covid test kits that didn't work to state health laboratories and refused to let other labs create their own tests. 11 As a result, Covid surveillance was badly hamstrung during February. With test kits nearly nonexistent, authorities made them available only to people who had traveled from China or could prove direct contact with an infected person. »

Sur l'Imperial College of London et ses prédications - Sur Neil Ferguson - Sur les confinements

« What the public learned only in pieces over the next few days was that researchers at Imperial College London had spent the week of March 9 making terrifying predictions to British, European, and American leaders. 11 On March 15, Le Monde explained how the Imperial College team, led by a physicist-turned-epidemiologist named Neil Ferguson, had influenced French president Emmanuel Macron: This modeling was carried out by epidemiologist Neil Ferguson of Imperial College in London. His team has been approached by several European governments to establish different scenarios for the progression of the epidemic.... The results for France were presented Thursday, March 12 at the Elysee [the French presidential palace]. A few hours before the president solemnly addresses the French to explain the "urgency" of the situation. 12 A lean, intense man who favored horn-rimmed glasses and swept his hair forward to hide a receding hairline, Ferguson was neither a medical doctor nor a virologist. He had earned a Ph.D. in theoretical physics from Oxford in 1994. But after hearing a talk by another physicist-turned-epidemiologist about modeling the AIDS epidemic, Ferguson realized he could put his mathematical skills to real-world use. He left physics and turned to predicting epidemics. »

« If predicting an epidemic's course is hard, offering useful solutions to lessen its severity can be even harder, as Donald Henderson had warned in 2006. But despite—or perhaps because of—his lack of frontline experience, Neil Ferguson felt duty bound to try. Over and over again. In 2002, Ferguson made his first highly publicized prediction. He suggested that mad cow disease—a degenerative brain disorder—might kill as many as 100,000 people in Britain, or 150,000 if it also proved to be transmissible from sheep to humans. 14 Fewer than 180 Britons died. 15 In 2005, Ferguson again grabbed attention when he warned that a strain of influenza called H5N1 could kill hundreds of millions of people. "Around 40 million people died in the 1918 Spanish flu outbreak," he told the British newspaper The Guardian. "There are six times more people on the planet now so you could scale it up to around 200 million people probably." 16 It was perhaps a bad sign for Ferguson's skills as a mathematician that he couldn't figure out that the world's population in 2005 (6.5 billion) was not six times its 1918 population (1.8 billion), but about 3.5 times. Or that 40 million times six equaled 240 million, not 200 million. In any case, Ferguson's prediction for the flu proved even more incorrect than his mad cow estimate. A total of forty-three people died from the H5N1 flu in 2005, according to the WHO, meaning Ferguson was off by a factor of millions. 17 Yet Ferguson only became more important in the years that followed. By 2020, he headed the WHO Collaborating Centre for Infectious Disease Modelling. The center was based at Imperial College and offered the World Health Organization "rapid analysis of urgent infectious disease problems, notably outbreaks." 18 In a front-page article on March 17, 2020, the New York Times explained how important Ferguson had become as world leaders struggled to respond to the coronavirus: "With ties to the World Health Organization and a team of 50 scientists, led by a prominent epidemiologist, Neil Ferguson, Imperial is treated as a sort of gold standard, its mathematical models feeding directly into government policies." 19 Ferguson was also part of a semi-secret British government committee called the Scientific Advisory Group for Emergencies, or SAGE. SAGE first came together in 2009 amid fears of a potential swine flu epidemic. It quickly faced criticism for a lack of transparency and inaccurate projections. In July 2009, it estimated the swine flu might kill up to sixty-five thousand Britons—more than a hundred times the number who actually died. 20 In 2011, a report from the British Parliament sharply criticized SAGE committees, whose membership changed with each emergency, for "an unnecessarily secretive way of working" and for failing "to adhere to any published guidance or code of conduct." Further, the report said, SAGE committees should focus on the "most probable scenarios" for emergencies, rather than worst-case projections. 21 Nine years later, as the coronavirus emerged from China, SAGE largely ignored those suggestions. It operated without much, if any, oversight. It initially refused to disclose its members, supposedly to protect them from harassment. It kept both its meetings and recommendations secret. 22 It functioned essentially to give private advice to senior officials of the British government. Not everyone in SAGE liked Ferguson. Some other scientists "bridled at his appetite for media coverage, which they said interfered with [SAGE's] work," as the New York Times would report. Still, he was the group's "undisputed star." 23 Thus Ferguson enjoyed both a private channel to senior government officials and public influence as the voice making predictions through his Imperial College reports. By March 2020, he was in a uniquely influential position in Britain, and he was driving policies in the United States and continental Europe as well. By mid-February, Ferguson had grown deeply frightened about the havoc the coronavirus might wreak. "This virus is probably the one that concerns me the most of everything I've worked on," he said on February 14.24 At a SAGE committee hearing on February 27, Ferguson first floated the idea that the virus might kill 500,000 people in Britain—the equivalent of more than 2 million in the United States. 25 Despite the supposed precision of Ferguson's models, he based his estimate on the most basic math possible. He assumed the virus would infect four out of five people in the United Kingdom—about fifty million people—and that 1 percent of those would die. »

« Thus by March, China had controlled an outbreak that had appeared unmanageable in January. The West had to follow suit, Ferguson believed. It faced a simple and stark choice: allow the virus to overrun its hospitals, or lock down and break the epidemic. "Based on our estimates and other teams', there's really no option but follow in China's footsteps and suppress," he told the New York Times on March. »

« "People's sense of what is possible in terms of control changed quite dramatically between January and March," Ferguson would say later. Even after the Chinese lockdown, SAGE hadn't thought Western countries would tolerate lockdowns. "Then Italy did it. And we realized we could." 29 But only if people were sufficiently terrified. Fortunately, Ferguson had a model for that. On Monday, March 16, Imperial College publicly released the forecast that it had previously shown only to policymakers. Under the anodyne title "Impact of Non-Pharmaceutical Interventions (NPIs) to Reduce Covid-19 Mortality and Healthcare Demand," it contained a terrifying forecast. Over 2 million Americans and 500,000 Britons would die in a matter of months if governments did not shut their countries immediately. The epidemic would peak quickly and sharply. By the beginning of June, about 50,000 Americans would die of Covid each day. »

« The Imperial College report turned lockdowns into a fait accompli—a step that couldn't be delayed, much less debated. Each day without "suppression" brought countries closer to the moment when the curves would go parabolic and the hospitals would crash. Stay at home to flatten the curve. »

Sur le Diamond Princess et la dangerosité du Covid

« Yet even as the report was released, we had hints the virus might not be as catastrophic as it had seemed during those first days in Wuhan. The most notable evidence came from the Diamond Princess cruise ship. The ship had turned into a floating laboratory after Japan forced its passengers and crew to remain on board almost two weeks and the virus spread unchecked. The ship had about 2,650 passengers and another 1,000-plus crew members. Despite the confined quarters and shared ventilation system, only 712 people contracted Covid. That figure was less than 20 percent of the total people on the ship. All by itself, that fact suggested that the coronavirus might not be as transmissible as early modeling had suggested. The pattern of deaths was also striking. Of the 712 infected people, 14 eventually died, all passengers. That represented a death rate of 2 percent. But the 2 percent figure deeply overestimated Covid's risks on a national or worldwide basis. Why? Because the people aboard the Diamond Princess were mostly over 60, and thus far more susceptible to the virus than the general population. Even among those people, Covid presented deeply uneven risks. The virus's dangers skyrocketed in people over 80. Four of the 14 deaths were people over 80, even though only 227 of the 3,700 people on board Diamond Princess were over 80.33 Another 8 of the deaths were people between 70 and 80, the age of about 1,000 passengers. (The last two deaths included one woman in her sixties and one person whose age was not revealed.) Early Italian data painted the same picture. By March 16, it showed that Covid almost exclusively killed people over 70. Of the first 1,700 Italians to die, not one was under 30. Only 13 were under 50. Nearly 9 in 10 of the deaths had occurred in people over 70. In fact, nearly as many Italians over 90 (yes, 90) died as under 70. Ferguson knew about the differences in the risks of coronavirus by age. »

Sur la définition du taux de mortalité

« (An important note: The "case fatality ratio" is different from the "infection fatality ratio," or IFR. Many people who are infected with Covid never have symptoms. They may never be tested and not even know they are infected. So the case fatality ratio overstates Covid's real dangers. The best and truest measure is the IFR, which compares the total number of people who die to the total number infected, symptoms or no.) »

Sur SAGE, les distanciations sociales et l'usage de la peur

France and Italy about some young people getting seriously ill." Fauci made a similar comment a week later. Why? A March 22 paper from a SAGE subcommittee—kept hidden from the public at the time, but released months later—offered an answer. Only by pretending the virus posed a significant risk to everyone could governments ensure the public would accept lockdowns. In the paper, entitled "Options for Increasing Adherence to Social Distancing Measures," unnamed members of the SAGE "behavioral science subcommittee" laid out the issue clearly: Perceived threat: A substantial number of people still do not feel sufficiently personally threatened; it could be that they are reassured by the low death rate in their demographic group. . . . The perceived level of personal threat needs to be increased among those who are complacent, using hard-hitting emotional messaging. [emphasis in the original] The authors also discussed the need for positive and negative reinforcement: Communication strategies should provide social approval for desired behaviours. . . . Social disapproval from one's community can play an important role in preventing anti-social behaviour.... Consideration should be given to use of social disapproval but with a strong caveat around unwanted negative consequences. »

Sur le confinement en Californie

« And on March 19, lockdowns crossed the Atlantic, as California's Gavin Newsom became the first governor to announce a "stay-at-home" order for his state. California, with a population of forty million, had fewer than two thousand cases at the time, and fewer than twenty deaths. »

Sur les theories du complot et l'origine du virus

« "We stand together to strongly condemn conspiracy theories suggesting that COVID-19 does not have a natural origin," twenty-seven research scientists wrote in a letter to The Lancet in February 2020, not even two months after the virus had emerged. Instead of worrying about the unusual features of Sars-Cov-2, scientists should simply "stand with our [Chinese] colleagues on the frontline." The letter chilled debate about the origins of the virus, tainting any scientist who raised questions as an anti-Asian conspiracy theorist. »

« As early as February 19, Chinese doctors reported that chloroquine had shown "apparent efficacy in treatment of COVID-19 associated pneumonia." »

« Then President Trump became involved, repeatedly speaking positively of HCQ's potential. The drug suddenly became a pawn in the larger battle between Trump and the media over Trump's response to the coronavirus. 12 Because Trump had supported it, a shocking number of reporters and scientists seemed almost to want the drug to fail. »

Sur le Remdesivir

« Remdesivir was not yet approved for any use in early 2020. And it could be given only to hospitalized patients because it carried a risk of serious liver damage. Still, Fauci and other federal officials considered remdesivir promising enough that they immediately fast-tracked it for a clinical trial. 15 In April 2020, the National Institutes of Health reported that the trial had shown remdesivir "accelerates recovery from advanced COVID-19." »

« An excited Fauci told reporters that remdesivir would become the new "standard of care" for coronavirus patients. "What it [the study] has proven is a drug can block this virus," he said. 17 But when the full results were published weeks later, they showed that Fauci had overestimated the drug's value. Although remdesivir might help some patients, the findings made clear the drug would neither slow the epidemic nor significantly reduce deaths. 18 Even in the United States, remdesivir wound up being given to only about half of all hospitalized Covid patients. 19 Still, the treatment turned into a bonanza for Gilead Sciences, its maker. Gilead earned over $ 4 billion from remdesivir in the first nine months after it began selling the drug. »

« Monoclonal antibodies are different. They are grown in specially engineered cells and must be given as infusions because they are much larger molecules. They are often far more expensive than traditional small-molecule drugs, and they can have serious side effects. But they can also help treat previously untreatable diseases. And the theory of giving patients immunosuppressive drugs made sense. So doctors had high hopes for tocilizumab and similar antibodies. But they proved to be another disappointment, rarely helping patients. A paper published in early 2021 showed that patients treated with tocilizumab were just as likely to die as those who did not receive the treatment. »

Sur Fauci et l'hydroxychloroquine

« Fauci could have encouraged the National Institutes of Health to focus on examining older off-patent medicines such as HCQ—or even more basic interventions, such as encouraging people to take vitamin D. Instead, he focused on finding shiny new drugs such as remdesivir. »

Sur l'usage des ventilateurs

« Unfortunately, the overly aggressive use of ventilators backfired. Intubation should be a last-resort procedure. Ventilated patients are at high risk for bacterial lung infections. Most must be sedated with powerful opioids because ventilation is uncomfortable and painful. But those drugs carry their own dangers. And because sedated patients cannot move, they are at risk of developing bedsores. Worse, many early Covid patients received high-pressure ventilation. The goal was to keep their lungs inflated, but the high pressure appears to have destroyed the lungs of some patients. As early as April 8, only weeks after American hospitals began to see large numbers of Covid patients, Stat News reported: Some critical care physicians are questioning the widespread use of the breathing machines for Covid-19 patients, saying that large numbers of patients could instead be treated with less intensive respiratory support. . . . The question is whether ICU physicians are moving patients to mechanical ventilators too quickly. »

« In other words, for ventilated patients for whom an outcome was available, almost 90 percent had died. 28 For patients under 65 years old, ventilation appeared to be especially likely to lead to bad outcomes. The Northwell study sped the end of overly aggressive ventilation tactics, which were already going out of favor. But we may never know how many people—especially in New York City in March and April 2020—died because they were put on ventilators when they didn't need to be ».

Sur Cuomo et les confinements

« Cuomo briefly fought a New York City lockdown even after the Imperial College report became public. "That cannot happen," he said on March 17. "It cannot happen legally." 4 Two days later, on March 19, he was equally emphatic: "I'm not going to do it." 5 The next day, March 20, he reversed course, announcing a statewide "stay-at-home" order—as most governors preferred to call the lockdowns. »

Sur les hôpitaux vides

« When some noticed a gap between the alarmist reports in the press and the reality at their local hospitals, there was a brief fad of posting photos and videoclips of empty hospital parking lots and desertedlooking emergency room entrances on social media. The hashtag #FilmYourHospital got enough traction that the fact-checkers at PolitiFact felt the need to declare, "No, empty hospital beds do not indicate COVID-19 is 'fake crisis.'" »

Sur l'hystérie médiatique et sur le cas de Terrence McNally

« The same day, the playwright Terrence McNally died at eighty-one of complications from Covid in Florida. "Rage for Terrence McNally," thundered the headline of the obituary in the New Yorker, which focused on McNally's role as a chronicler of gay life and HIV. "Another decade, another plague. McNally deserved better. So do we all." It would fall to other publications to note that McNally had suffered from lung cancer and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. »

Sur l'hystérie médiatique et le New York Times

Doctors Fall Sick and Panic Rises on Virus Front Lines" captured the tone: "' I feel like we're all just being sent to slaughter,' said Thomas Riley, a nurse at Jacobi Medical Center in the Bronx, who has contracted the virus, along with his husband." (Only much later in the article did the reporter note that Mr. Riley and his husband began to recover from their Covid infections within days of becoming ill.) 16 The last paragraph of the article—what reporters call the kicker, often a pithy summary—quoted a nurse saying, "We all think we're screwed."

The story carried a stunning headline: "' The Other Option Is Death': New York Starts Sharing of Ventilators." It called the move "a desperate measure that could help alleviate a shortage of the critical breathing machines." 18 Only near the end of the article did the Times acknowledge the reality that "the hospital has not yet run out of ventilators." In fact, the hospital had used the shared ventilators as an experiment to see if sharing would be possible. A total of six patients were placed on three ventilators for two days each. »

Sur l'hystérie médiatique et les predications apocalyptiques

« On March 24, Molly Jong-Fast, a Brooklyn writer with hundreds of thousands of followers, predicted that between 2 and 7 percent of Americans, or twenty-three million people, would die of the virus. (She has since deleted the tweet.) 23 Dr. Tom Frieden, the former head of the Centers for Disease Control, wrote on March 29, "I hear sirens in NYC all day. . . . Words & tears cannot express the tragedy." 24 The peak of the Twitter panic arguably came on April 6, when Mark Levine—who wasn't just a New York City councilman but the chair of the Health Committee—warned that the city was about to bury corpses in its parks. "Soon we'll start 'temporary interment.' This likely will be done by using a NYC park for burials (yes you read that right)," he tweeted. 25 "Trenches will be dug for 10 caskets in a line."

Sur l'hystérie médiatique et Trump

« By late March, the fear and anger were aimed as much at Trump as the virus itself. The narratives were intertwined. The virus will devastate us. The president has failed us. The most apocalyptic predictions nearly all came from people on the left. Some of them had warned against anti-Chinese hysteria in January and February and downplayed the threat of the virus. Now they felt differently. »

« Marco Rubio chided journalists for their apparent “glee & delight” in the rising coronavirus case count. »

« But his most embarrassing gaffe came at an April 23 press conference, when he suggested rather incoherently that ultraviolet light or a disinfectant might cure Covid: Whether it’s ultraviolet or just very powerful light . . . supposing you brought the light inside the body, which you can do either through the skin or in some other way, and I think you said you’re going to test that, too. It sounds interesting. And then I see the disinfectant, where it knocks it out in a minute. One minute. And is there a way we can do something like that, by injection inside or almost a cleaning. Because you see it gets in the lungs, and it does a tremendous number on the lungs. »

« Yet even as the media shrieked, physicians were warning that a shortage of the devices wasn’t the problem. Even if the ventilators were needed, and it was not clear they would be, the bottleneck would be in training enough doctors, nurses, and respiratory therapists to run them safely.

Within weeks, it would be clear that the ventilator shortage was mythical. By April 5, states on the West Coast offered to send extra ventilators to New York—a step their governors would never have taken had they believed their own hospitals might need the machines. 44 By April 15, New York itself was shipping out ventilators to other states. 45 A week later, the bombshell Northwell Health study in the Journal of the American Medical Association showed that ventilators had not only not been lifesavers but had also likely killed some patients. But news organizations simply ignored the fact they had been wrong about ventilators. When the ventilator shortage

Sur les taux de mortalité

In fact, by summer 2021—more than a year after the epidemic began—overall coronavirus death rates in the United States had turned out to be nearly the same as those of big Western European countries, with the exception of Germany. The death rate in the United States was slightly lower than in Italy, slightly higher than in Britain, Spain, or France. Those countries had slightly older populations. But the United States had higher rates of morbid obesity, a major risk factor. The death rates suggested that Trump's policies hadn't made much difference either way.

Finding healthy people under fifty who have died of Covid is rare. Finding such people under the age of thirty is nearly impossible. The flu is more dangerous. In reality, the virus posed only a minor risk to most people. Covid wasn't truly a threat to society—as opposed to a danger to some elderly and vulnerable people. »

« Ferguson had changed his view on lockdowns, too. "We clearly cannot lock down the country for a year," he told the committee. In fact, "in three or four weeks' time" he expected "to replace the current regime [lockdown]." But even without a prolonged quarantine, Ferguson now predicted the number of people who would die from Covid in Britain "would probably be unlikely to exceed about 20,000." Up to two-thirds of those people were so sick they might have died by the end of 2020 in any case, he said. 6 Not 500,000. Not 250,000. Not 100,000. Twenty thousand. Ferguson had just reduced his death estimates for the coronavirus—the same estimates that barely a week before had shocked the world into lockdowns—by more than 90 percent. The testimony generated a few articles in British newspapers. "UK has enough intensive care units for coronavirus, expert predicts," the New Scientist reported. "Two thirds of coronavirus victims may have died this year anyway, government adviser says," the Telegraph explained. But no one in the United States seemed to notice or care about what Ferguson had said. »

Sur le modèle de l'IHME

« The IHME model. IHME stood for Institute for Health Metrics and Evaluation, "an independent population health research center" at the University of Washington. Like Imperial College and many other coronavirus players, IHME took lots of money from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation. In 2017, the foundation had given the institute a $ 279 million grant, the largest donation in the history of the University of Washington. Now IHME was playing the same role in the United States as Imperial College had in Britain. On March 26, IHME began releasing hair-raising forecasts about the number of coronavirus patients who would be hospitalized, need intensive care, or die.

New York also relied heavily on the IHME models, which showed the city and state would soon be desperately short of hospital beds. 4 On March 30, IHME forecast that the state would have a shortage of almost sixty thousand hospital beds, including ten thousand intensive care beds, within ten days. 5 What no one seemed to notice as these terrifying reports flooded out was that IHME's predictions were wrong. Completely wrong. »

« Over and over, I found massive discrepancies between the number of hospitalized patients Cuomo reported on a given day and the number for that day in the model. For example, on April 3, 2020, IHME said that on April 3 (that same day) New York would have 61,000 hospitalized Covid patients, including 11,500 in intensive care. In reality, the state had 14,810 coronavirus patients, including 3,731 in intensive care. In other words, the IHME model was reporting the number of people hospitalized in New York on April 3 at four times the actual number of patients. And remember, IHME hadn't made this model years or even months earlier. It had released the model barely a week before.

Each day, I made similar updates. As shocking to me as the model's errors was the fact that IHME did not seem to care. The errors piled up day by day. The modelers supposedly drew on real-world data to make their predictions—so how come they couldn't even get the actual numbers right? In their world—the alternative reality of their model—more than fifty thousand coronavirus patients had already overrun New York's hospitals by early April. Each day the tide of untreated patients grew. In the real world, the hospitals were stressed but coping. The field hospitals remained nearly empty. The fact that New York had locked down didn't explain the model's failure, either. The model had been released after the lockdown began, and it explicitly took the effects of social distancing into account in its predictions. The final straw for me came on April 5. IHME had promised it would revise its model by Saturday, April 4. The revision didn't come. I assumed the institute was making drastic changes after its failures. And when IHME finally put out its new version late Sunday night, it did show significantly lower estimates of deaths and hospitalizations for future dates. But the current-day numbers were still wrong. The revised model said New York had about twenty-four thousand hospitalized patients that day, when the real number was under sixteen thousand. The modelers were still making basic errors. How could we possibly trust their predictions if they did not care enough to get the known facts right?

Meanwhile, academics on Twitter were worried not that the IHME models were too pessimistic but that they were too hopeful. "My personal impression [of the model] is that it's extremely optimistic," Carl Bergstrom, a biologist at the University of Washington, tweeted on March 28. »

Sur Fox News

« Producers for Tucker Carlson, Sean Hannity, and Laura Ingraham were soon inviting me on. To be clear, no one at Fox ever suggested what I should say during interviews. In fact, I clearly made Hannity uncomfortable when I told him on April 10 that "kids, children, almost anybody under 30 is at no risk from this, no serious risk from this virus," before quickly adding, "I'm not saying it can never happen." Yes, the public health misinformation campaign to hide the real age-stratified risks of the virus had been so successful that even Sean Hannity believed it. »

Sur les confinements aux USA / LA et Rhode Island

« Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies arrested a man for ignoring the state's stay-at-home order—while he was paddleboarding alone on the ocean. 3 An April 7, 2020, article in the Tampa Bay Times captured the madness: "They called the police on homeless people standing outside a Mobil in Gibsonton, and because they saw people shake hands at Petrol Mart in Thonotosassa. Someone called the cops on a Michael's craft store for being open, and on employees at a jewelry store on Dale Mabry not standing six feet apart. Someone called about a lone man selling flowers on the side of the road. Another said that a neighbor had opened his home gym up to the neighborhood." Worse, although the police for the most part did not want to be involved, politicians encouraged the trend. Cities and states set up tip lines and websites, asking people to inform on one another and on businesses that tried to stay open. "Snitches get rewards," Los Angeles mayor Eric Garcetti told his city's residents. "We want to thank you for turning folks in."

Rhode Island actually set up a license plate checkpoint on I-95, the main highway on the East Coast, so that state police could stop people with New York plates. It also sent National Guard members to knock on doors "to inform any New Yorkers who may have come to the state that they must self-quarantine for 14 days."

Exceptions included grocery stores, gas stations, and, of course, Target and Walmart, which wound up with a huge advantage over smaller retailers that had to close. Liquor stores were generally also allowed to stay open, in recognition of the grim reality that withdrawal could be lethal for late-stage alcoholics.

The iPhone mobility data for early April showed that movement in the United States had plunged about 60 percent compared to a few weeks before. That drop wasn't quite as much as the 80 percent decline in Italy, but it was still unprecedented. »

Sur l'hystérie médiatique et la peur

« Media outlets at every level did everything possible to stoke fear. "Can Coronavirus Survive in Your Refrigerator?" the San Francisco

NBC affiliate asked on April 1, in a story that was not intended as an April Fool's parody. "Here's What a Renowned Scientist Told Us.... Before you put the latest round of groceries in your refrigerator, take a few minutes to disinfect all items."

On March 27, the New York Times began a series called "Those We've Lost," which would last more than a year. After September 11, the Times had run a series called "Portraits of Grief," with the goal of memorializing everyone who had died in those attacks. It ultimately covered more than 2,400 people. "Those We've Lost" aimed to give the same treatment to Covid victims. Even the Times acknowledged that covering a respiratory virus like a terrorist attack didn't make much sense: "This time there was no finite number of the dead. No geographical point united them. Their backgrounds were of infinite variety. They did not die all at once on a bright blue morning." 10 Nonetheless, theTimes decided to move forward, hoping "to convey the human toll of Covid-19" in a way it had never done for any other illness or cause of death—not drug overdose or suicide or heart disease or cancer. It would run obituaries of people who had died of the coronavirus, not for a day or a two, but forever. The effect was both to privilege people who had died of Covid, making their deaths more meaningful than others, and also to make the epidemic seem far worse than it was. More than ten thousand Americans die every week of heart disease. If the media reported all of their stories, fears of cardiac death would surely skyrocket. On Twitter, the tone was even more hysterical. "We're literally all in hiding," Dr. Craig Spencer—the director of Global Health in Emergency Medicine at Columbia University Medical Center—wrote in mid-April. "From a virus. That will kill many of us. If it finds us. In a shop. Or on a beach. In NYC. Or Oklahoma."

By early April 2020, Americans said they believed they had a 25 percent chance of dying from the coronavirus if they were infected. That was about one hundred times their actual risk. 11 While their perceived risk fell slightly over time, it remained around 12 percent until the poll ended in June 2021. Women, who were less likely to die than men, believed their risk was higher. Even more stunning, people under forty said they believed their risk of death was about one in five. For most of them, that estimate was off by a factor of at least ten thousand.

Just as individuals came under extraordinary pressure to stay home, the handful of states that had not yet shut by late March faced a torrent of criticism from reporters. Not coincidentally, they all had Republican governors. Florida took the most criticism, even after its governor Ron DeSantis imposed a lockdown, effective April 1. On that day, Jennifer Rubin, a Washington Post columnist, published a piece headlined "We Must Hold Politicians Responsible for Deaths They Could Have Prevented." Because DeSantis had delayed closing his state, he would be "morally—if not legally—responsible for hundreds if not thousands of preventable deaths," Rubin wrote.

Nearly as disturbing as the city itself, though, was the response I received on Twitter when I posted the pictures I had taken. "My city in ruins," I wrote, a reference to a Bruce Springsteen song about September 11 (its actual title is "My City of Ruins.") The full tweet: My city in ruins: here is New York, empty and stricken and silent, not merely from a virus that has killed a tiny fraction of its citizens—mostly, sadly, elderly and frail—but from the panic that came before and continues. Come on, rise up, come on, rise up, Springsteen sings. But the liberal intelligentsia who set the tone on Twitter disagreed with that message. They lit into me for suggesting that the largest city in the United States needed to begin to live again. "Fuck you, you weasel," wrote Angus Johnston, a professor at the City University of New York with almost seventy thousand followers. 18 Chase Mitchell, a writer for Jimmy Fallon, crowed of the empty city: "best it's ever looked." 19 months, the next 18 years, or forever. . . . There are only political and cultural barriers, barriers we must overcome. . . .'" 20 Similarly, Michael Hiltzik, a left-leaning columnist for the Los Angeles Times, wrote in May that the coronavirus could boost plans for universal basic income—government-provided welfare payments for all. 21(In October, actress and liberal activist Jane Fonda would express an even blunter take: "I just think Covid is God's gift to the left." 22) »

The Times Square comments reflected a powerful impulse on the far left to use Covid not just to hurt Donald Trump's reelection chances but to press for broad societal changes. The desire was evident from the beginning of the crisis. No one expressed it more clearly than Gregg Gonsalves, an associate professor at Yale University, epidemiologist, and AIDS activist. On March 23, Gonsalves tweeted: "As a friend of mine said this weekend: 'There are no natural or social laws preventing us from remaking the economy for the next 18

Sur les géants de la tech et les confinements

« The irony didn't end there. Some of the world's largest and most profitable companies also had reason to hope that lockdowns continued. Giant chains such as Walmart profited from government-mandated shutdowns of their competitors. But even those gains paled compared to the riches won by big technology and social media companies—Apple, Facebook, Google, Microsoft, and especially Amazon.

Within days, the tech companies had put their might behind lockdowns. By early April, they were running aggressive advertising campaigns to normalize social distancing and quarantines. "We're never lost if we can find each other," a Facebook ad proclaimed. 23 "There is so much peace to be found in people's faces. I love people's faces"—especially if those faces were viewed on a Facebook page, presumably. An Apple ad called "Creativity Goes On" featured a hand holding a cupcake up to a screen where a man opened his mouth to eat it—virtually. As piano music played softly in the background, Oprah proclaimed, "The pandemic has the possibility to bring us together in ways none of us would have been able to predict or expect." 24 Google took a more direct approach in an ad called "Thank You Healthcare Workers." As the usual images flowed—a mother and young child pressing their faces to either side of a glass door, people clapping from balconies to show their support—the company proclaimed, "To everyone sacrificing so much to save so many, thank you. Help save lives by staying home." 25 All three ads made sure to meld use of their companies' products with the supposedly charitable and apolitical stay-at-home messaging. "More than ever, people are searching," the Google ad opened, before "How to help" was typed into a Google search bar. The message was clear: depend on us to get through this. »

Sur les données disponibles

« Yet a few of us looking closely at the data—not at what public health authorities or governors or reporters were saying about the data but at the data itself—could see two crucial facts emerging as early as the first week of April 2020. First, Covid was far less threatening than it had originally seemed. Yes, it could be deadly, especially to the elderly and people with severe comorbidities such as kidney disease. But it would not overwhelm the medical system, much less all of society. Second, the lockdowns, at least as the United States and Europe conducted them, were useless, if not counterproductive. »

Sur le cas de la Floride

« As of April 3, Florida's hospitals had about 25,000 beds and 2,200 intensive care beds available. Hospitals were about 60 percent full—below their typical occupancy rates. In the next couple of days they emptied further, as Florida's hospitals readied themselves for a surge of Covid patients. The surge never came. On April 12, the hospitals had more space available than they had had on April 3—28,000 empty beds and 2,300 ICU beds. On April 16, the figures were almost exactly the same. 8 The plateau as of April 16 was crucial, because at that point Florida was more than two weeks past the start of its lockdown. If infections had really spread in late March, before the lockdown, the hospitals and ICU wards would have filled by April 16. Instead, they were almost half empty. How wrong were the predictions? Florida's cases peaked around April 8—at 1,132 a day. Cases. Not hospitalizations or deaths. As for deaths, on April 21, the state had 42, about one-sixth the number IHME had predicted for that day. Further, deaths did not rise steeply and fall, as the IHME had predicted, but instead remained mostly flat for months. By early May, even mainstream reporters could not ignore the fact that Florida had escaped the doom they'd predicted. »

Sur la courbe de l'épidémie et les confinements

« But in reality, exponential growth suddenly stopped in mid-March, a week before the lockdown went into effect on March 22. That's why additional hospitalizations in New York City slowed so quickly after March 25. We still cannot be sure why infections slowed so suddenly. But the one thing we can know for sure is that lockdowns do not deserve the credit. The slowdown occurred before they could have had any impact. »

Sur New York, Sage, le Royaume-Uni et les confinements

« But the models were wrong in another way about New York, as well. According to their predictions, new hospitalizations and deaths should have fallen as quickly as they rose. Instead they lingered on into May. Why? Because infections remained stubbornly high well into April, instead of crashing after the lockdowns were imposed. That fact may seem counterintuitive. But on March 4, 2020, the British SAGE committee was warned that general "social distancing"—a soft lockdown that shut most schools and businesses—would actually increase infections inside households by 25 percent. The harsher alternative of "whole household isolation" could cause those infections to double. 15 In this case, SAGE's analysis proved prescient. Less than three weeks later, the British moved ahead with an extremely strict lockdown, the functional equivalent of "household isolation" for the entire country. And the United Kingdom did not see a quick end to its crisis. After peaking around 950 daily in mid-April, deaths in Britain remained above 400 a day a month later (again, using the seven-day average). Italy, France, and Spain had similarly strict lockdowns and similarly long first waves. »

« In reality, lockdowns likely worsen intrafamilial transmission in the short run. They force younger people who may have been infected to stay home with parents and grandparents, who are at greater risk. On March 30, at a press conference in Geneva that should have received far more attention than it did, Dr. Mike Ryan explained the dynamic clearly. Ryan, the epidemiologist who led the World Health Organization's Covid team, warned that lockdowns simply moved the spread of the coronavirus into homes and apartments: "At the moment in most parts of the world, due to lockdown, most of the transmission that's actually happening in many countries now is happening in the household at family level. In some senses, transmission has been taken off the streets and pushed back into family units." 16 Ryan then went a step further, advocating for the forcible removal of people infected with Covid from their homes even if they had no symptoms: "Now we need to go and look in families to find those people who may be sick and remove them and isolate them in a, in a safe and dignified manner." Only countries that removed and isolated people with Covid could "transition from movement restrictions and shutdowns and stay-at-home orders," Ryan said. »

Sur New York et les infection à la maison

« Maybe the most stunning example of the gap between policymakers' understanding and reality came on May 6. At his daily press conference, Governor Cuomo reported that a survey of a thousand newly hospitalized coronavirus patients in New York over a three-day period had found that two-thirds of them had been infected at home. Cuomo sounded genuinely baffled by what had happened. "Sixty-six percent of the people were at home, which is shocking to us," he said. "We thought maybe they were taking public transportation… but actually no, because these people were literally at home." Eighty-four percent stayed home almost every day. »

Sur l'inefficacité des confinements et sur l'origine des infections

« Lockdowns did not change that dynamic, and they may even have increased hospital transmission in the short run. The media hysteria around them sent people to emergency rooms, putting people who didn't have the coronavirus in close contact with those who did. »

« Worst of all, by early April 2020 we had strong evidence the coronavirus essentially did not spread outdoors—and thus that making people stay inside was not just pointless but counterproductive. On April 7, 2020, Chinese researchers published a paper tracking more than 7,300 Covid cases in China—about two-thirds of all the cases outside Hubei province in January and early February. They pinpointed 318 "outbreaks," which they defined as 3 or more related cases, totaling 1,245 infections. Almost 80 percent of the outbreaks occurred in homes, while one-third took place on buses or other transport. »

« Ultraviolet light, which is far stronger outdoors than inside, kills most viruses, including the coronavirus. A June 2020 paper found that winter-strength "simulated sunlight" killed 90 percent of coronavirus particles within twenty minutes. Summer-strength sunlight did so within eight minutes. 19 Simple common sense suggested that outdoor transmission could hardly be frequent, given that a minimum number of viral particles is necessary for infection and that even the slightest breeze will disperse them. By May 2021, even the New York Times acknowledged, "There is not a single documented Covid infection anywhere in the world from causal outdoor interactions, such as walking past someone on a street or eating at a nearby table." 20 Yet the efforts to shame people into staying home continued through 2020 and even into 2021. The state of Oregon warned: "Don't Accidentally Kill Someone. Stay Home. Save Lives." 21 In a series of videos, Chicago mayor Lori Lightfoot strummed a guitar and sang, "Stay home, save lives," then told a friend, "You're not bored, you're saving lives." 22 On Twitter, Jimmy Kimmel told his millions of followers, "# StayHome" and proclaimed, "# JimmyKimmelLiveFromHisHouse." »

« Worst of all were the closed playgrounds. With schools shut, denying kids playtime outdoors added insult to injury. Police tape cordoned off swings and slides. Basketball hoops were removed. In Venice Beach, California, the Los Angeles Department of Parks and Recreation filled the ramps and half-pipes at a skateboard park with sand. »

« Further, New York's strategy of forcing nursing homes to accept transfers of Covid patients from hospitals caused unnecessary deaths. This decision may have been the most important policy mistake that resulted from the IHME predictions. Because the IHME and other forecasts vastly overestimated the number of Covid patients who would need hospitalizations, New York wanted to make sure that recovering patients were quickly moved from hospitals to make room for new patients—so the state forced nursing homes to accept them. But nursing homes were ill-equipped either to treat Covid patients or to prevent them from infecting other residents. Newsday, a newspaper on New York's Long Island, explained the problem on March 29, only days after the state put the policy in place: New York State's nursing homes cannot reject newly released hospital patients solely because they tested positive for the novel coronavirus, a new state directive says. The order raised concern in an industry whose elderly and frail residents have the lowest survival rate for the disease.... Hospitals are under pressure to discharge patients, including ones stricken with the coronavirus but who don't need ventilators, to open up beds for what Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo says will be a surge of thousands more cases in the next two to four weeks. However, nursing homes, whose workforce is struggling with problems like those in hospitals—arranging child care and managing a shortage of supplies like protective garb—fear their facilities will be overwhelmed [emphasis added]. 34 The industry's fears were correct. A study would later find that in New York "COVID-positive new admissions . . . were associated with several hundred and possibly more than 1,000 additional resident deaths." 35 On May 10, New York reversed its order and prohibited hospitals from sending Covid-positive patients to homes. But by then the damage had been done. Other states, including New Jersey, followed New York's lead—and they, too, suffered terrible outbreaks in nursing homes. In a single large nursing home in New Jersey, seventy residents died in weeks—with seventeen of the dead stuffed in body bags and left in a storage room until police found them. 36 In all, almost eight thousand nursing home residents and staff died in the state, the worst per capita death total anywhere. 37 In contrast, Florida and some other states always prohibited hospitals from sending elderly patients back to nursing homes until they tested negative for Covid. Florida even created National Guard "strike teams" to provide frequent Covid testing for nursing home residents. »

Sur la classification « morts du Covid » aux USA - Sur le CDC

« As the epidemic in the United States accelerated in March, the Centers for Disease Control muddied the rules for counting Covid deaths. The CDC explicitly told medical examiners and physicians to use loose criteria when they labeled deaths as Covid-related. On March 24, 2020, the CDC issued a one-page bulletin introducing a new International Classification of Diseases (ICD) code for Covid deaths. All death certificates contain basic information on the manner of death—whether someone has died from a homicide, suicide, accident, or natural causes. The certificates also contain the cause of death, such as a heart attack or cancer. Those causes are represented by ICD codes. The codes begin with a letter to represent the broadest category of disease, followed by numbers representing specifics. For example, ICD categories A and B are infectious and parasitic diseases. Within the general category of infectious disease, A00.0 is the code for cholera in particular. The codes are largely the same worldwide. The standardization helps governments and researchers in different countries compare death rates from different illnesses. Hospitals, physicians, and insurance companies also use ICD codes on treatment and billing records. ICD codes are the universal language of medicine. In its March 24 bulletin, the CDC said the new code for Covid cases would be U07.1. (The U code was used for "provisional assignment of new diseases.") But the CDC didn't just introduce a new code for a new cause of death; the Centers for Disease Control specifically encouraged people who coded death certificates to use the U07.1 code in any case where they suspected Covid. A confirmed laboratory test for the illness was not necessary. "The rules for coding and selection of the underlying cause of death are expected to result in COVID19 being the underlying cause more often than not," the alert explained. It went on to make clear that deaths of people who did not have a positive Sars-Cov-2 test could be reported as Covid-related: Should 'COVID-19' be reported on the death certificate only with a confirmed test? COVID-19 should be reported on the death certificate for all decedents where the disease caused or is assumed to have caused or contributed to death [emphasis added]. 3 The Centers for Disease Control had created a double standard for Covid death coding—a double standard that most states quickly adopted. Medical examiners and states had the discretion to call deaths Covid-related without positive tests. As the state of Virginia explained, a case investigator could classify a death as due to Covid "through medical record review, talking with the patient's healthcare provider, or talking with their family." 4 At the same time, a positive test for Sars-Cov-2 meant a death would be counted as Covid-related, even if the death certificate did not mention Covid. To make sure they caught all cases, states matched death certificates to registries of people who had had positive Covid tests. Any person on both would be added to the list of Covid deaths. In some states, the death had to occur within a month of the test. In others it could be two months or more. For example, Arizona included anyone "who died of a heart or lung condition who received a positive COVID-19 test within 60 days," according to the public health director of the state's largest county. 5 The rule led to absurdities. Some states, such as Arizona, at least tried to ensure that they screened out victims of suicide, homicide, or drug overdoses6 who had had positive Covid tests. 7 Other states included even those in their count of Covid deaths. Younger people were especially likely to be misclassified as dying from Covid, the CDC reported in a March 2021 paper. »

Sur le nombre de morts du Covid aux USA - Sur la surmortalité et ses raisons

« That said, Covid clearly did kill hundreds of thousands of Americans in 2020. The reason we can be so sure is that about a half-million more Americans died in 2020 than 2019. A total of 2,854,000 Americans died in 2019,17 compared to 3,358,000 in 2020.18 The difference between the two years—roughly half a million more deaths in 2020—was generally reported as the number of "excess deaths." In reality, the excess was probably slightly lower. The number of deaths rises over time as the population grows and ages. Improvements in medical care can only keep people alive for so long. Between 2009 and 2019, deaths in the United States rose about forty thousand per year on average. We will never know how many people would have died in 2020 if Covid had not existed, of course. The CDC used a relatively low baseline, assuming that deaths would not have increased much over 2019. In reality, the "natural" year-over-year increase could have been as high as 100,000 deaths in 2020, to make up for relatively small increases in deaths in 2018 and 2019. In that case, a better baseline would be 2.95 million American deaths, not the 2.85 million the CDC used. Further, part of the 2020 increase came from deaths caused by lockdowns. Deaths of despair surged. Rising overdoses were the most obvious example. The number of Americans who died from overdoses rose by at least twenty thousand in 2020, to nearly one hundred thousand, the highest total ever. Homicides and traffic deaths also rose. Other deaths occurred when people delayed medical care because they feared going to hospitals and catching the virus—though those are much harder to quantify. (In April 2020, the chief medical officer of Ontario, a Canadian province with fourteen million people, reported that thirty-five people had died in the month after Ontario's lockdown began from delayed cardiac surgeries alone. »

« Economists and epidemiologists have a way to quantify this idea: "life-years lost." They measure "life-years lost" by figuring out how many years the average person had left to live when he died of a certain disease. Then they multiply that figure by the number of overall deaths. Traffic accidents and drug overdoses and AIDS, which kill mostly younger people, account for a disproportionate number of life-years lost. COVID ranks on the opposite end of the scale, because it kills the old and infirm far more than anyone else. In the United States in 2020, life-years lost to overdoses were likely significantly higher than those lost to Covid. »

Sur la fin des confinements dans les États Républicains et les réactions des médias

« By May, the epidemic's first wave had waned, not just in New York but nationally. Led by Georgia and Florida, big Republican-run states eased their lockdowns. The change prompted forecasts of doom from the same media outlets that had breathlessly counted deaths in New York. "Georgia's Experiment in Human Sacrifice," a headline in The Atlantic called it on April 29. "The state is about to find out how many people need to lose their lives to shore up the economy." 1 By then, The Atlantic was distinguishing itself as the most hysterical elite media outlet of all—no small feat. Eight days before, Dana Milbank of the Washington Post had written that "Georgia Gov. Brian Kemp . . . has a bold plan to turn his state into the place to die." He added, "Several Republican governors, with Trump's encouragement, are racing to reopen during the pandemic, using their constituents as lab rats to see what happens when you relax virus containment." 2 157 Beyond being in fantastically bad taste, Milbank's predictions were wrong. Georgia saw no increase in cases for more than a month after its lockdown ended. But the national media continued to fan panic. On May 4, the New York Times highlighted an outdated federal forecast predicting the United States could suffer three thousand Covid deaths a day by June 1. "Models Project Sharp Rise in Deaths as States Reopen," the headline read. The article starkly warned, "The numbers underscore a sobering reality: The United States has been hunkered down for the past seven weeks to try slowing the spread of the virus, but reopening the economy will make matters worse." The article predicted daily deaths would rise more than 50 percent during May. 3 In fact, they declined about 50 percent, from just under two thousand deaths on May 7 to just over one thousand three weeks later. Yet the Times never updated the prediction or acknowledged the mistake, just as it had largely ignored the failure of its predictions about ventilators and hospital overrun. »

Thirty-five thousand, sixty thousand, ninety thousand, they ground inexorably higher, and the media excitement as they approached one hundred thousand was palpable. Excitement is an ugly word, but nothing else properly describes the tone. "When Will US Reach 100,000 Deaths? After a Horrific April, Grim Milestone Could Hit in May," USA Today predicted on May 1.7 Some outlets added a dash of anti-Trump seasoning. "Trump, Maskless, Goes Golfing as Coronavirus Death Toll Nears 100,000," Vanity Fair observed. "Determined not to let a pandemic ruin his holiday weekend, the president was seen golfing with three partners." 8 On Saturday, May 23, determined to ensure no other outlet would get credit for calling the milestone first, the New York Times jumped the gun. The paper devoted its entire front page to a list of one thousand Covid victims. The headline read, "U.S. DEATHS NEAR 100,000, AN INCALCULABLE LOSS." The words were emotionally arresting—and profoundly illogical. After all, what was the death count if not a precise calculation of the loss? Somehow, the article did not mention the more than one million Americans who had died from other causes in the first five months of 2020. Their deaths didn't matter. »

Sur les medias et Donald Trump - sur les masques

« In 2020, the world was quieter. The media could devote its attention to the coronavirus. The coronavirus, Donald Trump, and the presidential election—three stories that could not be separated. As the screaming over ventilators and testing faded, masks became the media's newest and most irritating obsession. Reporters spent endless time and energy arguing in favor of masks and mask mandates—and against anyone who did not want to wear them. In truth, standard surgical masks do essentially nothing to control the spread of respiratory viruses such as Sars-Cov-2 or influenza. Cloth masks or bandannas are even more useless and may even be counterproductive. »

« The authors of the February meta-analysis looked for research all the way back to 1946 (so they didn't include the 1919 paper from Dr. W. H. Kellogg of the California State Board of Health that found masks to be useless in stopping the Spanish flu). They found ten papers. Most showed no evidence that masks worked. A couple found a slightly positive effect. A couple were slightly negative. Overall, the studies found no benefit from masks. The authors explained their findings clearly: "We did not find evidence that surgical-type face masks are effective in reducing laboratory-confirmed influenza transmission, either when worn by infected persons (source control) or by persons in the general community to reduce their susceptibility." The meta-analysis did not include a 2015 randomized trial that examined cloth and surgical mask use by Vietnamese health care workers. That study had even more worrisome findings. 5 Researchers found health care workers wearing cloth masks—often handmade—actually had more flu-like infections than those wearing medical masks and than a control group, some of whom didn't wear masks at all. Worse, the authors couldn't determine whether the higher infection levels resulted because surgical masks offered protection—or cloth masks actually increased infection rates. They noted that cloth masks blocked only 3 percent of airborne particles in laboratory tests. Health care workers "should not use cloth masks as protection against respiratory infection," the authors wrote. »

« As the WHO said in a January 29, 2020, bulletin, "[For] individuals without respiratory symptoms… a medical mask is not required, as no evidence is available on its usefulness to protect non-sick persons." 12 Public health officials emphasized that same advice as the epidemic took off. Including the most important public health official of all. On March 8, Anthony Fauci told 60 Minutes: “There’s no reason to be walking around with a mask. When you’re in the middle of an outbreak, wearing a mask might make people feel a little bit better and it might even block a droplet, but it’s not providing the perfect protection that people think that it is. And, often, there are unintended consequences—people keep fiddling with the mask and they keep touching their face.” »

« As late as April 1, physicians writing in the New England Journal of Medicine—the most prestigious health care publication in the United States—explained, “We know that wearing a mask outside health care facilities offers little, if any, protection from infection.... In many cases, the desire for widespread masking is a reflexive reaction to anxiety over the pandemic.” »

« In fact, when Danish researchers ran a trial on masks and the coronavirus later in the spring, they found that masks did not work. The trial was well designed and included more than six thousand people, a very large sample—larger than the samples in all the studies the researchers had reviewed for the CDC meta-analysis in February combined. 18 But the pressure to encourage mask-wearing was so heavy that the scientists couldn’t find a journal to publish their findings for several months. »

« As Fauci said at a January 28 press conference, “The driver of outbreaks is always a symptomatic person.” 23 The logic behind this theory was simple. People with higher viral loads were more likely to be sick—and also to exhale more virus with each breath. Cases of presymptomatic transmission were more common, but still rare. »

« The Washington Post went a step further, warning in September, "Some Covid-19 rule-breakers could be narcissists, experts say. Here's how to approach them"—as if people who'd decided to keep their faces uncovered were inherently dangerous. The article offered strategies to approach those awful people. Craig Malkin, a psychologist, suggested telling them how important they were: "For example, [say,] 'You can make the difference between life and death because we're all in this together.'" "The less significant they feel in all of this, the more they're going to have to pound their chests and push back," Malkin said. »

« "A new study by researchers from Brazil has found that people who are unconcerned with adhering to measures to mitigate the Covid-19 spread tend to manifest higher levels of traits tied to antisocial personality disorder, which is also known as sociopathy." »

Sur les conséquences des confinements - sur les écoles - sur l'enseignement à distance

« In the United States, almost thirty million children depend on schools for free or low-price lunches. 2 For kids at high risk of abuse and neglect, school can be even more important. Teachers are among the main reporters of abuse to child welfare agencies. They may be the only adults who have the chance to check each day that children are not being hurt by their parents or caregivers. »

« Instead of taking the problems seriously, the New York Times and Washington Post ran vacuous defenses of online school. In May, the Times ran an op-ed by a thirteen-year-old New York City girl headlined "Why I'm Learning More with Distance Learning Than I Do in School: I'm Thirteen Years Old. I Don't Miss the Other Kids Who Talk Out of Turn, Disrespect Teachers and Hit One Another." 13 The piece should have been viewed as an indictment of New York's school system, not an endorsement of online learning. The Post offered Jeb Bush telling parents, "It's time to embrace distance learning—and not just because of the coronavirus." 14 Many other countries responded to the problems by reopening quickly, especially kindergartens and elementary schools. »

Sur le Covid et les enfants

« In May, Chinese researchers reported that sixty-five out of sixty-eight children infected with Sars-Cov-2 “were household contacts of adults whose symptoms developed earlier.” 18 The authors added, “There has been no evidence revealing the virus was transmitted from children to others.” Data from the Netherlands, which had sophisticated contact tracing, showed the same. 19 The most likely explanation was that younger kids beat the virus so fast and had such low viral loads that they were unlikely to spread it. Further, as more children were exposed, hospital and death reports showed they were at even lower risk than scientists had first believed. Kids almost never died from the coronavirus. Not one of the nine million people under eighteen in California had died of Covid-19 as of mid-July. 20 The unfortunate children who did die often had severe underlying health problems. A British report in 2021 would show that only twenty-five of the sixty-one British children and teens who were reported to have died of Covid before February 2021 actually had died of the virus. And of those twenty-five, thirteen had “complex neurodisabilities.” Only six of them had not had what the researchers referred to as a “life-limiting” or other chronic condition. 21 In other words, the odds that a healthy British child or teen would die of Covid during the first year of the epidemic were about one in two million. On May 2, 2020, Dr. Nick Coatsworth, the Australian deputy chief medical officer, wrote, “I have examined all of the available evidence from Australia and around the world and, as it stands, it does not support avoiding classroom learning as a means to control Covid-19.” »

Sur les dangers du Covid pour les enfants - sur l’Hystérie médiatique

« On April 25, theWashington Post published an article headlined “New DC Hospital Numbers Suggest Kids Do Face Some Risk of Coronavirus Hospitalization.” 23 The word “some” was doing heavy lifting in that headline. As I explained in a Twitter thread, the story reported that 105 people under 25—not just kids, young adults too—had come to Children's National Hospital, the leading pediatric medical center in a region with millions of people. Of those, 28 had been hospitalized, fewer than one a day. Of them, 7 had needed intensive care. None had died. And most of the serious cases were in people over 15. »

« Beginning in May, the New York Times published more than a dozen articles on the "post-Covid inflammatory syndrome" that was supposedly targeting kids. "Children Are Falling Ill with a Baffling Ailment Related to Covid-19," a front-page article on May 5 explained. 25 Article after article followed. The inflammatory illness could supposedly affect even children who had suffered only mild Covid infections. It appeared similar to Kawasaki syndrome, a rare childhood illness that also followed infections. But the Covid syndrome often targeted the heart, with devastating results. As usual, the rest of the media quickly followed the Times's lead. The real story was different. Severe cases of the syndrome—also called MIS-C, multisystem inflammatory syndrome-children—were rare. Other viruses, including the flu, were known to cause similar problems. And physicians had quickly figured out how to treat the syndrome with steroids. On June 3, a Texas television station reported that Dr. Coburn Allen, a pediatric infectious disease expert at the University of Texas, said "people do not need to worry too much about more people contracting MIS-C because many children have responded well to treatment. 'We've had enough experience now to know that, in general, most of these kids do fine,' Dr. Allen said." 26 The British Kawasaki Disease Foundation went further. In a statement on May 15, it blasted "continuing sensationalist press pieces causing deep worry for families." »

« They began to emphasize the risk to teachers, ignoring the reality that a study out of Sweden, where schools had remained open, had shown teachers were at no more risk than the average adult. 29 As the Swedish Public Health Agency reported on July 14, "Compared to other professions, the relative risk among teachers in day care, primary and secondary school were close to one, indicating no increased risk of exposure or infection." Later studies showed that teachers were actually safer with schools open, because children were so unlikely to spread the virus. The same paper also compared children in Sweden to those in Finland, where schools had remained closed, and found no difference in infection rates between the two countries. »

Sur la fermeture des écoles et sur les États Democrats

« Yet the growing evidence base and international reopenings didn't matter in the United States. By late June, many cities and states, especially those run by Democratic mayors and governors, backed away from in-person schooling for the 2020–2021 school year. »

Sur les dangers des vaccins

« In the spring of 2021, I interviewed Valerie Kraimer, an Ohio woman whose teenage daughter Simone had died after being vaccinated against Covid. Valerie is a remarkable woman. She told the story of the horrific month her daughter had suffered carefully, cautiously, without drama or self-pity. Only at the end did the depth of her despair become apparent, and for a reason I hadn't expected. Simone was her only child. »

Sur la fermeture et la réouverture des écoles

« The absurdity of keeping schools closed became fully clear when districts nationwide told parents they would offer "supervised learning centers" where kids could learn online in groups. And where would the "learning centers" be? Often in schools. As a Baltimore television station explained, "15 Schools, Rec Centers to Host City Students for in-Person Virtual Learning." 44 Yes, "in-Person Virtual Learning," which would take place "in small groups led by a distance-learning proctor." In other words, children would go to school buildings and stare at computer screens while their teachers stayed home and instructed them over the internet. The only major exceptions were in a few Republican states, including Florida, where Governor Ron DeSantis had ordered schools to open in-person despite objections from the state's teachers' union. 45 In September 2020, only about one-quarter of schools nationally were open for in-person learning, according to Burbio, a private company that tracked school and local government announcements. 46 That number hardly budged during the fall. But after Joe Biden took office it rose sharply—even though the United States had far more Covid cases and deaths in January and February than in September and October. »

« By the end of the 2021 school year, the extent of the damage from online schooling was clear. In Texas, most schools—especially in rural areas—stayed open. But enough had been closed for the state's standardized tests to capture a huge gap between in-person and virtual education. The state reported in June 2021 that the number of students who met math benchmarks had fallen by 32 percentage points in districts that were more than three-quarters online. The decline was only 9 percent for districts that were less than one-quarter online. For reading benchmarks, the declines were 9 percent and 1 percent. 47 Black and Hispanic kids, who were more likely to live in troubled urban school districts, were especially hard-hit. »

Sur les mesures sanitaires dans les universités

« At Bucknell University, for example, students who traveled more than thirty miles from campus had to quarantine off campus for eight days and provide a negative test upon returning. Otherwise they were required to leave campus for the semester. »

« The University of California at Berkeley bizarrely banned students from exercising outdoors—a rule that seemed to have no purpose other than damaging students' mental health. 2 Worse, the school imposed the rule in February 2021, long after it was clear both that the coronavirus was almost never transmitted outdoors and that people of college age were at almost no risk. »

« The ugly habit of snitching also spread on campus. As the New York Times reported at the start of the 2020–2021 school year, "Colgate University sent students a memo encouraging them to report classmates who violate social-distancing guidelines and to include names so action could be taken. Similar instructions were sent out at schools across the country." 4 Some schools went further. The University of Miami paid students to walk around campus and report on people who refused to comply with mask-wearing and social-distancing rules. »

Sur le confinement au Canada

« Canada had significantly fewer Covid deaths than the United States, 221 and almost no deaths under fifty, but a more severe lockdown. It also had an even faster rise in overdose deaths. The Canadian government reported in June 2021 that Canada had suffered 5,148 opioid overdose deaths from April to December 2020. That figure represented an 89 percent increase compared to the same period in 2019, and the equivalent of about 70,000 annual deaths in the United States. (Canada's figure did not include deaths from cocaine, methamphetamine, or other drugs.) »

Sur les conséquences des confinements aux USA

« With 1.5 million people, Philadelphia reported 1,214 overdose deaths and 499 murders for the year, 12 compared to about 2,400 deaths from Covid. »

« In all, more than a quarter-million Americans died from drug overdoses, alcohol, traffic accidents, and homicides in 2020, a rise of over fifty thousand. Those deaths primarily occurred in younger people. 16 Even excluding traffic accidents, the rise in deaths of despair in people under fifty—not the total number, but the increase from 2019 to 2020—was larger than the total of seventeen thousand Covid deaths in people in the same age range in 2020. »

« The Atlantic wasn't alone. On July 20, New York magazine offered an article headlined "American Death Cult: Why Has the Republican Response to the Pandemic Been So Mind-Bogglingly Disastrous?" »

Sur la repression en Colombie

« Then, on September 9, police in Bogota killed Javier Ordoñez, a taxi driver and part-time law student whom they caught drinking after the lockdown curfew. As a reader—an American expatriate with a home in Colombia—emailed me, Ordonez "was killed by police after they confronted him for violating social distancing laws (that is the only 'crime' anyone is accusing him of)." Video showed Ordoñez pleading for his life, and his killing set off riots across Colombia. 25 Police reported that demonstrators had damaged 56 station houses and injured 147 officers. But when they wrote about the riots, major English-language outlets largely ignored the role lockdowns and economic shutdown had played in stirring them. Instead they focused on Colombians' anger at police brutality, which was real, but not the primary driver. »

Sur les tests et le CT

« In contrast, samples that turn positive at lower cycle thresholds—below 25 and especially below 20—indicate that patients have high viral loads and are at much increased risk of dying of Covid. A June 2020 paper showed that half the patients at New York–Presbyterian Hospital whose admission samples were positive at fewer than 20 cycles died. Only about 1 in 20 people whose samples required more than 32 cycles to be positive died. Even after adjusting for age and other factors, the gap remained large. Those whose samples had a cycle threshold below 25 were six times as likely to die as those whose sample had a threshold over 30.6 In other words, viral load was a crucial predictor of how sick someone was. A positive finding at 30 cycles or more, and certainly 33 or more, was a weak positive. »

« Positive tests that occurred at thresholds over 35 were even less significant. They generally did not indicate the presence of transmissible virus at all, just fragments left over from old infections. They were not exactly false positives—they were past positives. »

« The problem with the PCR tests was that high-threshold and low-threshold results, which really meant two very different things, were treated the same by health authorities. As the BBC explained in September 2020, "A person shedding a large amount of active virus, and a person with leftover fragments from an infection that's already been cleared, would receive the same—positive—test result." »

« In a May 2020 survey of self-reported long Covid patients, only 23 percent had ever had a positive Covid test. Forty-nine percent had not been tested, and the remaining 28 percent had had a negative test. »

« Up to 740,000 potential cancer cases that should have been urgently referred by GPs have been "missed" since the first lockdown, according to a damning report.

Époux de la Première Dame de Bruxelles. En d'autres termes, le mari de la cheffe du gouvernement européen. » (...)

« Et maintenant, souvenons-nous. La pandémie a commencé en Roumanie en mars 2020. Quelques mois plus tard, en décembre 2020, un médecin allemand relativement inconnu, chef d'une clinique à Hanovre, atterrit directement au conseil d'administration d'une très puissante entreprise Big Pharma aux États-Unis. Et non, il ne s'agit pas de Pfizer. Cela aurait été trop simple. Trop frappant. Dr Heiko a été transféré à l'étranger, "dans l'intérêt du service", dans une société pharmaceutique spécialisée (depuis de nombreuses années) dans la technologie bien connue de l'ARNm. C'est Orgenesis Inc. À l'époque, les spécialistes d'Orgenesis menaient des expériences pour traiter les cancers. Mais une énorme opportunité s'est présentée : la pandémie ! Ainsi, les bons gars de Pfizer ont immédiatement flairé la méga-affaire mondiale. D'ailleurs, ils avaient de l'expérience ! » (...)

Orgenesis

SSgAFunds Management, Inc. 0,34%

Geode Capital Management LLC 0,81%

Total – 4.92%

Pfizer

The Vanguard Group, Inc. 7,78%

SSgAFunds Management, Inc. 4,97%

Geode Capital Management LLC 1,78%

Total – 14.53%

Donc, si l'on se réfère aux investisseurs, les deux méga-entreprises américaines y sont liées. Les liens entre les membres du conseil d'administration des entreprises n'ont pas encore pu être vérifiés. Trop peu de temps, trop peu de ressources. Peut-être que le Parquet européen, le FBI et la justice américaine pourraient nous aider. Même si je ne parierais pas trop là-dessus. Qui aurait à y gagner, après tout ?

Le fonds d'investissement Vanguard se fait remarquer. Depuis mars 2021, Vanguard détient la plupart des actions d'un autre fonds géant, BlackRock. Les deux grands groupes financiers contrôlent presque tout à l'échelle mondiale. Fondamentalement, ils ont Big Pharma dans leur poche. En février 2020, ils figuraient parmi les plus gros actionnaires du géant GlaxoSmithKline (GSK), respectivement 7 % et 3,5 % du total. Il est presque impossible de trouver tous les propriétaires d'actions du fonds Vanguard. Mais quelques noms se démarquent, selon des sources boursières officielles : Rothschild Investment Corp., Edmond De Rothschild Holding, diverses familles comme Orsini en Italie, Bush aux États-Unis, du Pont, Morgan, Vanderbilt, Rockefeller. Y compris la famille royale britannique. Les deux fonds d'investissement mentionnés détiennent environ 90 % des institutions médiatiques aux États-Unis.

Et maintenant, revenons à l'histoire. En mars 2020, la pandémie a démarré en trombe. Avec des TAB dans la rue, même si en Roumanie les hôpitaux étaient vides. Ou tout au plus pleins d'asymptomatiques. Pfizer a signé avec Orgenesis la partie des tests scientifiques et cliniques, a breveté le projet d'ARNm avec les Allemands de BioNTech (très bons du côté de la production également), puis a mis les produits en vente. Demande énorme, fournisseur unique, urgence maximale. Personne n'a été surpris par le prix de 15 à 18 euros la dose, lorsque des personnes sont tombées dans la rue, tuées par le virus invisible. A partir de là se pose le problème du profit maximal, comme pour toute méga-entreprise : comment gagner beaucoup d'argent avec un minimum d'effort ?

Une des solutions semble avoir été de coopter Heiko van der Leyen au conseil d'administration d'Oregensis (étroitement lié à Pfizer côté test, comme on l'a vu). L'événement clé s'est produit en décembre 2020, à peine 8 mois après le début de la pandémie. Et quelques mois avant que sa femme Ursula ne signe un contrat de 36 milliards de dollars avec Pfizer. Mais jusqu'au méga-contrat et autres « primes de performance », nous avons tous assisté à un bond spectaculaire du salaire de base d'environ 300 000 dollars par an (en Allemagne) à plus de 1,5 million de dollars (chez Orgenesis). Je précise : uniquement le salaire en tant que membre du conseil d'administration. Sans les autres bonus. »

  « Up to 300,000 people in the UK are facing heart-related illnesses due to post-pandemic stress disorder (PPSD), two London physicians have warned.

This could result in a 4.5 per cent rise in cardiovascular cases nationally because of the effects of PPSD, with those aged between 30 to 45 most at-risk, they claim.

Mark Rayner, a former senior NHS psychological therapist and founder of EASE Wellbeing CIC, said that as many as three million people in Britain are already suffering from PPSD, thanks to stress and anxiety caused by the effects of Covid-19.

He fears this could result in a dramatic rise in physical health issues, such as coronary heart failure, if cases are not detected or treated early. »

  Se référant aux données de santé du gouvernement britannique qui montrent une augmentation substantielle du nombre de décès liés à la cardiologie, le Dr Malhotra a noté que « quelqu'un d'une institution britannique très prestigieuse – un chercheur du département de cardiologie [et] un lanceur d'alerte – m'a contacté pour dire que les

- 2 décembre 2021 : Covid - Absence de Danger pour les Jeunes - Étude - « Huge new study shows ZERO Covid deaths of healthy German kids over 4 or adolescents »

  « German physician-scientists reported Monday that not a single healthy child between the ages of 5 and 18 died of Covid in Germany in the first 15 months of the epidemic. Not one. Even including children and adolescents with preexisting conditions, only six in that age range died, the researchers found. Germany is Europe's largest country, with more than 80 million people, including about 10 million school-age children and adolescents. Serious illness was also extremely rare. The odds that a healthy child aged 5-11 would require intensive care for Covid were about 1 in 50,000, the researchers found. For older and younger children, the odds were somewhat higher, about 1 in 8,000. Another eight infants and toddlers died, including five with preexisting conditions. In all, 14 Germans under 18 died of Covid, about one per month. About 1.5 million German children or adolescents were infected with Sars-Cov-2 between March 2020 and May 2021, the researchers found. "Overall, the SARS-CoV-2-associated burden of a severe disease course or death in children and adolescents is low," the researchers reported. "This seems particularly the case for 5-11-year-old children without comorbidities." »

  « Thanks to the efforts of a group called Public Health and Medical Professionals for Transparency, we now have smoking gun confidential documents that show Pfizer and the FDA knew in early 2021 that pfizer's mRNA vaccines were killing thousands of people and causing spontaneous abortions while damaging three times more women than men.

  One confidential document in particular was part of a court-ordered release of FDA files that the FDA fought by claiming the agency should have 55 years to release this information. A court judge disagreed and ordered the release of 500 documents per month, and the very first batch of documents contained this bombshell entitled, "Cumulative Analysis of Post-Authorization Adverse Event Reports."

  « If immune erosion occurs after two doses and just a few months, how can we exclude the possibility that effects of an untested "booster" will not erode more rapidly and to a greater extent?'

  A Lancet study comparing vaccinated and unvaccinated people in Sweden was conducted among 1.6 million individuals over nine months. It showed that protection against symptomatic COVID-19 declined with time, such that by six months, some of the more vulnerable vaccinated groups were at greater risk than their unvaccinated peers.

Doctors are calling this phenomena in the repeatedly vaccinated "immune erosion" or "acquired immune deficiency", accounting for elevated incidence of myocarditis and other post-vaccine illnesses that either affect them more rapidly, resulting in death, or more slowly, resulting in chronic illness.

COVID vaccines are not traditional vaccines. Rather, they cause cells to reproduce one portion of the SARS-CoV-2 virus, the spike protein. The vaccines thus induce the body to create spike proteins. A person only creates antibodies against this one limited portion (the spike protein) of the virus. This has several downstream deleterious effects. »

Description du jeu par Wikipedia :

« Dans un univers futuriste en trois dimensions, le joueur explore son environnement, la ville d'Omikron, une ville placée sous le contrôle d'un ordinateur intelligent et enfermée sous un dôme de verre la protégeant du violent climat extérieur. Il officie sous l'identité d'un policier de la ville dont il a investi le corps, et enquête sur des meurtres en série et peut transférer son esprit dans trente personnages différents, afin d'avancer dans l'histoire et découvrir certains aspects surnaturels liés à l'histoire ancienne de la ville. Le jeu se déroule tantôt dans une vue à la troisième personne ou latérale dans les combats à mains nues et à la première personne dans les combats armés. »

  « This claim is regularly used as an argument for vaccine mandates, and/or unvaxxed-only lockdowns.

  But is it true?

  In a word, no.

  ICUs are not "full" of unvaccinated covid patients, they're not even full of covid cases. In fact, they're not even full at all.

  As of last week, NHS England's own bed statistics reported that England has 4330 available critical care beds, of which 894 (21%) are being used by Covid patients, 2608 (60%) non-Covid patients and 828 (19%) were empty.

  So, England's critical care beds are not even 90% full, let alone 90% full of unvaccinated covid patients.

  But let's be charitable and assume these people misspoke or communicated their point badly. Let's assume they meant 90% of covid hospitalisations are unvaccinated.

  That, at least, is true right? Wrong.

  The actual number is 35.4%

  According to the UK's Health Security Agency data (page 31 of this document) 6639 patients were admitted to hospital "with Covid" in the weeks 44-47 of this year. Of those 6639, 2355 were unvaccinated. »

  Au 2 novembre 2020 (Covid) : 543 073
  Au 2 novembre 2021 : 545 321 (chiffre provisoire qui sera revu à la hausse avec les déclarations de décès en attente).

  1. Malgré les vaccins si prometteurs, on ait plus de morts en 2021 qu'en 2020 ?
  2. Malgré deux petites vaguelettes de Covid, on ait plus de morts en 2021 qu'en 2020 ?
  3. Malgré des masques protecteurs d'autres maladies, des gestes barrière, des couvre-feu, des restrictions et un pass sanitaire, on ait plus de morts en 2021 qu'en 2020 ?

Si tous les vieux, les fragiles, et ceux avec comorbidités sont décédés en masse en 2020 lorsque le virus était plus virulent (ce qu'on appelle "une année moisson"), QUI décède en 2021, en surnombre par rapport à 2019 ?

"On peut discuter de tout, sauf des chiffres". Et ceux de la mortalité toutes causes sont questionnants. Voire inquiétants. Non en fait, ils sont flippants.

- 8 décembre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Moderna - Danemark - Suède - « Les vaccins sont parfaitement sûrs, sauf si vous êtes jeune et suédois »

  « Prenez le vaccin Moderna, que les gouvernements nord-américains approuvent pour les personnes de moins de 30 ans. Si vous êtes un

Suédois de 29 ans, votre gouvernement a décidé de ne pas autoriser son utilisation à partir du 1er décembre, prolongeant ainsi l'arrêt mis en place début octobre. La Finlande a une interdiction similaire, tandis que le Danemark propose le vaccin Moderna aux personnes de plus de 18 ans, mais pas de moins de 18 ans. L'Islande a complètement abandonné l'utilisation de Moderna.

Les autorités de ces pays scandinaves craignent que Moderna n'entraîne un risque inutile de myocardite chez les jeunes, en particulier chez les jeunes hommes et surtout après la deuxième injection. Leurs autorités sanitaires orientent les gens plutôt vers le vaccin Pfizer à faible dose qui contient 30 microgrammes d'ARNm, l'agent vivant, contre 100 microgrammes chez Moderna.

La Haute Autorité de santé française a non seulement déconseillé Moderna aux moins de 30 ans, mais elle a également retiré le mois dernier sa recommandation à toute personne, quel que soit son âge, de recevoir un rappel Moderna – et ce, même si elle recommande explicitement Moderna plutôt que Pfizer aux plus de 30 ans pour les deux premières doses. Les autorités des États-Unis et du Canada n'ont pas de telles interdictions, même si, pour les jeunes hommes, Moderna présente un taux de cas de myocardite cinq fois supérieur à celui du Pfizer.

Le vaccin Pfizer suscite lui aussi des inquiétudes. En novembre, le Central Epidemic Command Center de Taïwan a décidé de suspendre la deuxième injection de Pfizer aux jeunes de 12 à 17 ans après que 16 adolescents taïwanais avaient développé une myocardite. Taïwan recommencera à vacciner les jeunes à la mi-décembre, en recommandant que la deuxième injection soit effectuée 12 semaines après la première, mais peut-être pas si l'enfant a eu une réaction indésirable à la première injection. Taïwan reconnaît que le vaccin Pfizer augmente les risques de contracter une myocardite, en particulier chez les jeunes garçons, et demande des lettres d'intention et le consentement des parents avant qu'un enfant puisse être vacciné. »

COMMUNIQUÉ

Signalement à l'encontre du Dr Gilbert Deray

Ces dernières semaines, le Dr Gilbert Deray, spécialiste des pathologies du rein, s'est exprimé au sujet et en faveur de la vaccination des enfants entre 5 et 11 ans contre le Covid-19 à l'occasion de différentes émissions télévisées et radiophoniques.

Cependant, il ressort des données acquises de la science que les informations et données diffusées par le Dr Deray sont fausses et trompeuses et de nature à induire en erreur les téléspectateurs et auditeurs sur l'opportunité de la vaccination des enfants de 5-11 ans.

1. La Haute Autorité de Santé a conclu qu'aucun enfant n'est décédé du Covid-19 en France, seuls 3 enfants sont décédés avec le Covid-19 étant atteints d'autres maux (avis du 25 novembre 2021) ;
2. L'existence du Covid long n'est pas scientifiquement établie chez les enfants, bien au contraire (avis du 25 novembre 2021) ;
3. Les IRM cérébrales des enfants atteints du Covid-19 ne montrent pas des images similaires à celles de patients atteints d'Alzheimer ou de Parkinson, ce constat a été fait dans une étude sur 14 personnes âgées de 50 à 95 ans ;
4. La Société Française de Pédiatrie, la SPILF, la CNP de Pédiatrie, le GPIP et l'AFPA ont dans un communiqué du 15 novembre 2021 conclu que pour les enfants de 5-11 ans, à l'exception de ceux ayant une pathologie spécifique générant un risque de forme grave de Covid-19, il est préférable de privilégier l'immunité naturelle.

Enfance & Libertés a donc décidé de signaler, dans un premier temps, les faits auprès de la procureure de la République près le Tribunal Judiciaire de Paris ce jour par l'entremise de ses avocats Séverine Manna et Ludovic Heringuez.

« Enfance & Libertés » est une association issue du rassemblement des collectifs de parents situés dans toute la France, autour d'établissements et de communautés éducatives. Cette union est animée par des représentants des régions et de différents courants dans le but principal de protéger les enfants, notamment en assouplissant le protocole sanitaire à l'école, en leur permettant de retrouver une scolarité adaptée aux âges qui les concernent, qu'ils soient en école, au collège ou au lycée, et en redonnant la liberté aux parents de les prémunir des risques encourus.

  « Children do not readily acquire this pathogen, spread to other children, spread to adults, take it home, get severely ill, or die from it. It is that simple. We know children tend not to transmit Covid-19 virus and that the concept of asymptomatic spread has been questioned severely, particularly for children.

  Children, if infected, just do not spread Covid-19 to others readily, either to other children, other adults in their families or otherwise, nor to their teachers. This was demonstrated elegantly in a study performed in the French Alps. The pediatric literature is clear science on this. Overwhelming data shows that the SARS-CoV-2-associated burden of severe disease or death in children and adolescents is very low (statistically zero).

  Swedish data by Ludvigsson reported on the 1,951,905 children in Sweden (as of December 31, 2020) who were 1 to 16 years of age who attended school with largely no lockdowns or masks. They found zero (0) deaths. »

  « Susanne Fürst of the Austrian Freedom Party (FPÖ), which voted against the amendment, warned that it could be used to punish the unjabbed with much harsher sentences.

The amendment raises fines from €726 (£617/$818) to €2,000 (£1,701/$2,255) and increases prison time for those who refuse to pay from four weeks to up to a year.

Given that Austrians who don't get vaccinated by February face fines of up to €7,200 ($8,000) for non-compliance, those who refuse to pay would also face a 12 month jail sentence.

The amendment also orders people who are jailed to pay for their own imprisonment.

"If detention is carried out by the courts, the associated costs shall be recovered by the courts from the obligated party in accordance with the provisions existing for the recovery of the costs of enforcing judicial penalties," it states.

Despite Fürst protesting that the amendment could be used to further punish the unvaccinated, the measure was approved anyway.

At the time it was announced, then Chancellor Alexander Schallenberg vowed to hit the unvaccinated with "penalties" if they still refused to get the jab, while asserting that they should "suffer." »

  « Myocarditis is inflammation of the heart manifested by chest pain, signs and symptoms of heart failure, dramatic ECG changes, elevations in a blood test indicating cardiac damage (troponin), and in some cases, imaging evidence of dysfunction of the heart. Rose and McCullough have demonstrated in the US CDC VAERS System that COVID-19 vaccine-induced myocarditis peaks in late adolescents but has a long skewed tail of cases up to age 50 and the vast majority of cases are men.

  Hoeg and colleagues have demonstrated that the expected rates of myocarditis in young persons aged 12-17 could be as high as 162 cases/million persons injected. This is far greater than the background rate of 4 cases/million/year before COVID-19, as described by Arola and colleagues in Finland. Hoeg demonstrated that a young person is more likely to be hospitalized with vaccine-induced myocarditis than ever be hospitalized from COVID-19 respiratory illness.

  Sadly, there are 15,424 confirmed myocarditis/pericarditis cases in the US CDC VAERS system. The explosion of sudden cardiac death among high-level athletes has drawn attention to the possibility that COVID-19 vaccination forced upon the players may induce a subclinical or perhaps denied syndrome of myocarditis that can last for months. »

- 15 décembre 2021 : Fauci et le Sida - « Fauci et la grande escroquerie du sida, en guise d'échauffement à celle du Covid » - Laurent Guyénot

  « Le sida et l'AZT

  En 1984, lorsque Fauci est devenu directeur du NIAID, la crise du sida était hors de contrôle. Cela s'est avéré être « un moment de rédemption pour le NIAID et la rampe de lancement de l'ascension fulgurante du Dr Fauci ». Lors d'une conférence de presse en avril 1984, Robert Gallo, un scientifique du NIH, a établi un lien entre le sida et le virus qui allait bientôt être appelé VIH. Le Dr Fauci s'est alors empressé de revendiquer la compétence de son agence sur l'Institut national du cancer (NCI), une autre sous-agence des NIH. « En tant que tsar du sida nouvellement nommé, le Dr Fauci était désormais le gardien de presque toutes les recherches sur le sida… Se faisant l'écho des vœux du NCI de guérir le cancer, le Dr

Fauci a promis au Congrès qu'il produirait rapidement des médicaments et des vaccins pour bannir le sida. »
En même temps, il répandait délibérément la terreur de la contagion, avertissant dans un article alarmiste de 1983 que « l'étendue du syndrome peut être énorme », puisque « les contacts étroits de routine, comme au sein d'une famille, peuvent propager la maladie » – malgré le fait que le SIDA était presque exclusivement réservé aux utilisateurs de drogues par voie intraveineuse et aux homosexuels masculins. Un an plus tard, Fauci a été contraint de concéder que les responsables de la santé n'avaient jamais détecté un cas de maladie transmise par « contact occasionnel ». Néanmoins, la réponse systématique du Dr Fauci a été « d'amplifier la panique généralisée d'une pestilence redoutée qui allait naturellement amplifier son pouvoir, rehausser son profil et étendre son influence. L'amplification de la terreur des maladies infectieuses était déjà une réaction institutionnelle automatique au NIAID ». »

  « The American Heart Association has published a new study which has found that 98% of all cases of Myocarditis among children are due to the mRNA Covid-19 injections.

  The new study was conducted by dozens of doctors and scientists from several Universities, Children's Hospitals, and Schools of Medicine across the USA and was published on the American Heart Association's (AHA) journal 'Circulation' on December 6th 2021.

  The researchers investigated 139 children and young adults with 140 episodes of suspected myocarditis, of which 49 were confirmed and 91 were probable. Most of the patients were male (126) and the median age was 15.8 years.

Myocarditis is inflammation of the heart muscle, whereas pericarditis is inflammation of the protective sacs surrounding the heart. Both are extremely serious conditions due to the vital role the heart plays in keeping a person alive, and the fact that the heart muscle cannot regenerate. Serious myocarditis can lead to cardiac arrest and knock years off a persons life. »

« Denmark has begun providing very specific daily case counts split out for the omicron variant. I think many are misinterpreting this data due to an idiosyncrasy of how it is presented. Below I will address this issue and provide what I believe is a way to mitigate it.

Cliff notes:

- vaccines, including boosters are showing strong negative efficacy vs omicron
- this is consistent with omicron being as OAS enabled escape variant
- omicron continues to show evidence of mildness relative to past variants

For this analysis, I relied upon the danish national data published HERE and HERE.

For % vaccinated by date, i relied on our world in data HERE

Table 4. Vaccination status for individuals ≥12 years infected with Omicron compared to other variants, data included in the table are from 22 November to 14 December 2021

Tabel 4. Vaccinationsstatus for personer ≥12 år med omikron-infektion sammenlignet med andre varianter i perioden fra og med 22. november 2021 til og med 14. december 2021

Vaccination status (12+ year olds)	Other variants (No. of cases)	Other variants (%)	Omicron (No. of cases)	Omicron (%)
Booster vaccinated	6,679	7.3	1,074	10.3
Fully vaccinated	60,174	66.0	8,235	78.7
Not vaccinated	21,364	23.5	947	9.0
Received first dose	2,887	3.2	214	2.0
Total	91,104	100.0	10,470	100.0

- 20 décembre 2021 : Vaccins - Dangers - Étude - « Unintended Consequences of mRNA Shots: miscarriages, heart attacks, myopericarditis, thrombocytopenia, shingles, Bell's palsy »

  « MIT scientist Stephanie Seneff's paper,1 "Worse Than the Disease: Reviewing Some Possible Unintended Consequences of mRNA Vaccines Against COVID-19," published in the International Journal of Vaccine Theory, Practice and Research in collaboration with Dr. Greg Nigh, is still one of the best, most comprehensive descriptions of the many possible unintended consequences of the mRNA gene transfer technologies incorrectly referred to as "COVID vaccines."

  December 9, 2021, their paper was reprinted in the Townsend Letter, the Examiner of Alternative Medicine.2 Seneff, Ph.D., a senior research scientist at MIT who has been conducting research at MIT for over five decades, has spent a large portion of her career investigating the hazards and mechanisms of action of glyphosate.
  Her attention was diverted to the science of mRNA gene transfer technologies in early 2020, when Operation Warp Speed was announced. As noted in her paper, many factors that lacked precedent, yet were being implemented at breakneck speed, included:

  1. The first-ever use of PEG in an injection

2. The first-ever use of mRNA gene transfer technology against an infectious agent
3. The first-ever "vaccine" to make no clear claims about reducing infection, transmissibility or death
4. The first-ever coronavirus vaccine ever tested on humans (and previous coronavirus vaccines all failed due to antibody-dependent enhancement, a condition in which the antibodies actually facilitate infection rather than defend against it)
5. The first-ever use of genetically modified polynucleotides in the general population

An Insanely Reckless Process

In a May 2021 interview with me, Seneff said:

"To have developed this incredibly new technology so quickly, and to skip so many steps in the process of evaluating [its safety], it's an insanely reckless thing that they've done. My instinct was that this is bad, and I needed to know [the truth].

So, I really dug into the research literature by the people who've developed these vaccines, and then more extensive research literature around those topics. And I don't see how these vaccines can possibly be doing anything good …"

At the time, just five months into the mass inoculation campaign, Seneff suspected the COVID shots would end up killing far more people than the infection itself. Today, a full year into it, the statistics are grim beyond belief, proving her educated prediction to have been an astute one.

mRNA Jabs Are Shockingly Hazardous

As of December 3, 2021, the U.S. Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) has logged an astounding 927,738 COVID jab related adverse events, including 19,886 deaths.3 VAERS can receive reports from vaccine manufacturers and other international sources, and if we exclude those, the death toll reported in U.S. territories exclusively stands at 9,136.4

Of the total death reports, Pfizer — the only company that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has granted full licensing for an as-yet unavailable COVID shot — accounts for the vast majority: 13,268, compared to 4,894 for Moderna, 1,651 for Janssen and 73 for an undisclosed brand. »

  « Lockdowns were one of the "greatest peacetime policy disasters of all time," concludes Professor Douglas Allen in a paper just published by the International Journal of the Economics of Business.

Elsewhere, a team of researchers with the National Bureau of Economic Research "failed to find" any evidence that lockdowns led to a reduction in the covid death rate. In fact, the researchers—who examined data from forty-three countries and all US states—found that lockdowns were positively correlated with a higher total death rate. That preventing people from engaging in work, school, and socialization would cause widespread suffering is hardly surprising. Sadly, Nevadans are all too familiar with this fact. »

  « Five of 18 eastern European countries have registered major violations of international democratic freedoms since March 2020, according to researchconducted by the Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) Institute, compared with none of 12 western European countries.

  The research also shows that eastern European countries have been more likely to turn to abusive enforcement, disinformation and discriminatory measures, with the most common violation being restrictions on the media.

  The worst violations were observed in Serbia, which recorded a violations score three times higher than the European average. Under a special regime implemented in a declared state of emergency, refugees, migrants and asylum seekers were selectively targeted and put under strict 24-hour quarantine, controlled by the military. They were banned from leaving the centres, while support staff were prevented from entering. »
